Forethought, Planning and Work Bring Success

The Preparation entertain parents and students with music during the Precis Pageant.

The Making of a Yearbook, 1974

Highlighted in a darkened gym, the beauties await the final decision of the Pageant judges.

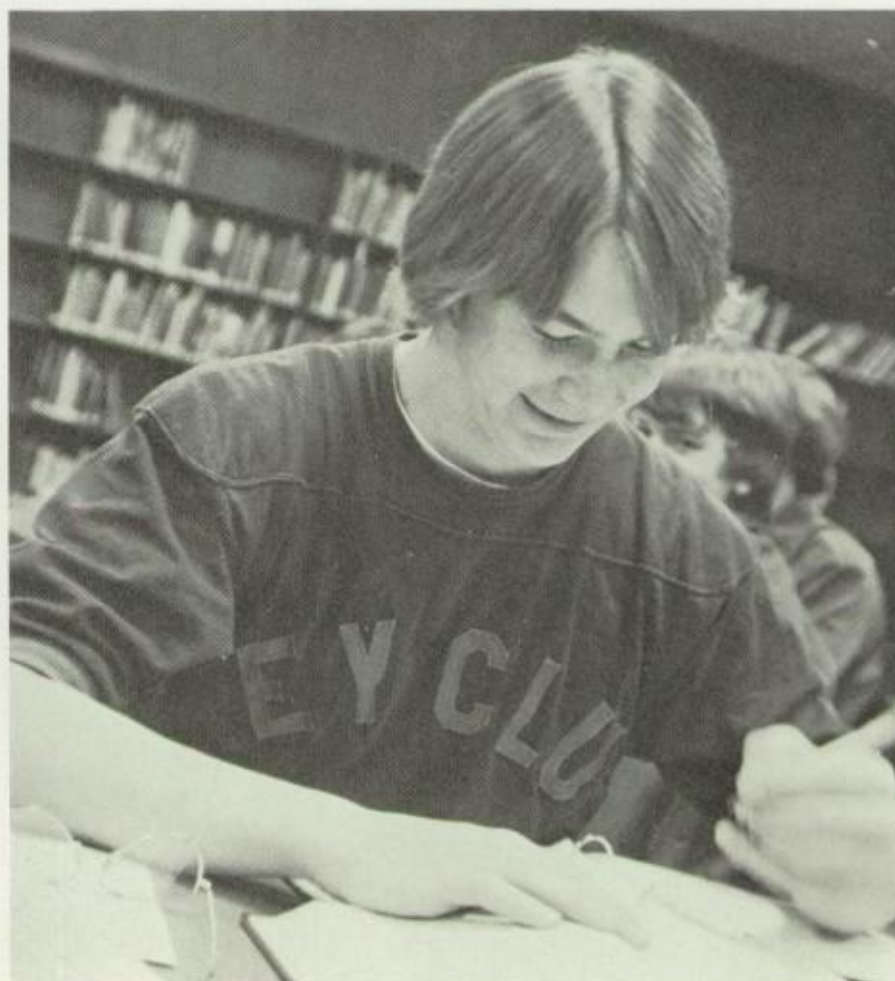

Yearbooks exist to capture the year and hold it for all to see. Obviously, each year is different. Therefore, each yearbook should be different—each should reflect a particular year. Three years have shown three editions of the Precis, all with similar covers and similar formats. To record this year more accurately, both the cover and the format were changed, hopefully for the better.

The most obvious change is the cover. Lithograph such as this allows an additional surface for communication, the prime duty of a yearbook. Another step designed to increase the usable area is the use of extended margins within the Features section. The third change will become obvious on the title page.

Sometimes the relevance of extracurricular activities to the curricular aspect of school life is not apparent. To remedy this situation, the "traditional" organization was abandoned. No longer are organizations relegated to one particular spot in the book. No longer are athletics confined to one particular place. No longer are academics isolated. No longer is student life pinpointed in one place. All four have been combined in one major section—Features. Within this section the events of the year unfold in semi-chronological sequences. Organizations and academic subjects follow in logical, related sequences. The many diverse activities composing school life blend into one.

It is our hope that these experimental efforts will lead to a better yearbook.

Diverse Interests Permeate Prep Student Body

Diversity indicates participation in a great variety of activities. Naturally, any student will be engaged in the curricular aspects of a school. That is why he (or she) is in school. But that student has the option of participating in extra-curricular activities, either school or community sponsored. And within the community of one thousand known as Jackson Prep, the spectrum of extra-curricular activities is rather large. If one activity fails to interest a student, then there is always another. And active participation is not required, for some extra-curricular activities are ideal for spectator participation.

Areas of student interest ran the gamut from competitive events to service projects. Students could be seen competing throughout the South in athletic, forensic, dramatic, and music contests. Others used their talents on stage in ballet and dramatics for the enjoyment of Jacksonians. Still others spent their time in community and school service, working with church and school groups. All students had some form of work and recreation.

With a large student body, many various forms of recreation easily developed, each form having its own following. With such varied activities interwoven into the fabric of school life, this life takes on an added dimension of meaning, unique to each student.

Diversity also carries a significant meaning for the school as a whole. It means that the school will be able to offer activities that will interest and involve growing numbers of students. Two results will be seen. First, the students will develop closer ties with the school and its students, creating an atmosphere conducive to smooth student-school relations. Then the school itself will benefit by its growing standing in community evaluation. Thus, the diversity that exists is beneficial.

FEATURES

The Features section is a curious blend of sports, organizations, academics, and school activities. Since all four combine to form the curricular and extra-curricular aspects of school life, it seems only fitting that they be presented together. This format allows the year to unfold almost as it actually did, and also allows the relationship and relevance of the many activities and factors of school life to be brought to light.

Cheerleaders, Pep Rallies Ignite School Spirit

The great spirit and enthusiasm of Prep's cheerleaders helped boost the Patriots to another winning year. Even before school began they were hard at work practicing for the coming year. In July they attended the Mid-South Cheerleader Institute at Ole Miss. At this clinic, sponsored by the National Cheerleader Association, the cheerleaders received several honors as well as experience and new ideas. When school began, the student body recognized their enthusiasm as they painted signs and crash sheets, organized bonfires and helped arrange buses for out of town games. Later in the year the cheerleaders worked with Miss Jordan, their sponsor, in the fund-raising "student directory" sale. In April they conducted Prep's annual cheerleading clinic.

Patriots Boast Fine 9-1-1 Season

The gridiron Patriots maintained the winning image at Prep by posting a fine 9-1-1 season. Although plagued by pre-season injuries, the Pats began the season with thrilling victories over many strong opponents. In the weeks that followed, the explosive offense resembled that of the undefeated 1971 team.

A balanced offense led by powerhouse runner Jimmy Etheridge and breakaway sprinter David Campbell totaled 2,55, infantry yards. And when the Pats weren't bulldozing to paydirt, quarterback Mark Clark was completing passes to Les Kimbrough, Jack Bickerstaff, and Skippy Daniels. Line-men Dav Mosby, Talby Bevill, Chip Jones, Bill Webb, Billy Mounger, George May and others aided in the compilation of 3062 yards and 307 points through the season.

While the offense piled up points, the defense prevented opponents from doing so. Jeff Glover, David Traxler, Craig Flowers, Ralph Wells, and Jeff Burnham stopped the running game while Clint Ivey, Eddie Rives and Reese Bowen halted the aerial attack. The stingy defense allowed only 1447 yards and 131 points.

The specialty teams had their glory also, accounting for 51 points, 33 from the toe of Glen Warren. Defensively, the specialty teams allowed only one field goal and nine points after touchdown.

Pats Fly to Opening Victory

The kick-off team starts another victorious football game.

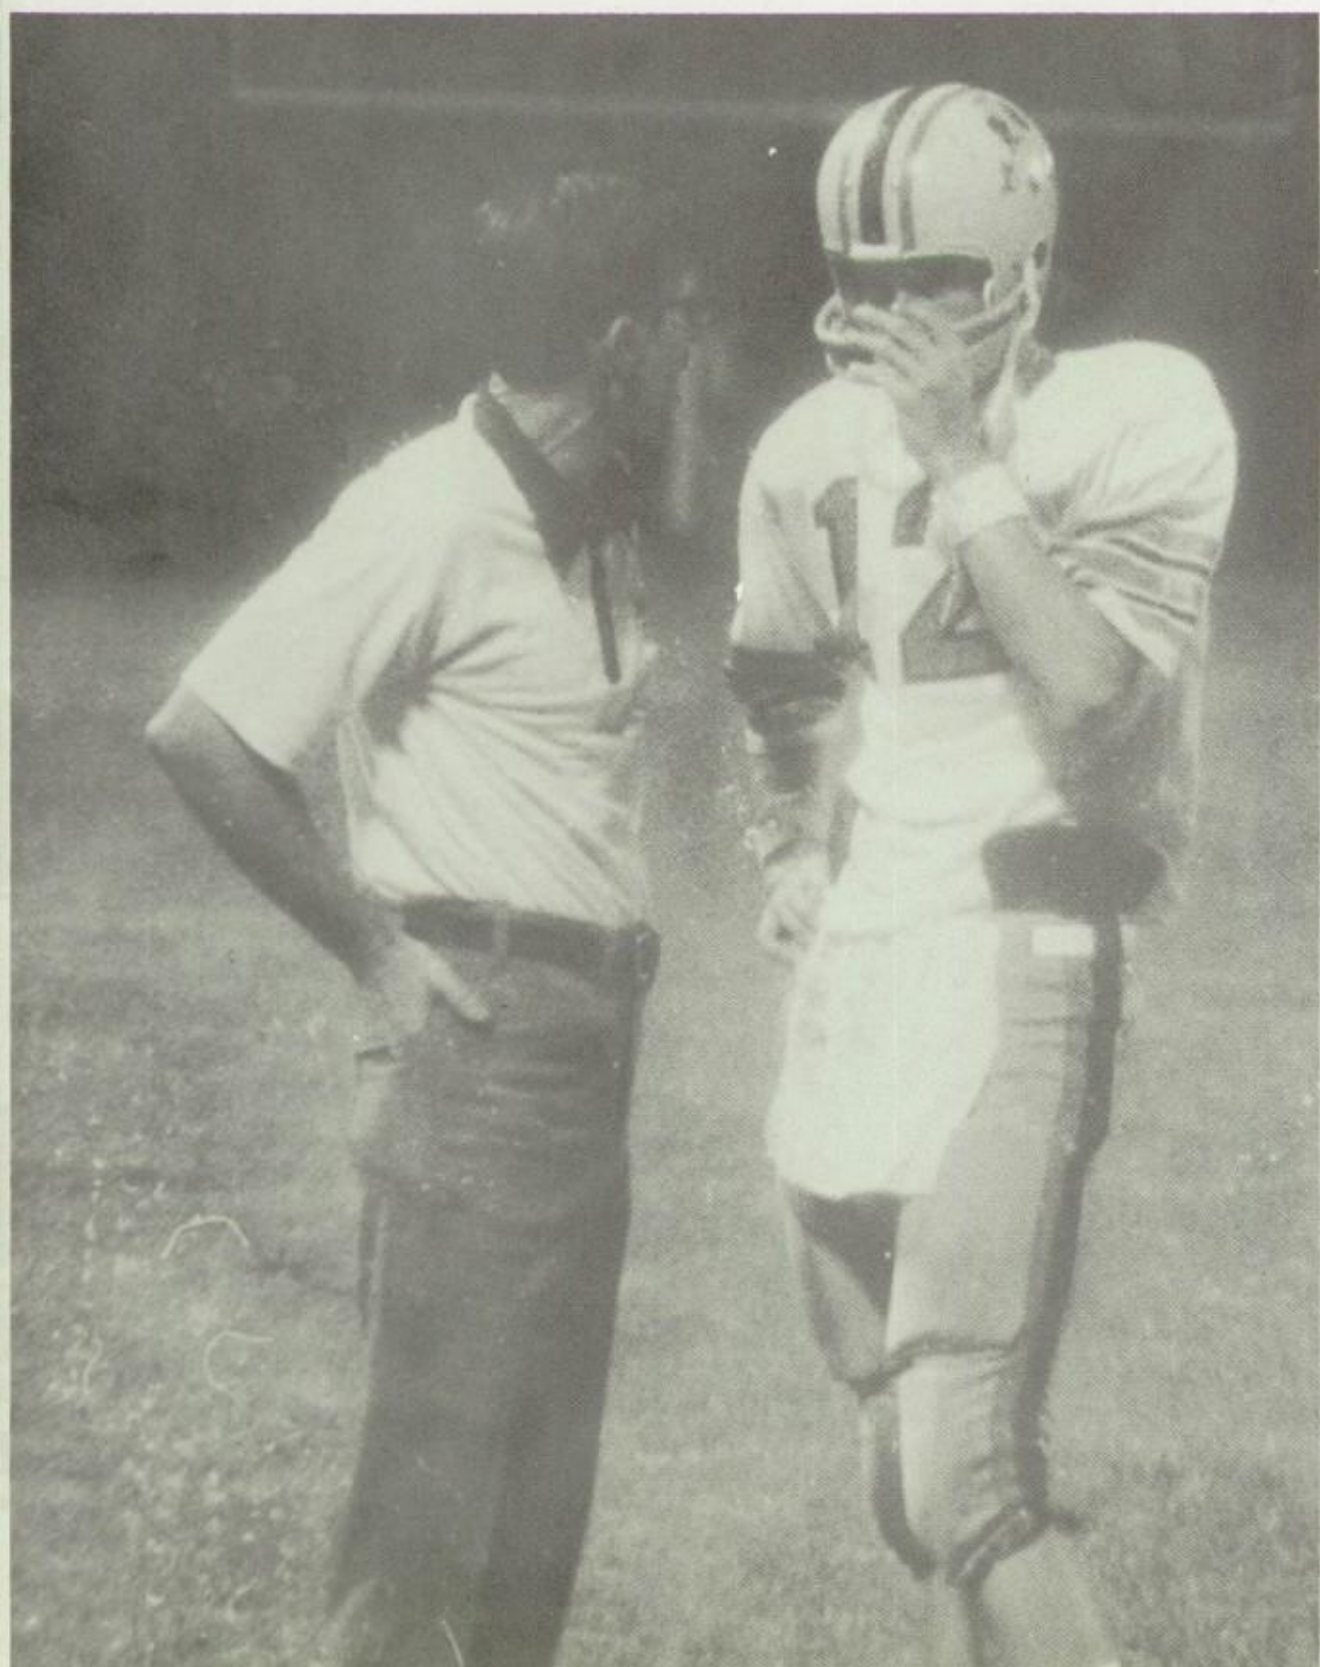

The opening game against the Glenwood Gators of Phoenix City, Alabama turned out to be a thriller. After a scoreless first quarter, Glenwood jumped ahead as halfback David Adams scored from seven yards out. Prep came alive after the score and immediately drove to the Gator's five yard line only to settle for a 22 yard field goal, narrowing the gap to 6-3 at the half.

The Gators came out of the dressing room fired up as Curry scored on a 51 yard burst to make the score 12-3. Once again a Gator score ignited the Patriots as they came roaring back with a 14 play drive capped by a 23 yard strike from Daniels to Kimbrough, making the score 12-9.

Prep's defense held and on the following series David Campbell raced around right end for 49 yards, setting up Jimmy Etheridge's touchdown run for a 15-12 lead. The game went right down to the wire as Prep's goal-line defense held out to the end of the game.

Pat's Smash in Second Game Victory

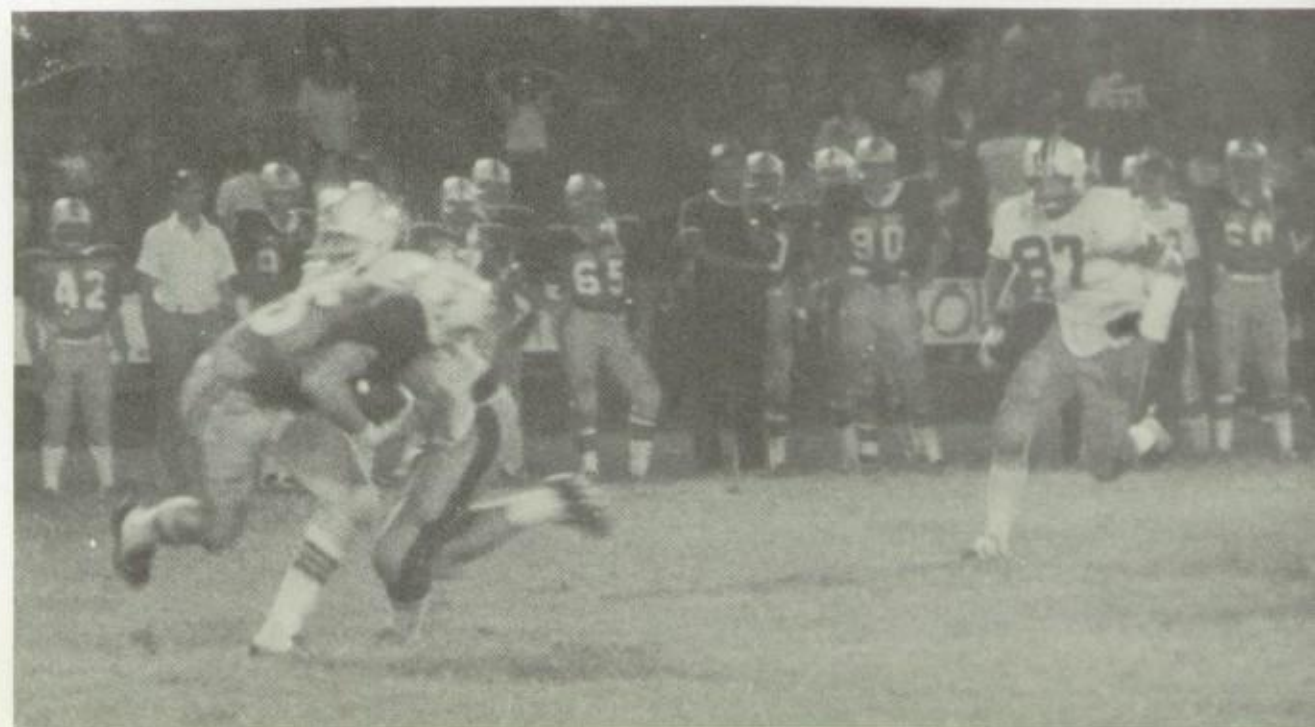

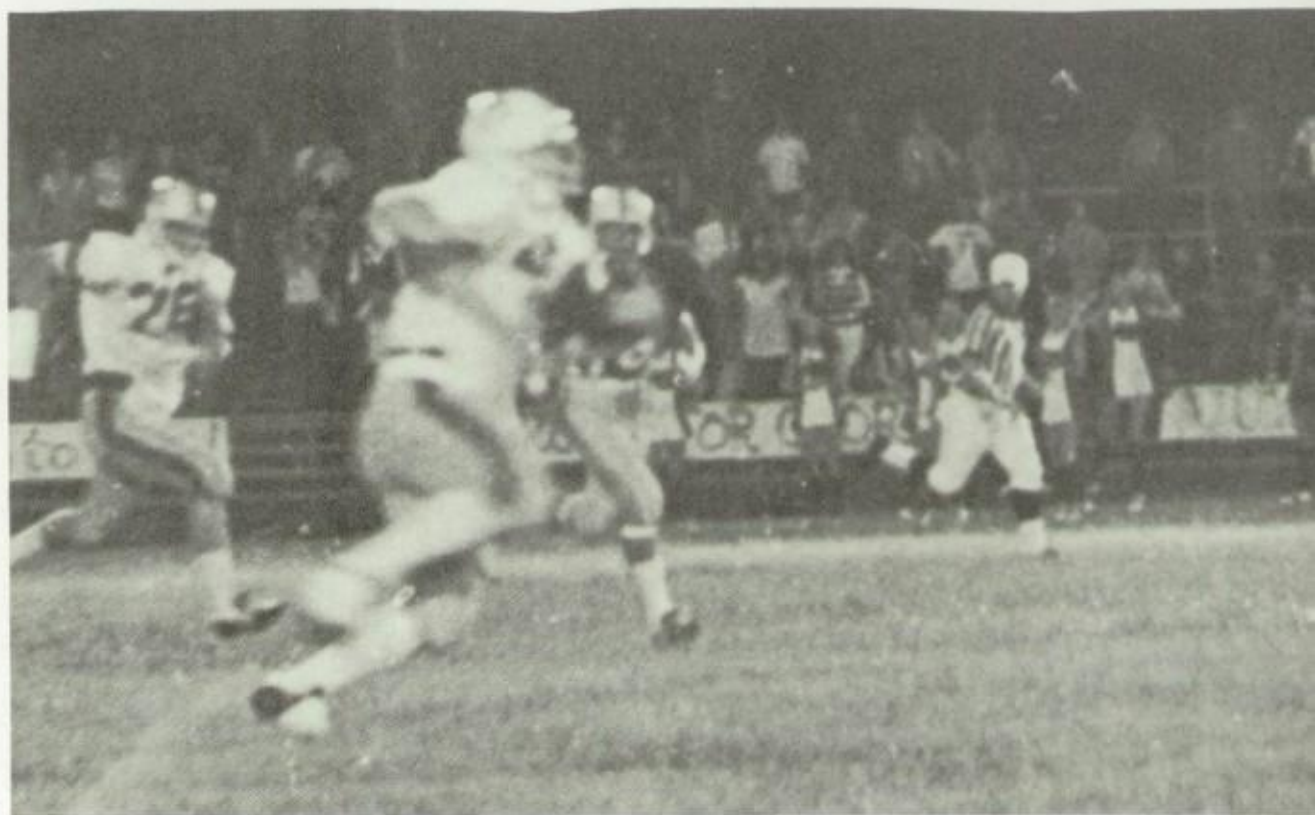

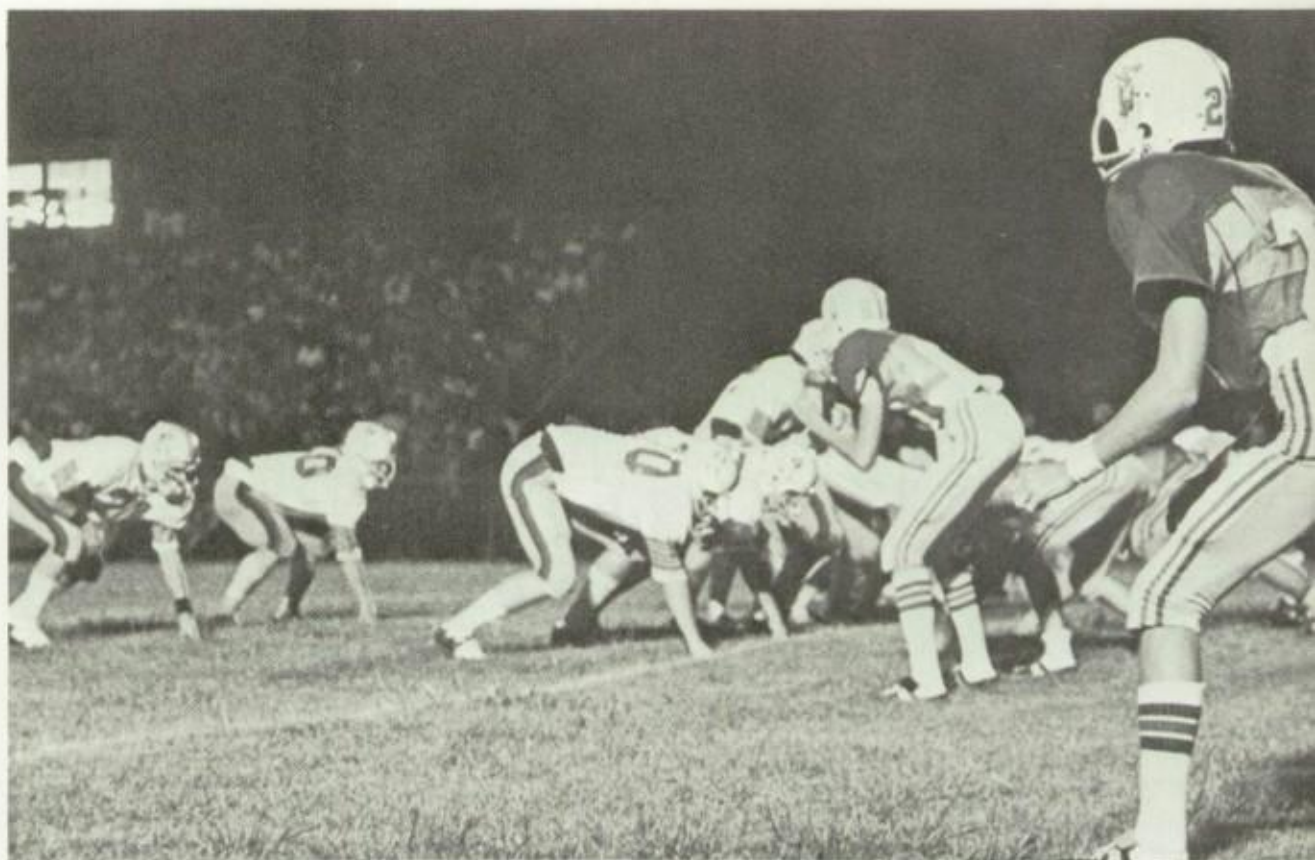

Prep dominated this contest against the visiting Copiah Colonels and breezed to a painless 49-0 triumph.

The Patriots drove 69 yards in six plays the first time they had the ball with Etheridge rushing for all but four yards in the drive. His six yard run capped the march with 7:16 left in the first quarter. Glen Warren kicked his first of seven extra points to give the Patriots a 7-0 lead. Prep's defense held Copiah scoreless as the offense exploded for three more touchdowns in the first half. The scores consisted of: a 32-yard touchdown pass from Skip Daniels to Les Kimbrough, an 11-yard scoring burst by Daniels midway in the second quarter, and a 44-yard scoring strike from Daniels to Kimbrough with 11 seconds to go in the half.

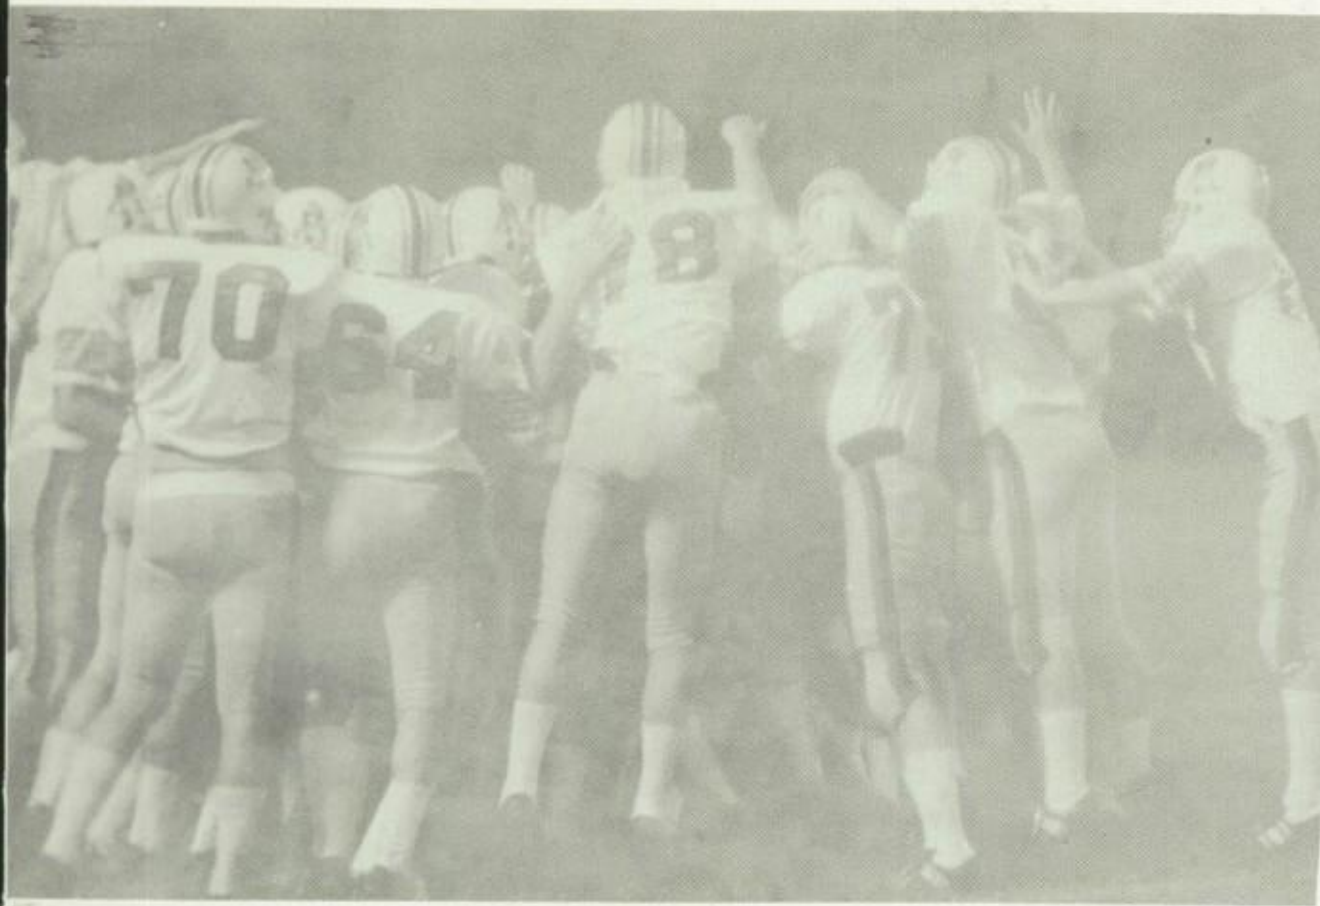

After being injured in the second quarter, Etheridge re-entered the game in the second half and scored Prep's fifth touchdown on a five yard burst midway in the third quarter.

Sophomore quarterback Greg Wood guided the Patriots in a 29-yard scoring drive late in the game. Wood passed to Johnny Wade to give Prep a first down at the six and two plays later Wood scored on a keeper around left end. Reese Bowen, 130 pound sophomore intercepted a Perry Hickman pass and returned it 70 yards for Prep's final touchdown.

Pats Rip Pathers 28-7

A fired up Patriot squad is ready for the opposition.

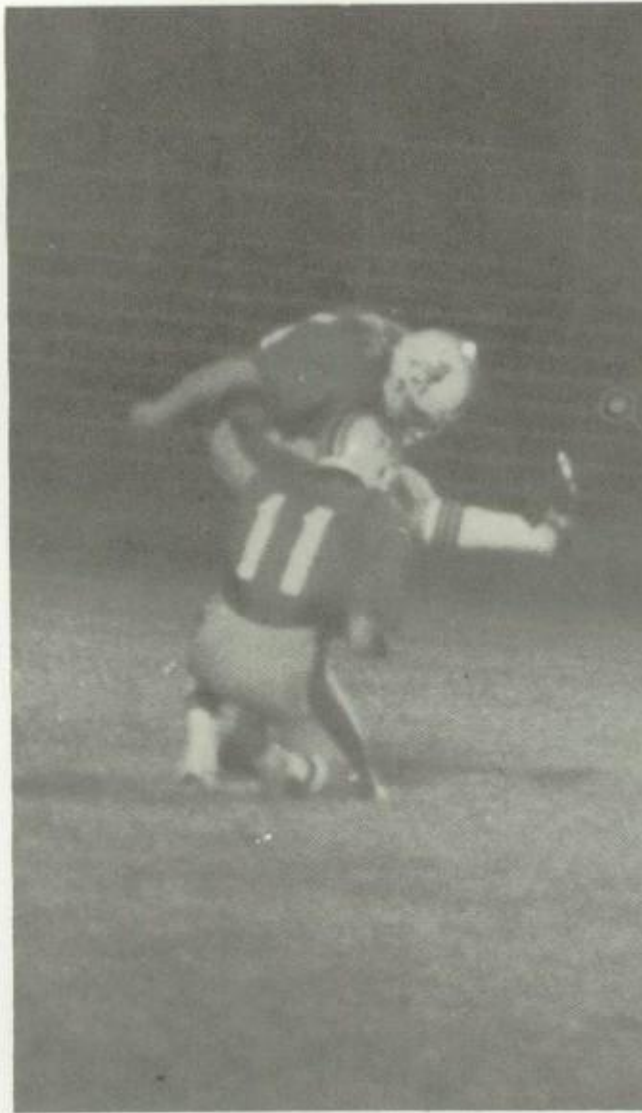

Held to a single touchdown lead through three quarters of play, the Jackson Prep Patriots finally blew the game wide open in the fourth quarter with freight train fullback Jimmy Etheridge going over twice from six and three yards out to insure a Patriot victory over a tough Canton Academy team. The game was interrupted by 18 penalties. The Patriots amassed 13 penalties for 175 yards more than Canton could produce on offense against a stingy Prep defense. Even with all those penalties, the Pats were able to gross 405 yards in total offense. All but 23 yards of it was collected via a slashing ground attack led by Jimmy Etheridge and halfback David Campbell. Jimmy Etheridge who carried the mail for all 4 of Prep's touchdowns and David Campbell who gained 154 yards on 15 carries.

Prep Scores Early, Often For Victory Over Barthe

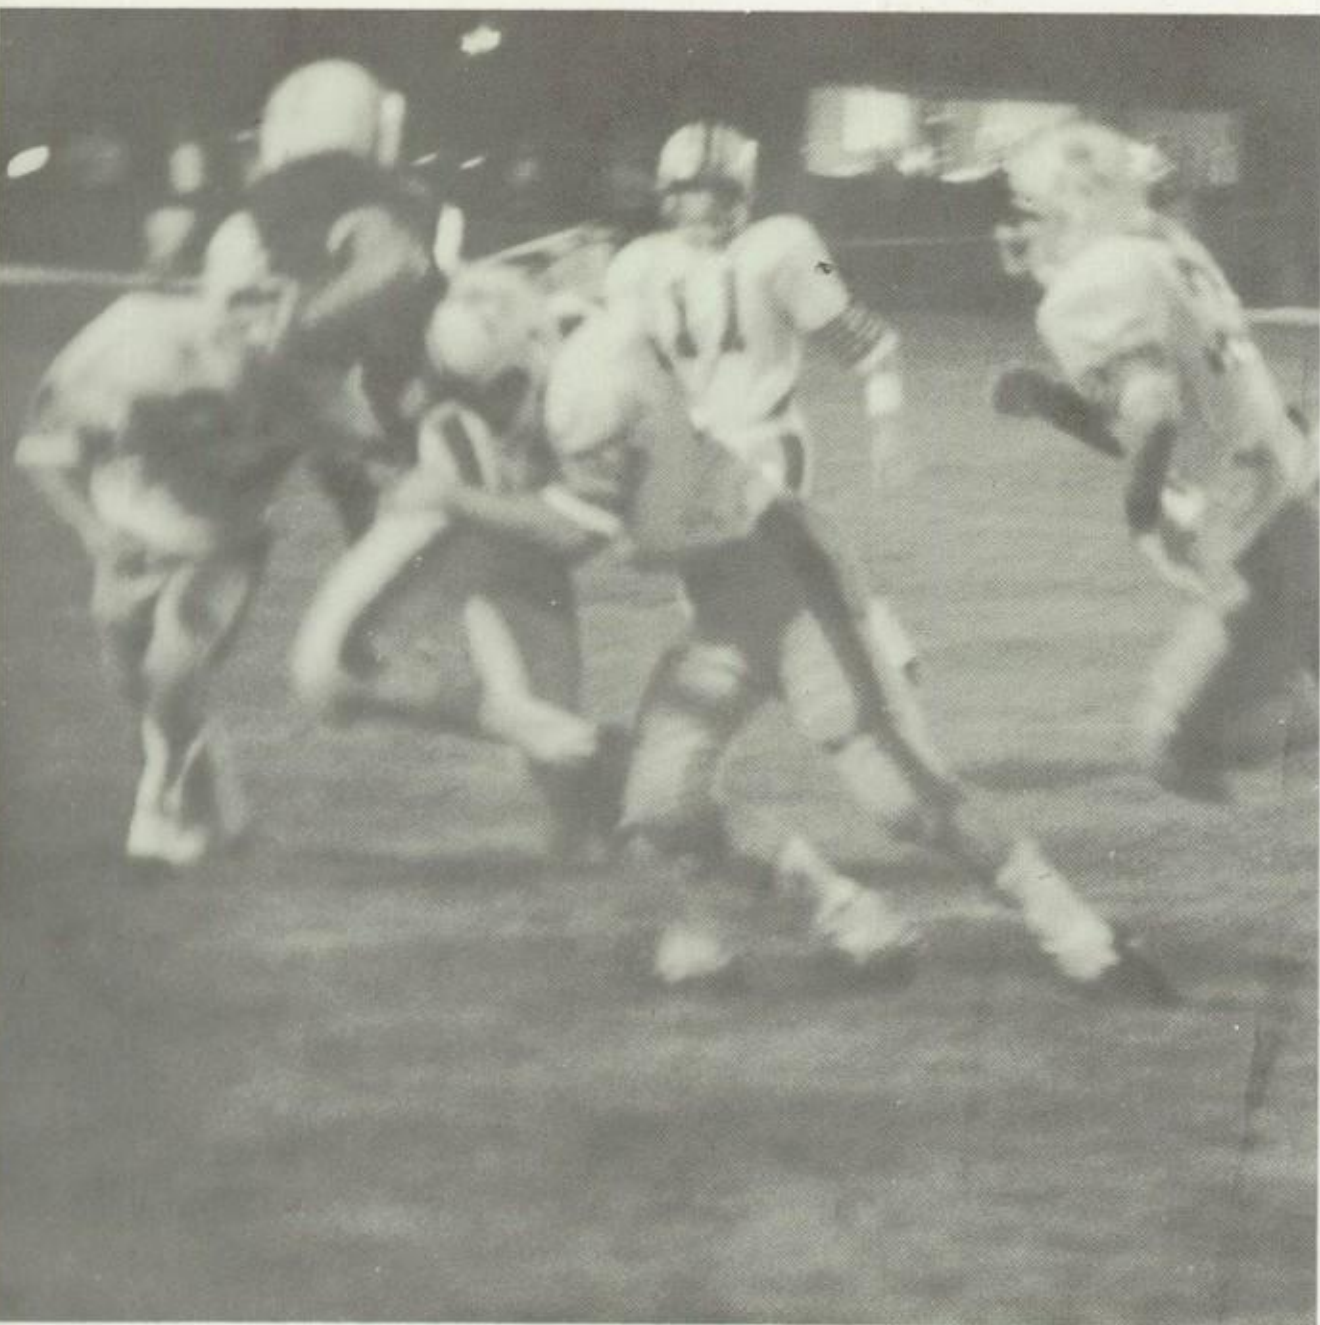

After 3 convincing victories the red-hot Patriots were not about to let the Sam Barthe Hornets cool them down. This fact was borne out from the start, as the potent Patriot offense rolled up a 28-0 half time lead, then the final score reading 35-0 in favor of the Patriots. Both fullback Jimmy Etheridge and quarterback Mark Clark scored. Les Kimbrough got the other six points on a 26-yard aerial from Clark.

Saints Stun Pats with 7-7 Deadlock

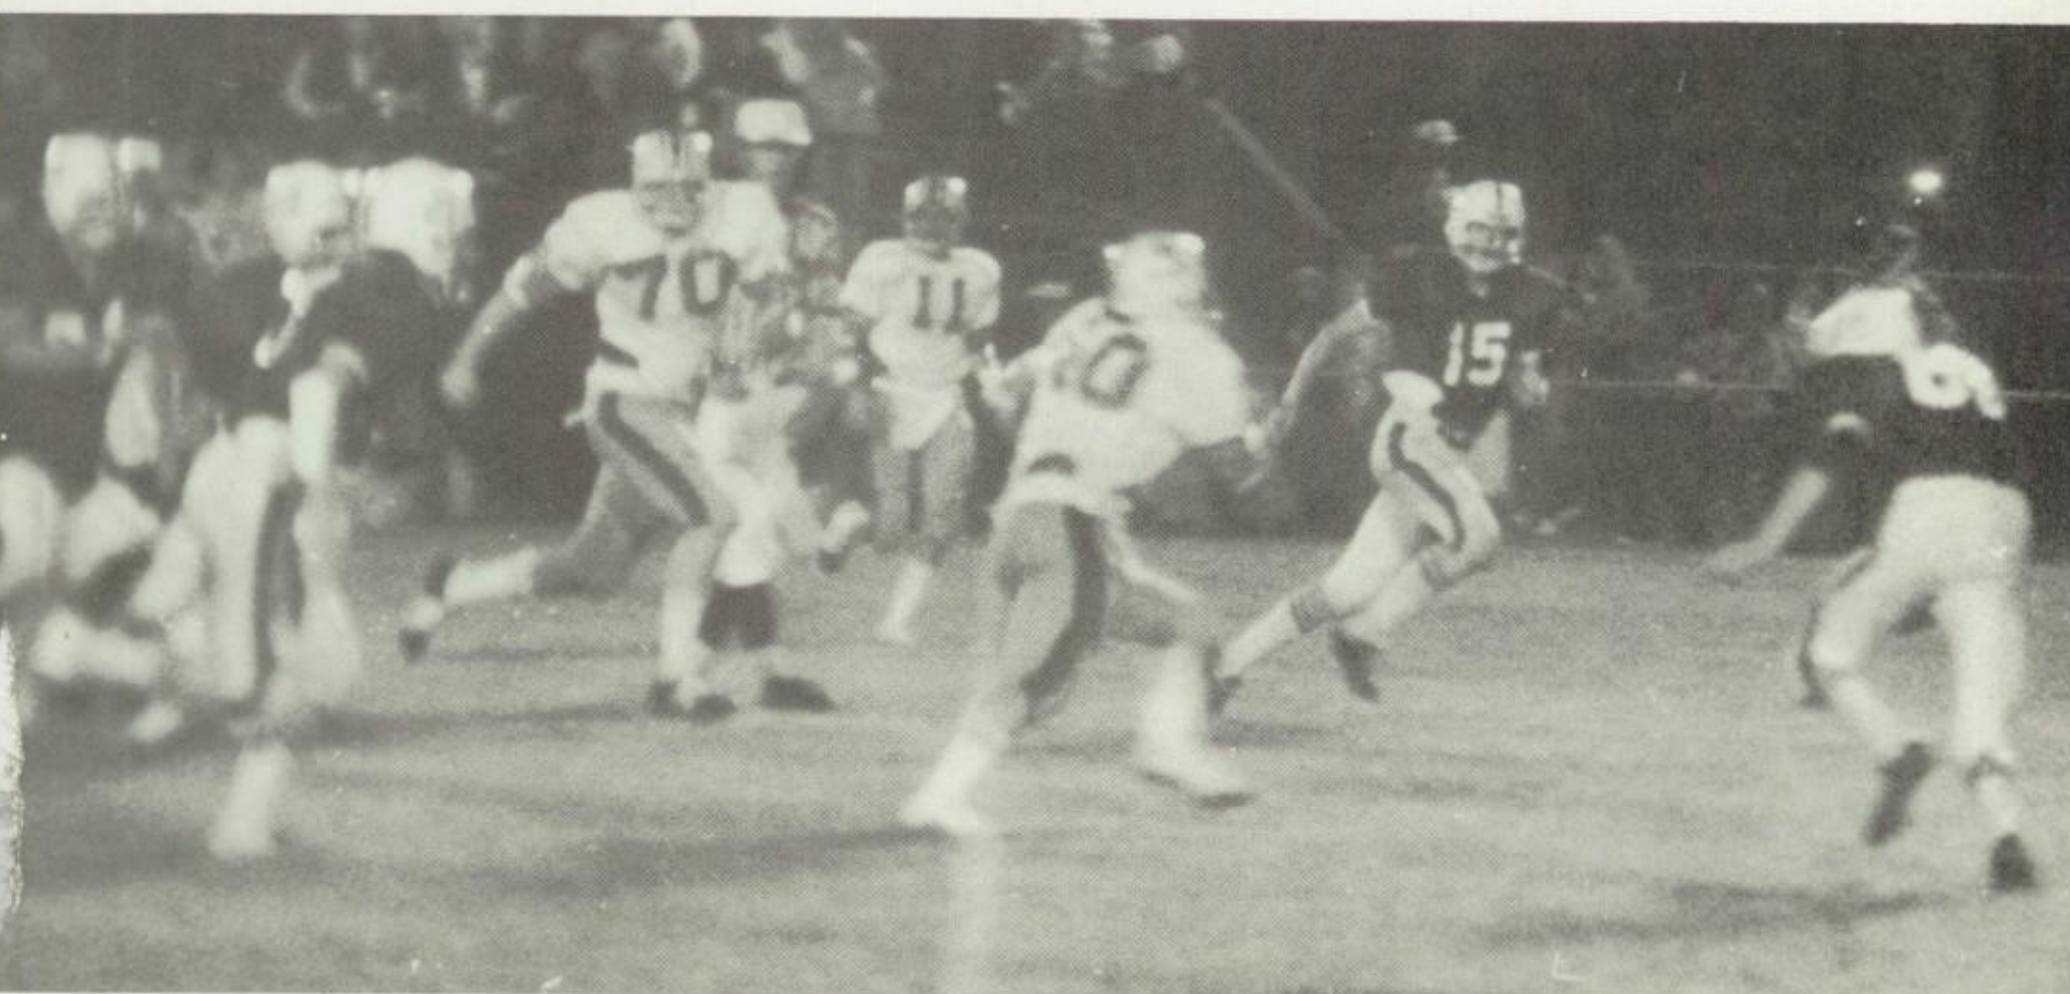

In their 5th outing of the season the Patriots were forced to "kiss their sister" and settle for a 7-7 tie at the hands of the Greenville Christian Saints.

Prep first drew blood as David Campbell rambled 45 yards for the only Patriot touchdown of the rain-soaked game. Kicker Glen Warren was on the mark with his P.A.T. and the Pats took a 7-0 lead to the locker room at half time.

As the rain came down, neither team produced much offense in the 3rd or 4th quarter. Then suddenly with only 8 seconds left on the clock, the Saints found themselves on the Patriot 5 yard line by the grace of two back-to-back 15 yard penalties. After that it was "Katy-bar-door" as the Saints' quarterback passed for the touchdown and then proceeded to kick the P.A.T. and deadlock the Patriots 7-7.

Patriots Clobber Colts 35-0

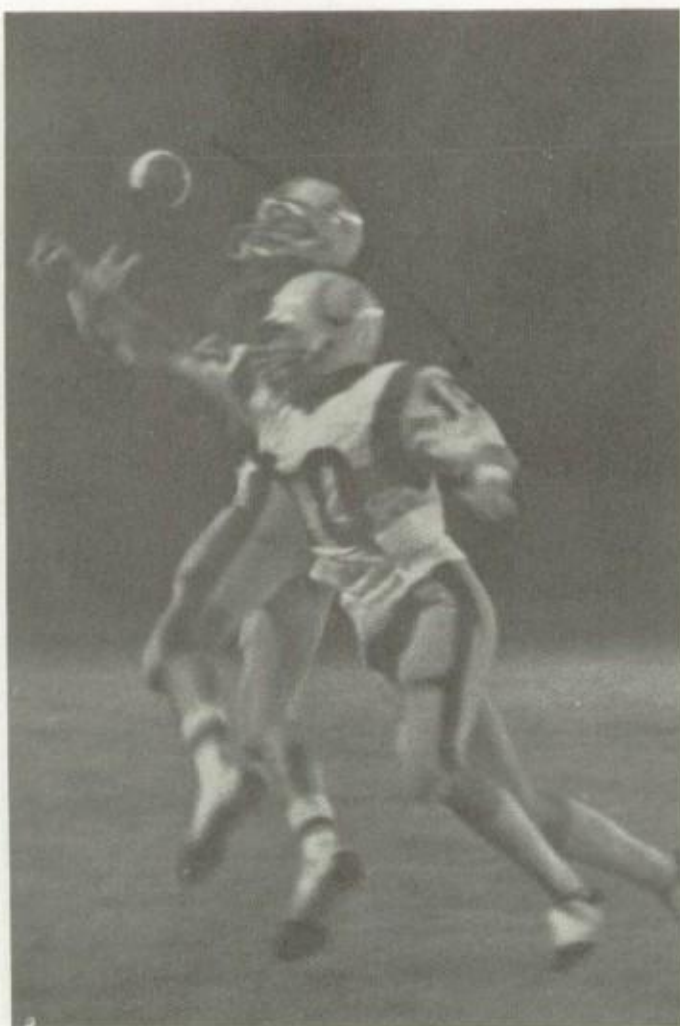

An inspired Patriot team rebounded from the previous week's frustration to completely annihilate undefeated Clarksdale Lee 35-0 and to run the season record to 5-0-1. Senior Les Kimbrough scored the initial Patriot touchdown on a dazzling 45 yard punt return midway through the first quarter. Glen Warren's first of five extra points made it a quick 7-0.

Jimmy Etheridge, Mark Clark, and David Campbell each tallied in the second quarter as the Patriots made a runaway of the game. Campbell rounded out the scoring in the third quarter, collecting on a ten yard jaunt. David Campbell displayed his effectiveness in this game, carrying 15 times for 114 yards.

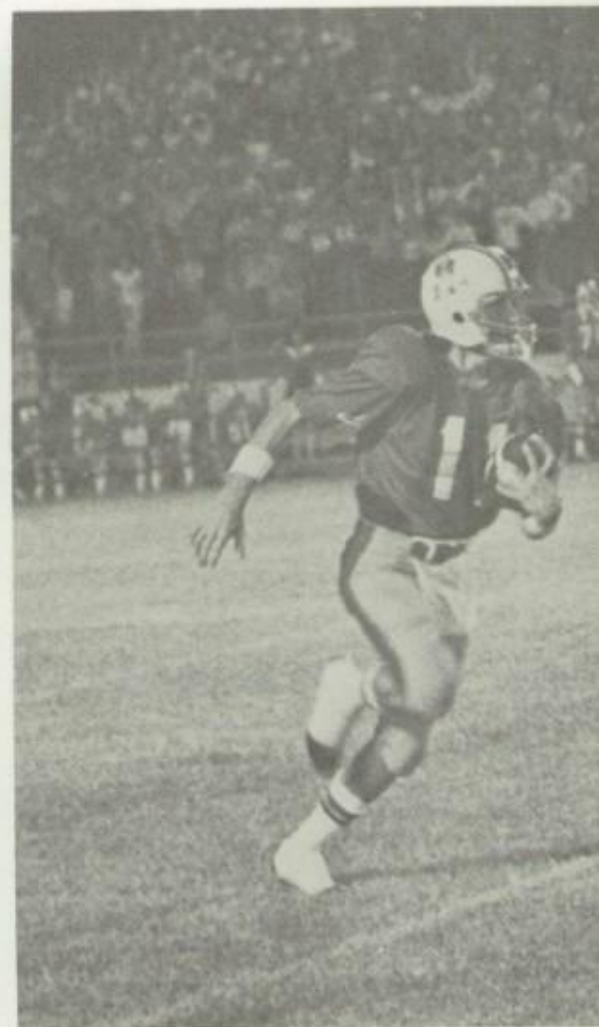

A tough Patriot defense, led by end Baxter Brown, linebacker Jeff Glover and tackle Ralph Wells, provided the big plays necessary to completely stymie the potent Clarksdale offense.

Patriots Shut Out Eagles in Homecoming Victory

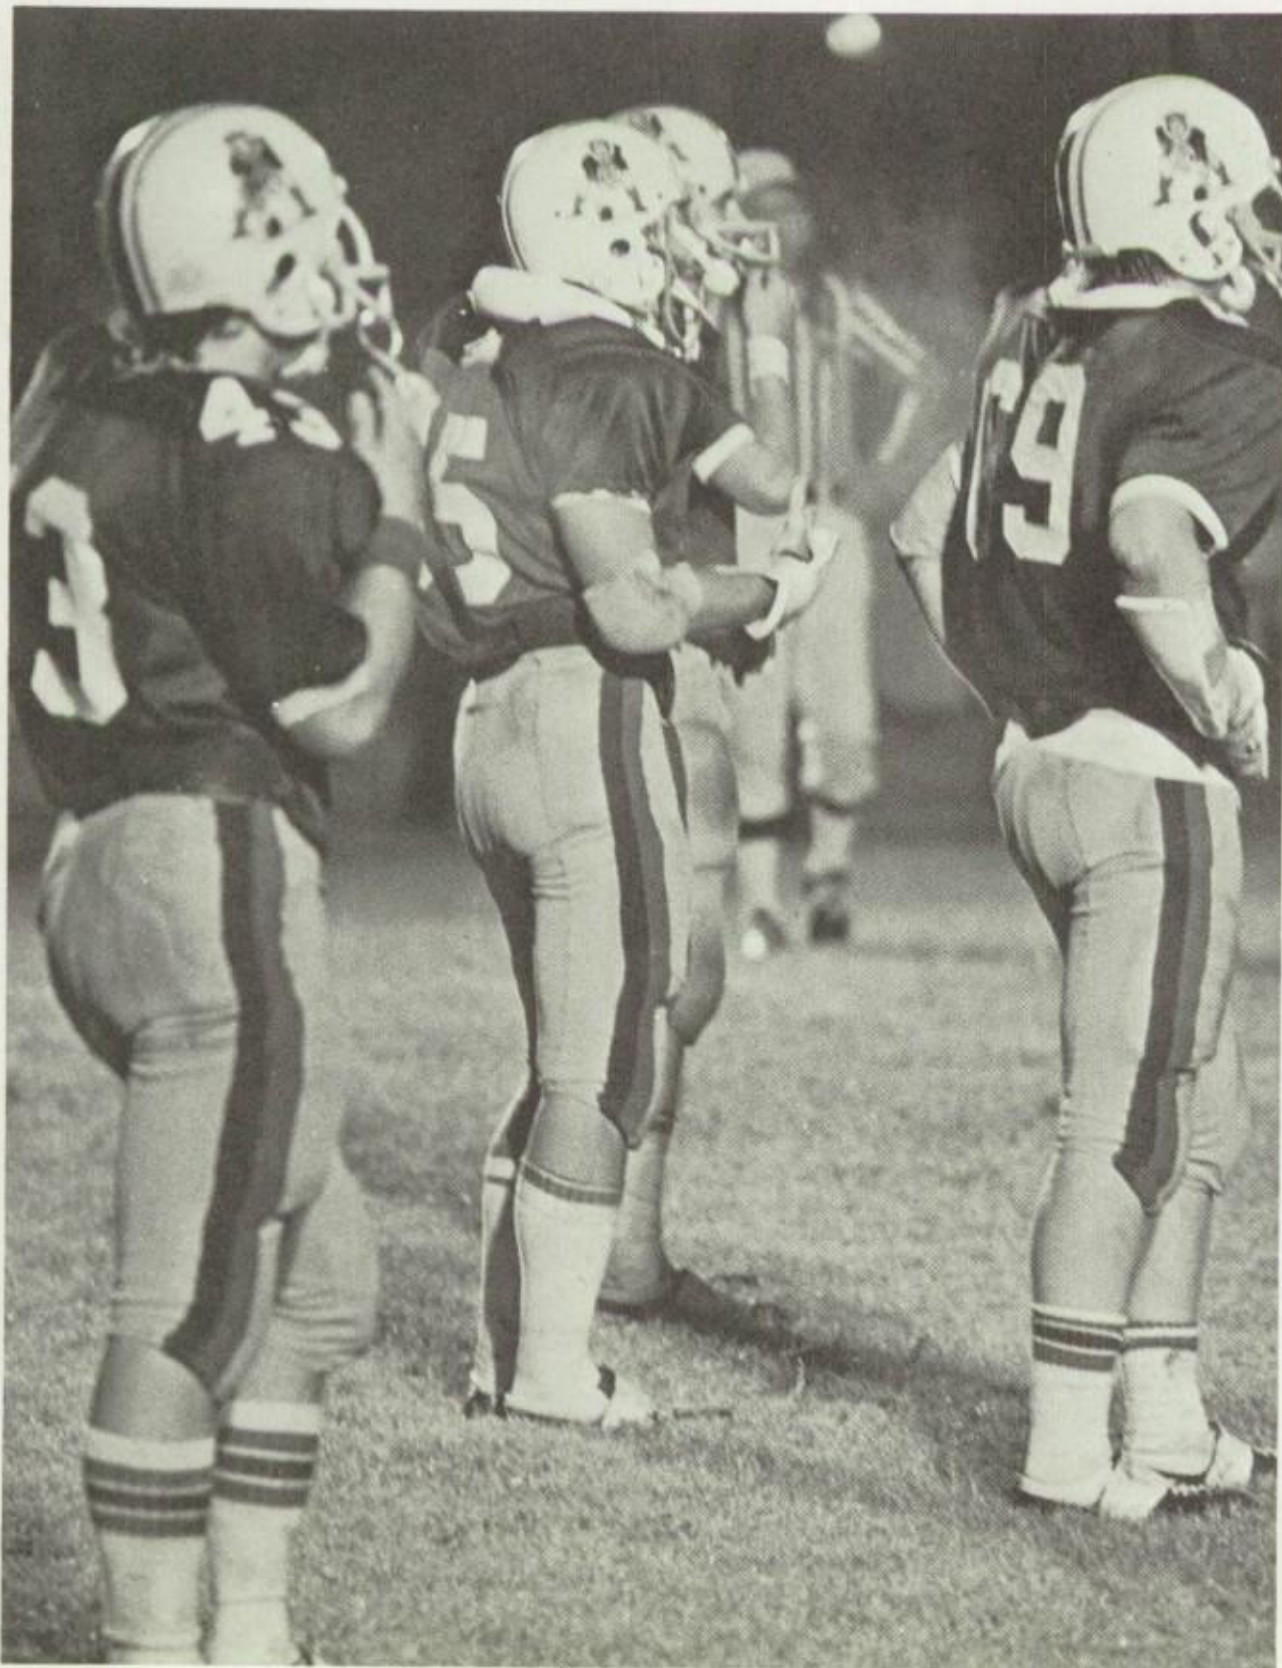

The Patriots completely shut down the Council McCleur Eagles 19-0 in the seventh game of the season. The Patriots drew the blood of vengeance from the Eagles, who tied the Pats the previous year.

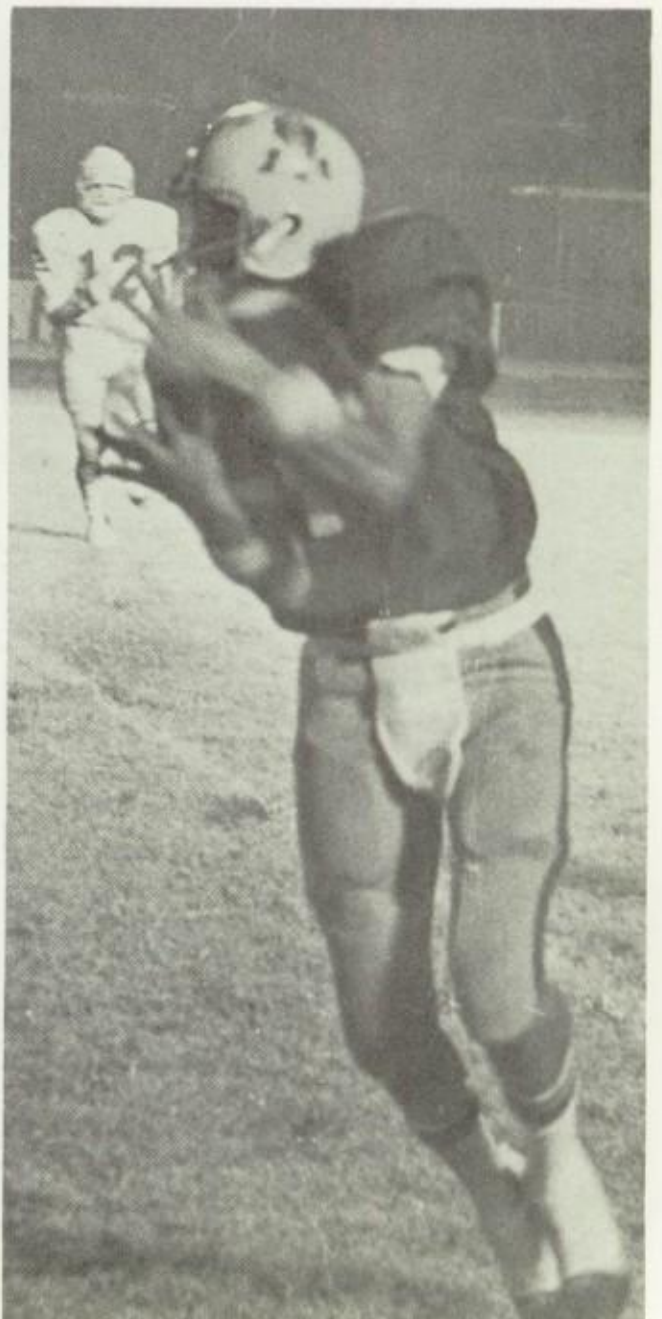

Quarterback Mark Clark enjoyed a successful night as he threw for 72 yards and ran for an additional 67 yards. Fullback Jimmy Etheridge compiled 86 yards in the second half to bring his game total to an incredible 143.

Prep's first touchdown was scored on a fumble recovery by defensive end Jeff Burnham, Jimmy Etheridge carried six yards for the second, and David Campbell brought the final score in on a 35 yard last second run.

Homecoming festivities were held during the halftime break as Marion Wofford was crowned queen.

Patriots Corral Mustangs 38-7

The Patriots devastated Greenwood Pillow 38 to 7 behind a powerful offense and a stingy defense. Les Kimbrough took a Pillow punt 65 yards for Prep's first score at the beginning of the game. Mark Clark scored on a nine yard run for six more points. Jimmy Etheridge dove over the goal line twice after Prep drives brought the ball within easy scoring range. Skip Daniels hauled in a Clark aerial for 33 yards and the score. Glen Warren hit on a 25 yard field goal to add the final touches to Greenwood's defeat.

Jimmy Etheridge rambled for 125 yards in the game before being injured early in the fourth quarter.

The defense held the Mustangs to an almost negligible 12 yards on the ground as they demonstrated their ability to halt the ground attack.

Prep Captures South Division Title

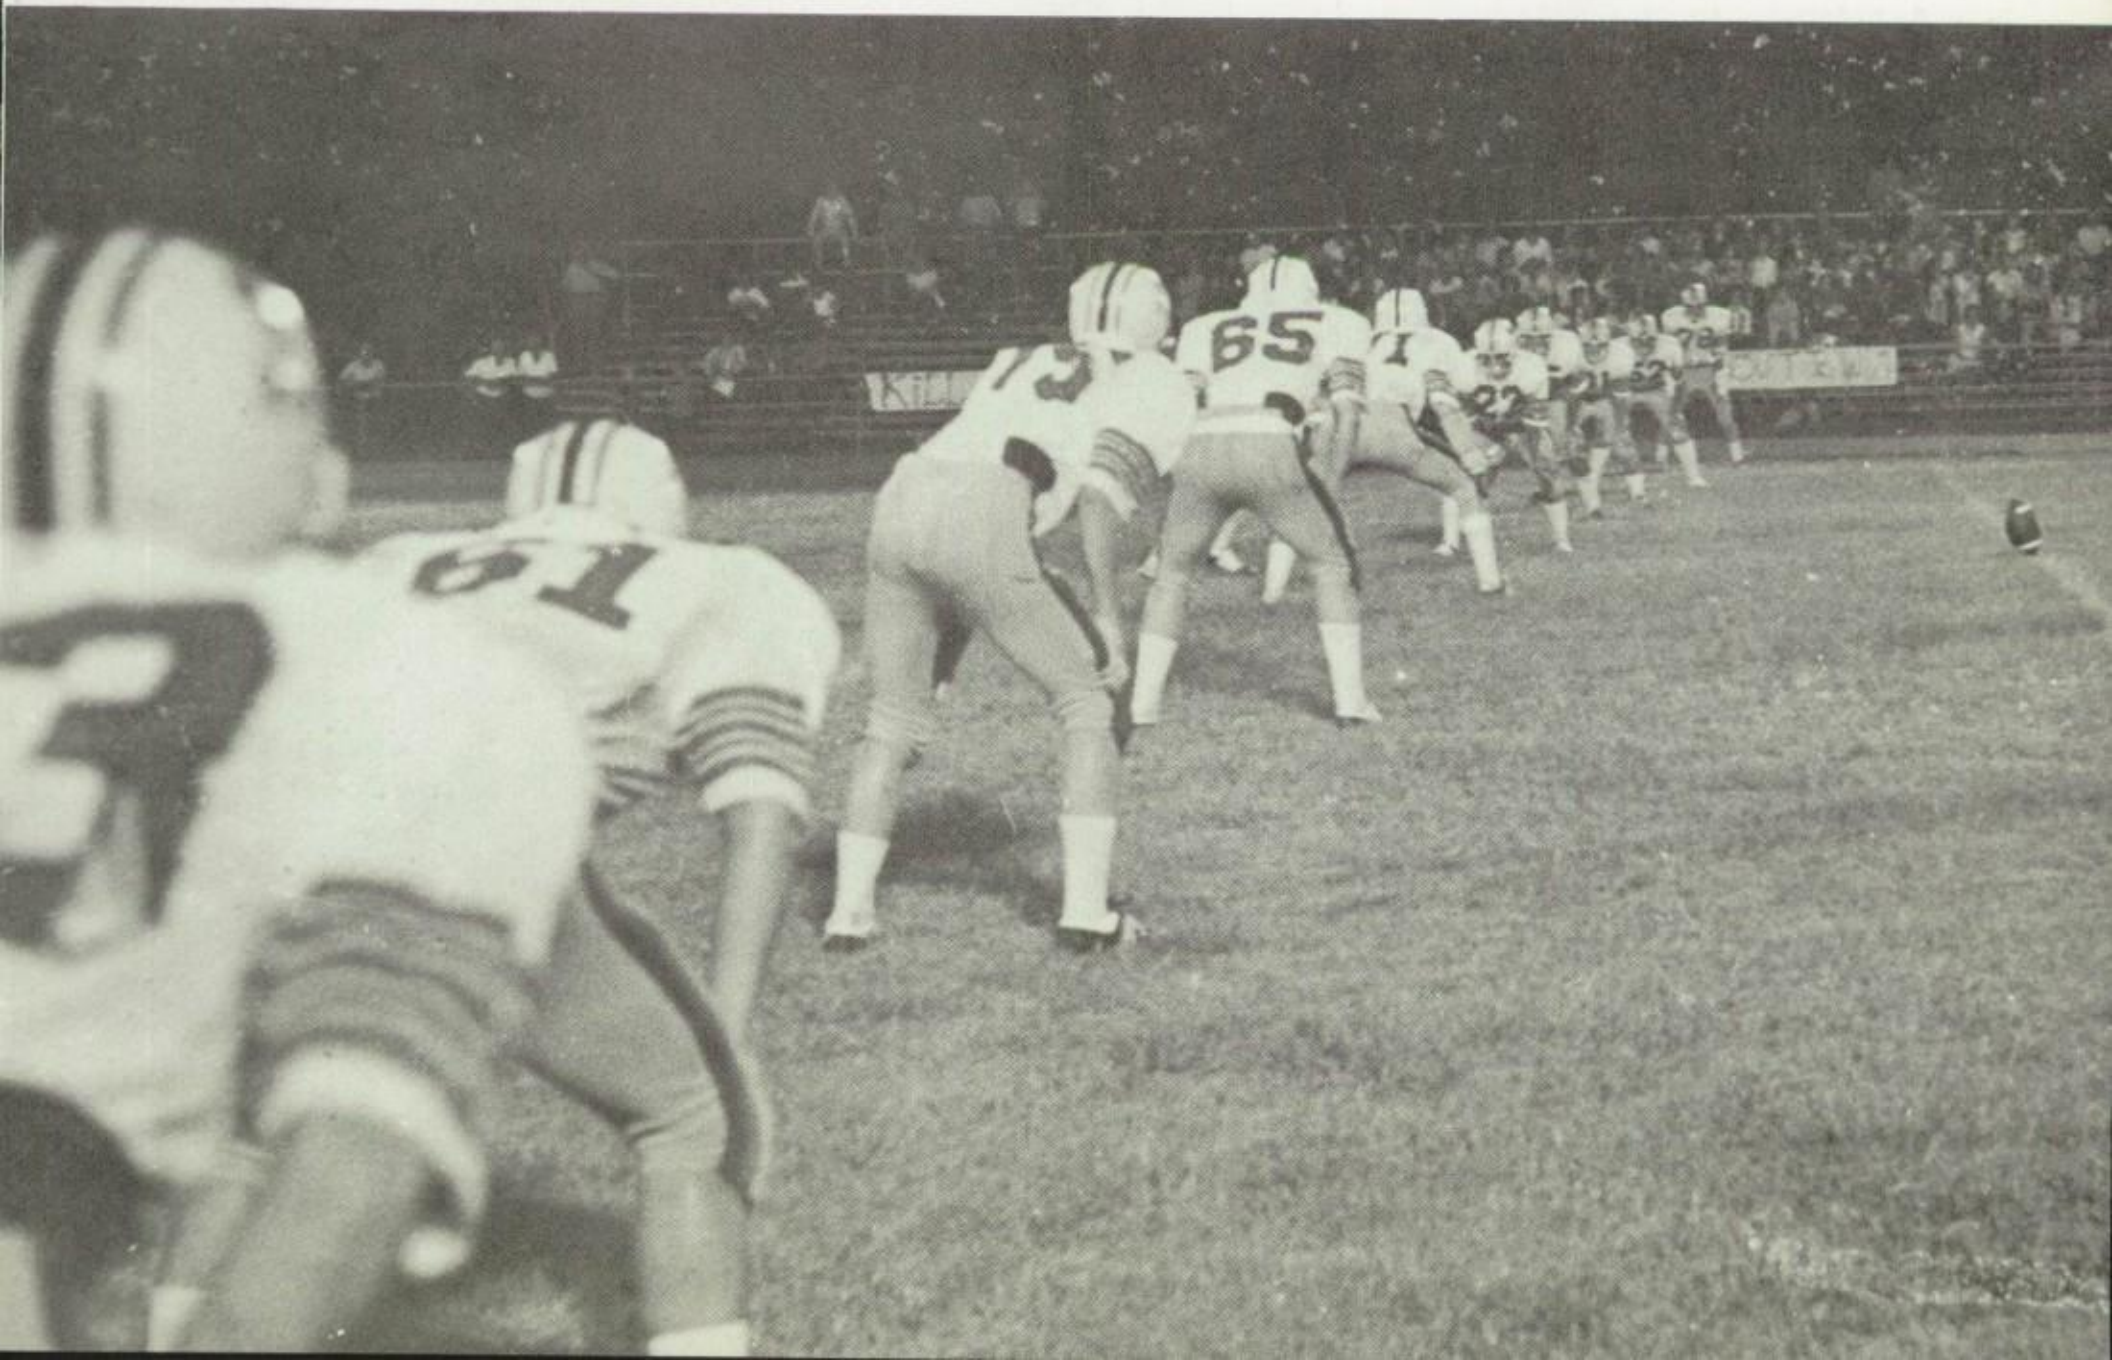

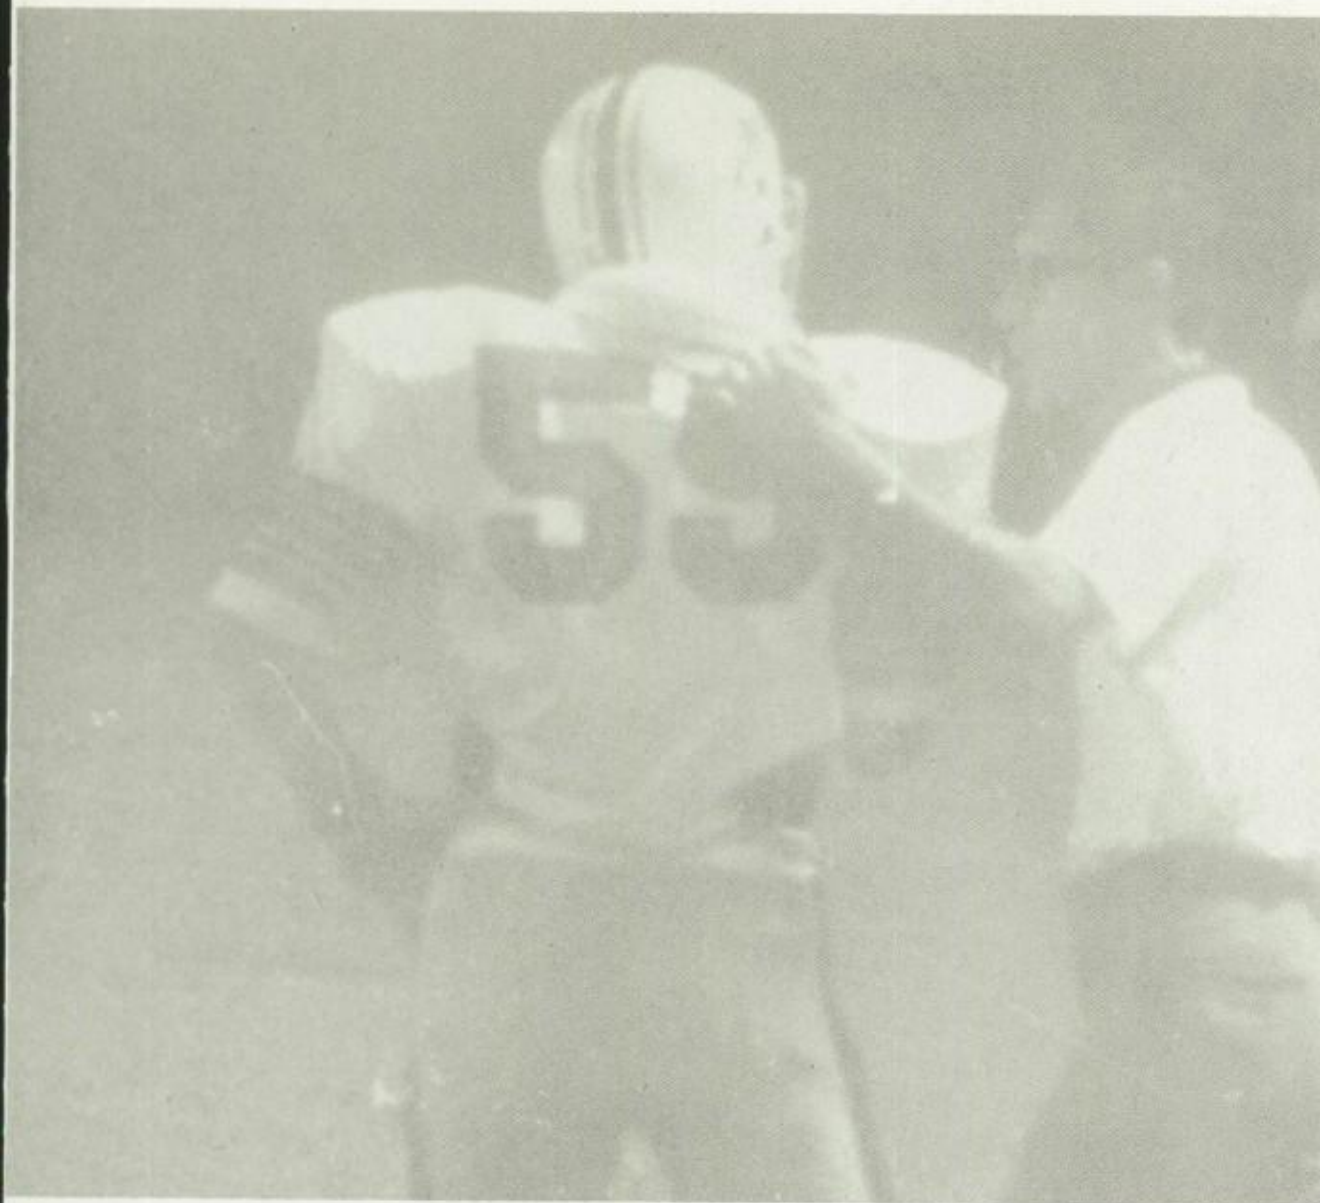

The night began as a battle with Council Manhattan and ended as a double victory.

Prep clearly dominated the game from the very beginning. Jack Bickerstaff took the opening kickoff 86 yards for Prep's first score. Mark Clark was able to score twice on runs of 54 and four yards respectively. Skip Daniels, David Campbell and Jimmy Etheridge each scored on short dashes to round out Prep's scoring with a total of 39.

The Lancers were held to only 18 points despite the fact that they had only four fewer total yards—Prep's 275 to their 271.

This night also saw Prep capture the Academy AAA South Division Championship for the third straight year.

Patriots Zip Rebels 36-0

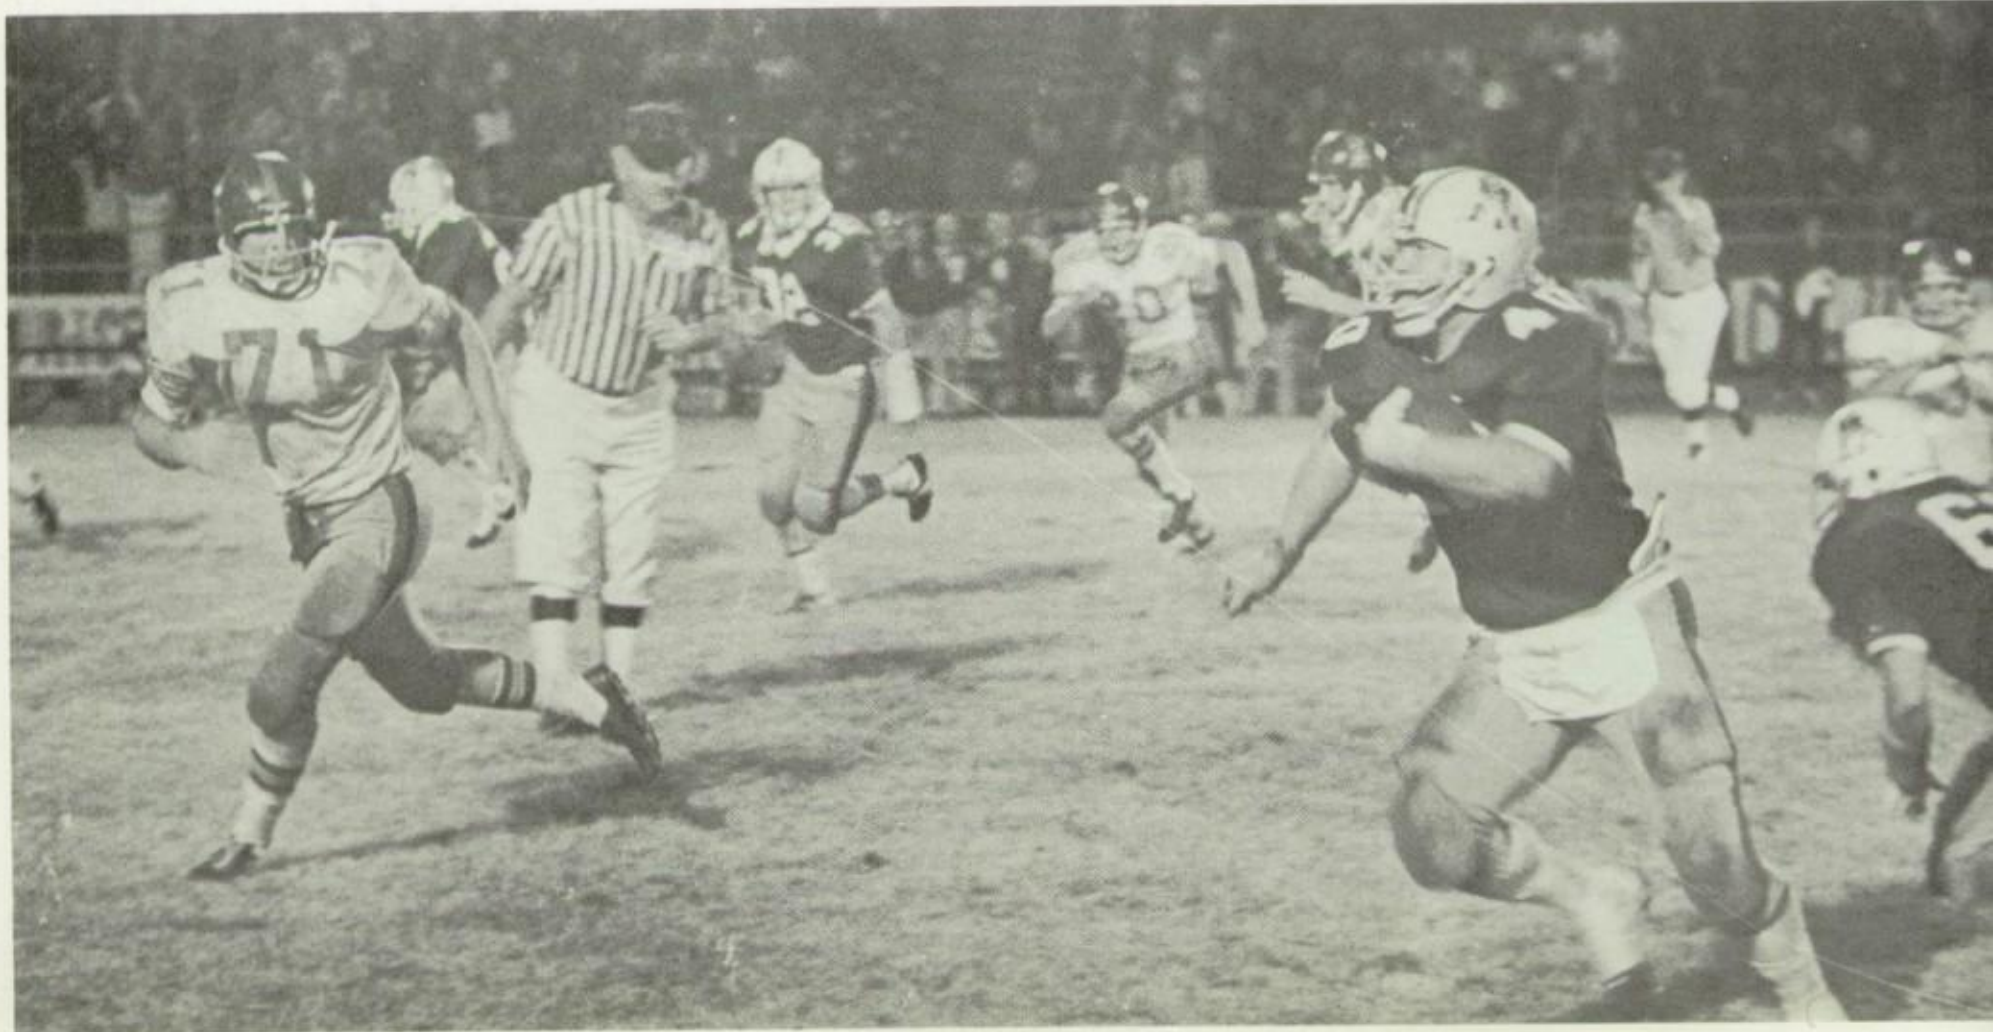

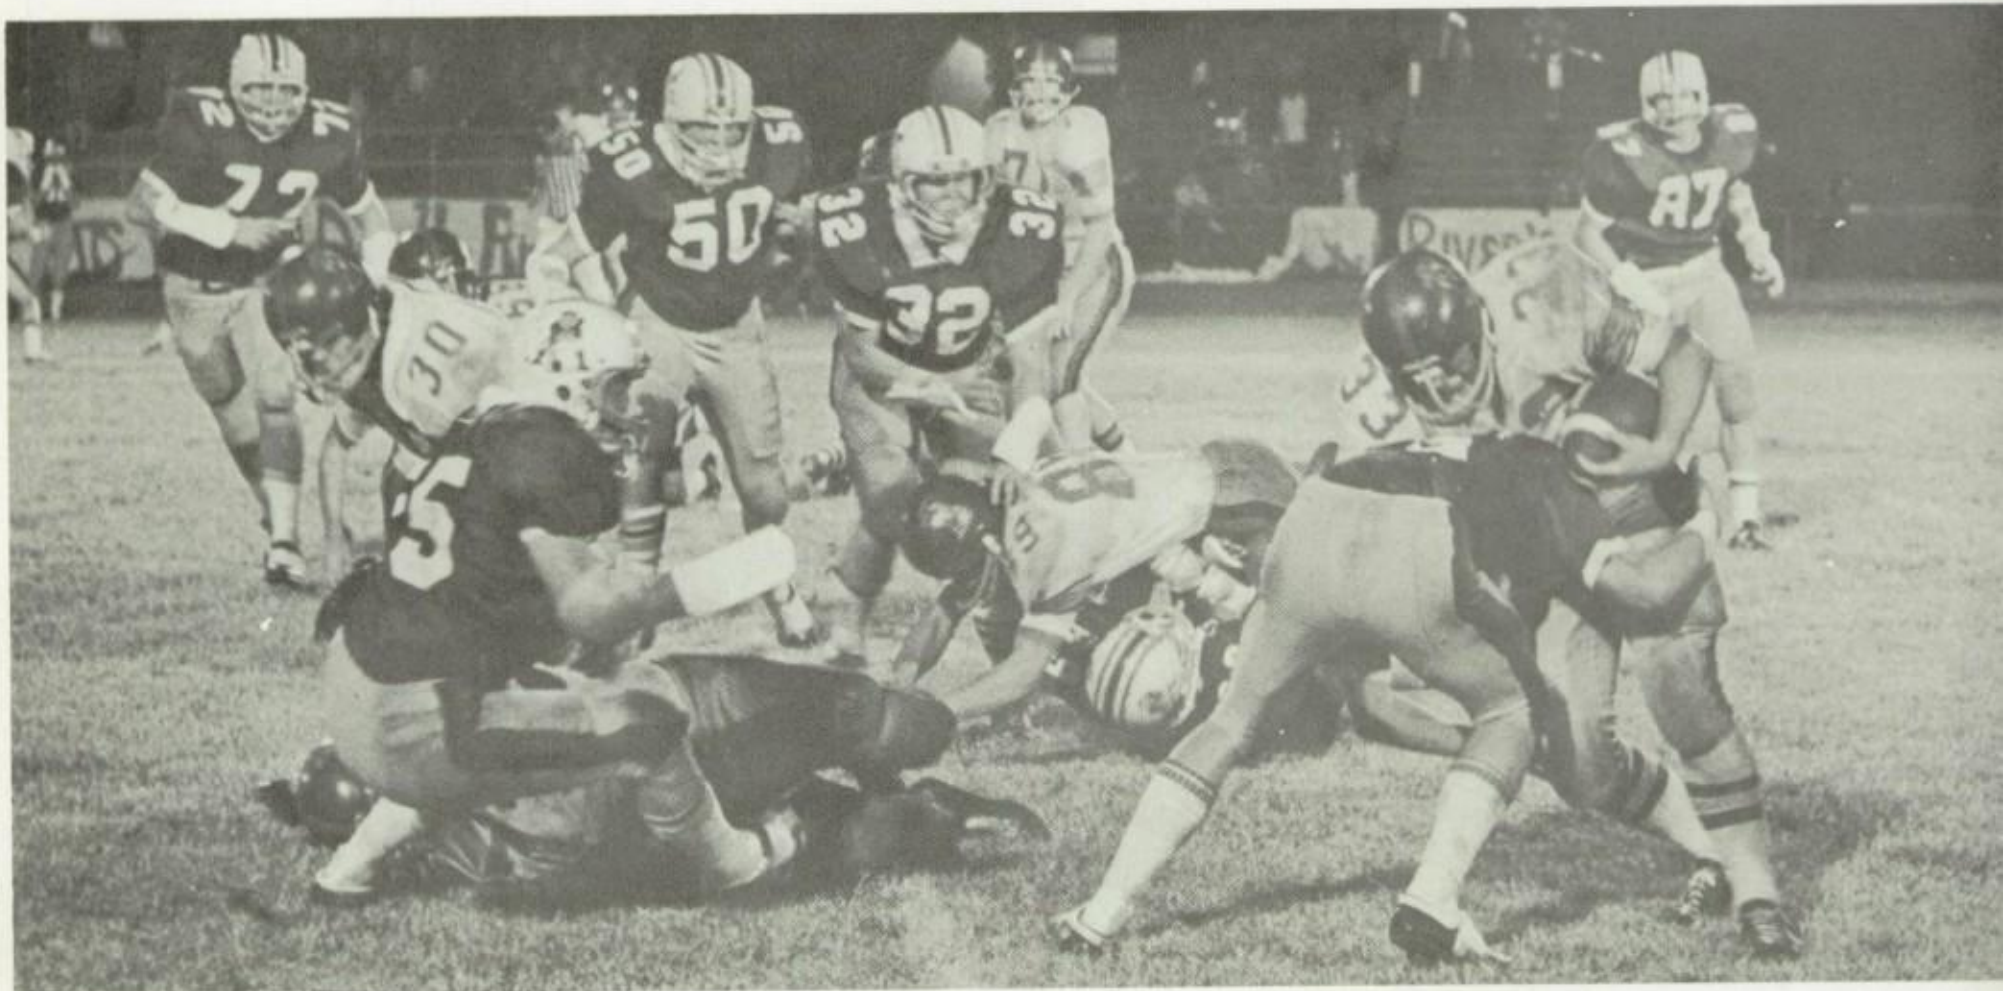

Revenge prevailed as the Patriots repaid the Riverside Rebels for last year's defeat. The sky-high Patriots shelled Riverside for 15 first quarter points and then methodically romped for the final points.

David Campbell intercepted a pass and ran 29 yards for a Prep touchdown. Clark scored twice on runs of 13 and four yards. Fullback Jimmy Etheridge scored on a four yard blast.

The game was onesided from all standpoints. The Prep defense again worked magic as they held the powerful Rebels to 90 yards rushing and 41 yards in the air. Meanwhile, the Prep offense ground out 246 rushing yards and hurled for 65 more.

Patriots Lose Academy Crown to Indianola

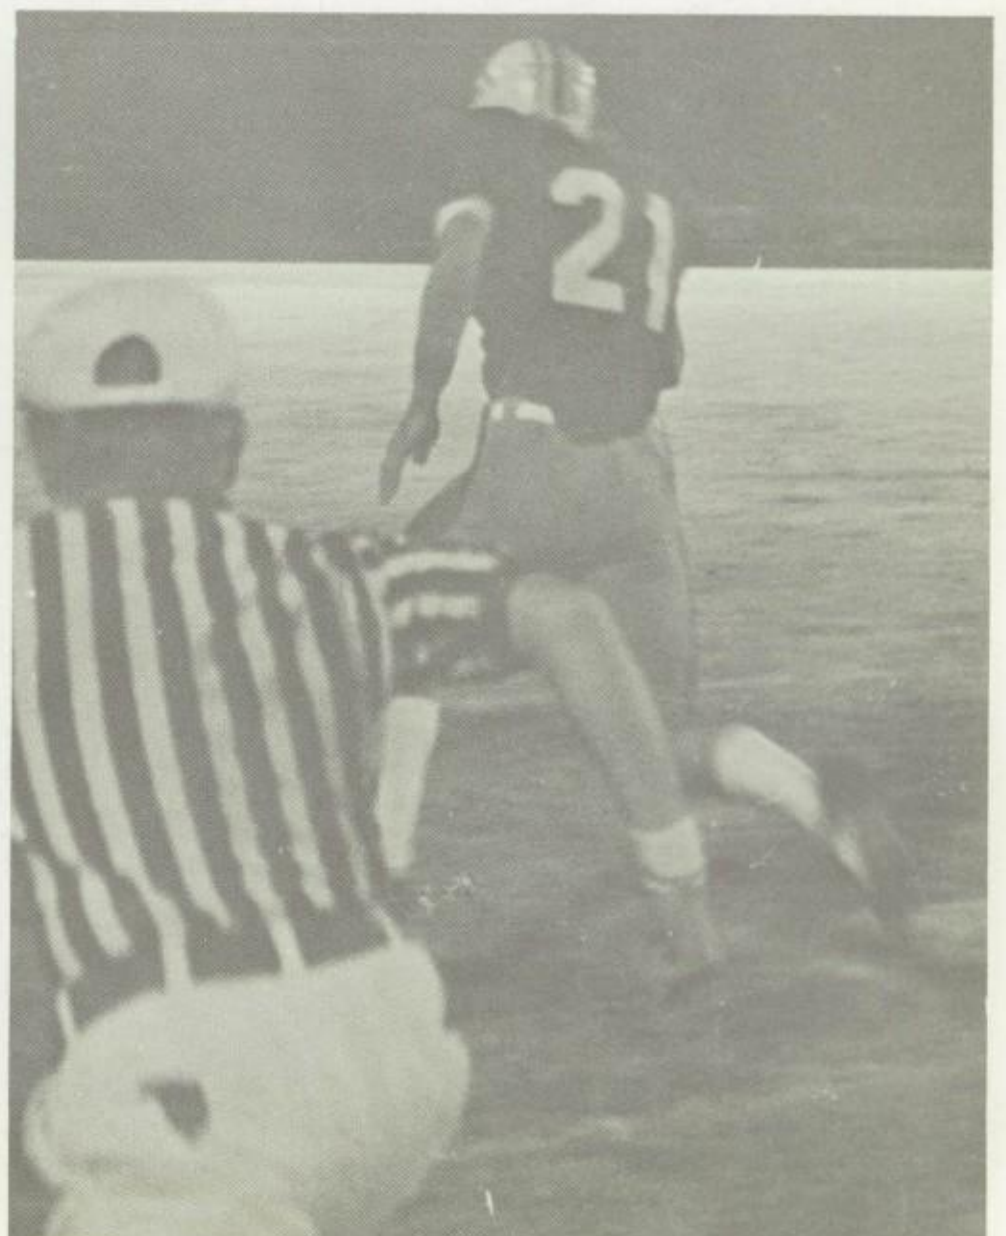

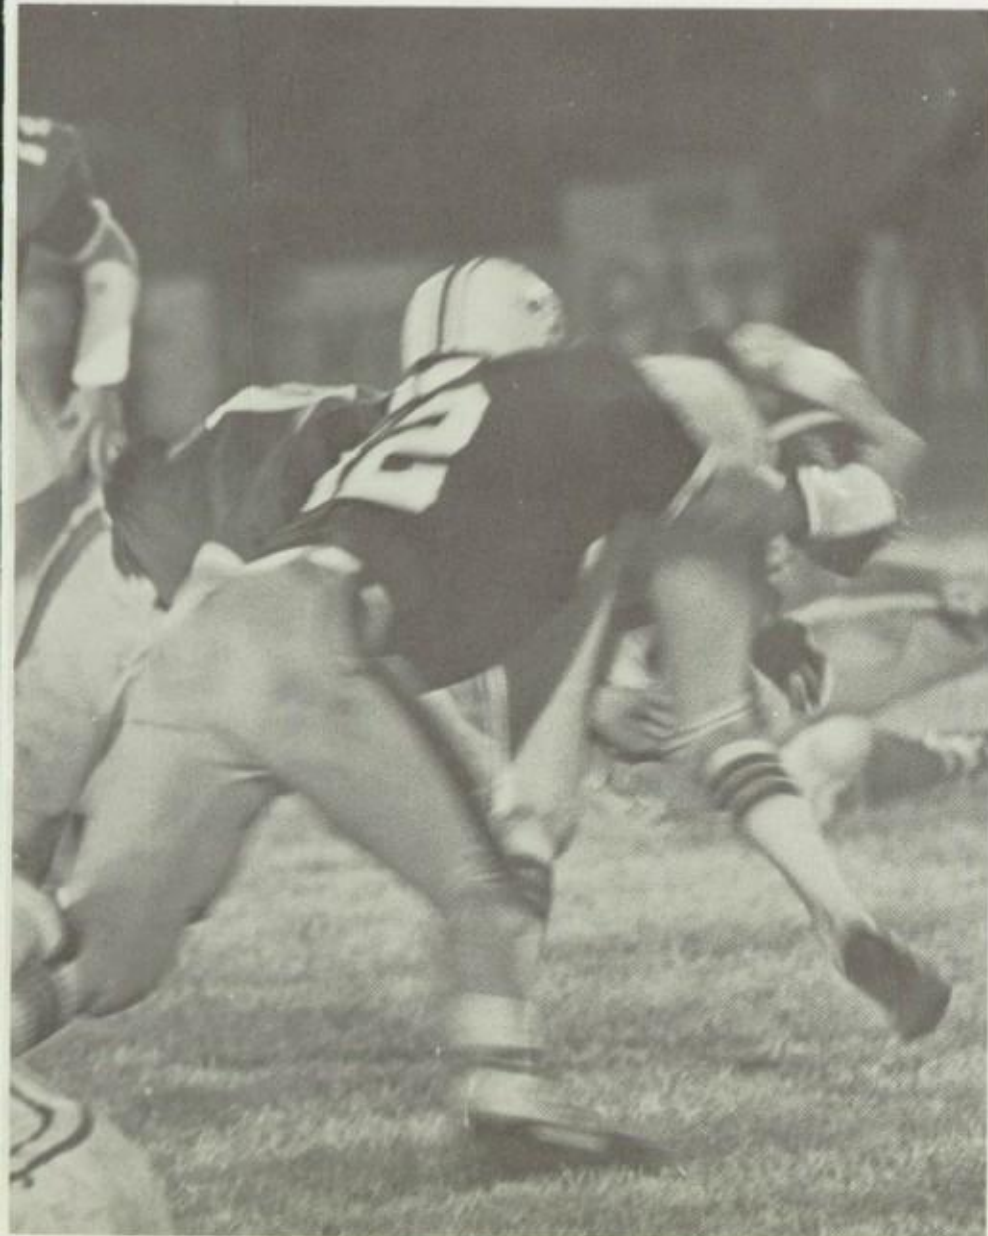

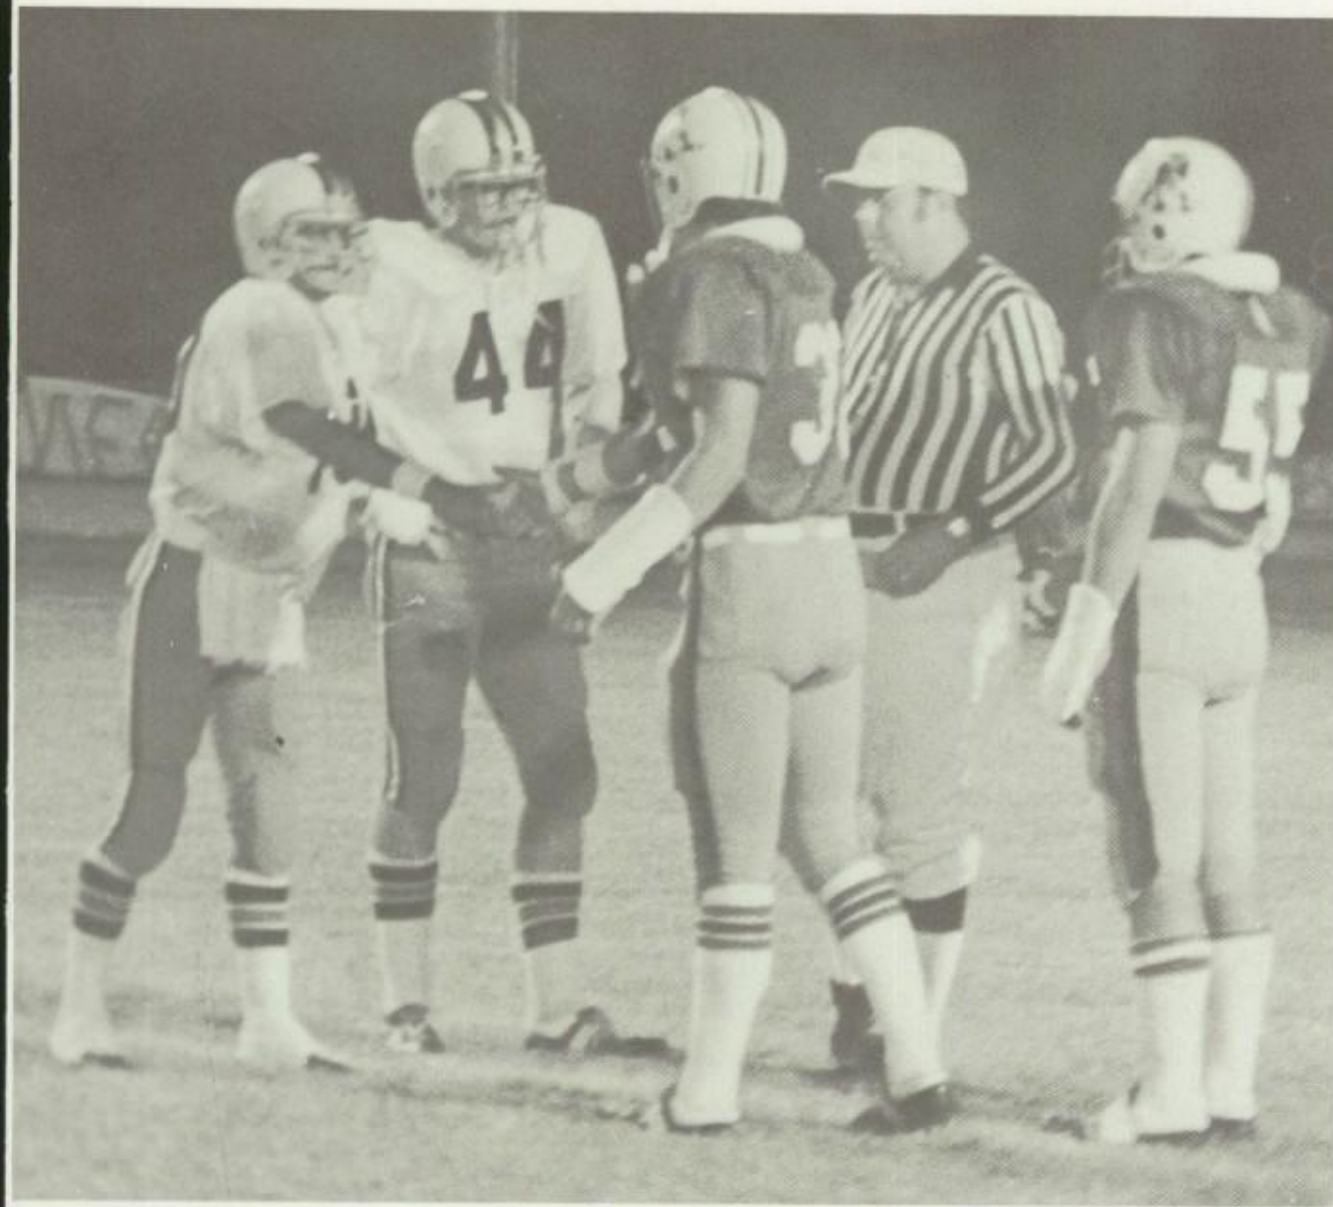

The Indianola Colonels shut out the Prep Patriots in an upsetting game to capture the 1973 AAA Football Championship.

On the first Prep possession the Patriots lost a fumble which set up the first Colonel tally. The Patriots quickly regrouped to retaliate. However, the second Prep possession proved to be no better than the first, for a Mark Clark fumble was picked off by a Colonel and run in for a score. Three plays after the ensuing kickoff, a Prep pass was intercepted to set up an Indianola field goal. The Colonels walked into the locker room with a 17-0 halftime lead.

The seemingly determined Patriots came out of the locker room only to fumble away a valuable possession and set up another Indianola touchdown. A bad snap from center on a Prep punt allowed the Colonels to score again.

The stingy Colonel defense caught the Patriots for a safety in the closing moments.

Homecoming Festivities of 1973

Homecoming week saw all three Senior High classes busily building their entries in the float competition. As the sun rose on Friday morning, floats were hauled to school and erected in front of the Senior High building. Judging was completed by pep rally time and the winning class was announced, the Sophomores managed to defeat the upperclassmen.

Under the stars that night, the football team defeated Council McCleur. Naturally, the Homecoming festivities were also staged. Before an exuberant student body, Pacer captain Marion Wofford was crowned as Jackson Prep's third Homecoming Queen.

After the game, everyone adjourned to the Homecoming Dance.

Pacers, Flag and Rifle Girls Highlight Halftime

The Pacers began their busy year in June with long, hot summer practices. All of the hard hours of work were rewarded by a trip to Panama City Beach in Florida. As soon as the group returned in August, their performances began.

During football season, the Pacers travelled with the team to faraway places as Phoenix City, Alabama and New Orleans, La. to entertain the half-time crowds. The Pacers began practice again in late December for the annual Jackson Christmas parade. The Pacers also worked as hostesses in the coffee shop at the Arts Festival. The yearly spring clinic was climaxed by to selection of the 1974-1975 Pacers.

Also enhancing the half-time shows were the Flag and Rifle Corps. Summer hours of practice perfected and polished routines. As part of the band, the Flag and Rifle Corps helped sell tickets to pre-game suppers and participated in band contests. Together with the Prep Marching Band, the Flag and Rifle Corps combined music, color, and skill to produce a truly exciting and entertaining halftime show.

Band Strides to Perfection

Hard work explains the prestigious season for the 1973-74 Prep Band. Attending the first week long camp in the Band's history was grueling work, but proved very profitable. From this practice they learned the show that gained them a superior rating and a trophy at the Gulf Coast Marching Festival, as well as four superiors and one excellent at the MPSA Contest. Surpassing all other high schools, the Band received fifty medals at Solo-and-Ensemble. Clinic proved to be another success for the members of the band, since they rated higher than any other bandsmen. The honors won in competition underscore the excellent Band season which was enjoyed by many at pep rallies, football games, and parades.

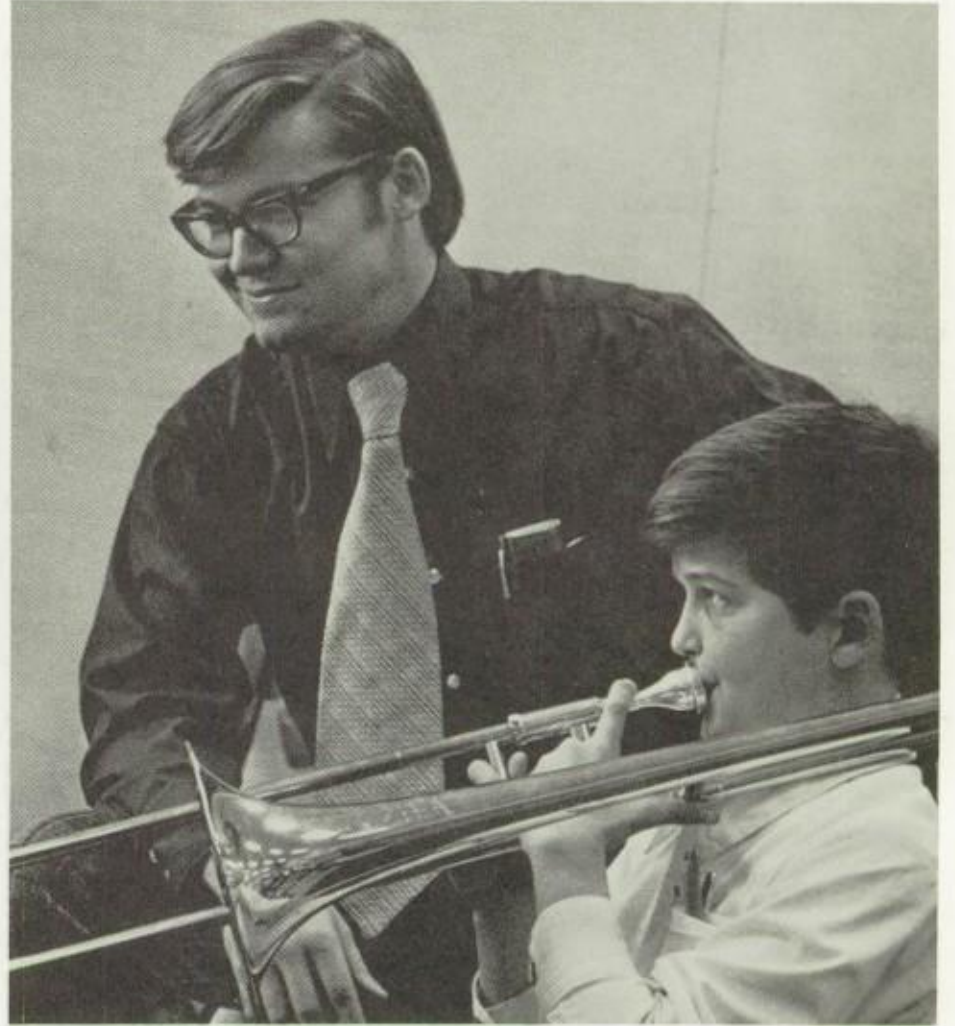

Long hours of afternoon practice helped the band win many distinctions.

Singers Excel Again

Under the direction of Mrs. Lillian Lee, the Jackson Prep Singers spread their harmony across the state this year. The sixty singers chosen by audition gave programs for music clubs, luncheon clubs, and schools, including Prep. The year was climaxed by a superb presentation at the State Choral Festival in Indianola and by a spring concert for their parents and friends. Diane Pittman, Mary Alicia Cain, Debby Sanders, and Jackie Pearson provided accompaniment for the singers.

A new girls chorus was begun this year, and the first period group was a success. They performed for the school, with Marie Blankenship providing the music.

Variations On A Prep Theme

The Preparation, a small vocal group chosen from the Singers, provided entertainment for clubs and schools around and in the Jackson area. The fourteen singers, drummer and pianist adhered to a demanding performance schedule. Mrs. Lee directed the group, which was choreographed by Mrs. Judy McKeigney and Pam Lehan. Andy Lambeth and Jackie Pearson accompanied the group on drums and piano, respectively.

Art Department Decorates Cafeteria

Creativity runs rampant within the walls of the art room, and this year it escaped, only to be found on the cafeteria walls.

Artists this year spent long hours preparing exhibits for the Arts Festival and for their own use. Many areas of communication, from paint, macrame, and linoleum provided a medium for the display of talent. And some students were even given a wall on which to display their genius. The result was colorfully brilliant, brightening the lunch hour with fairy-tale landscape.

Diversity Touches Study of Dramatic Arts

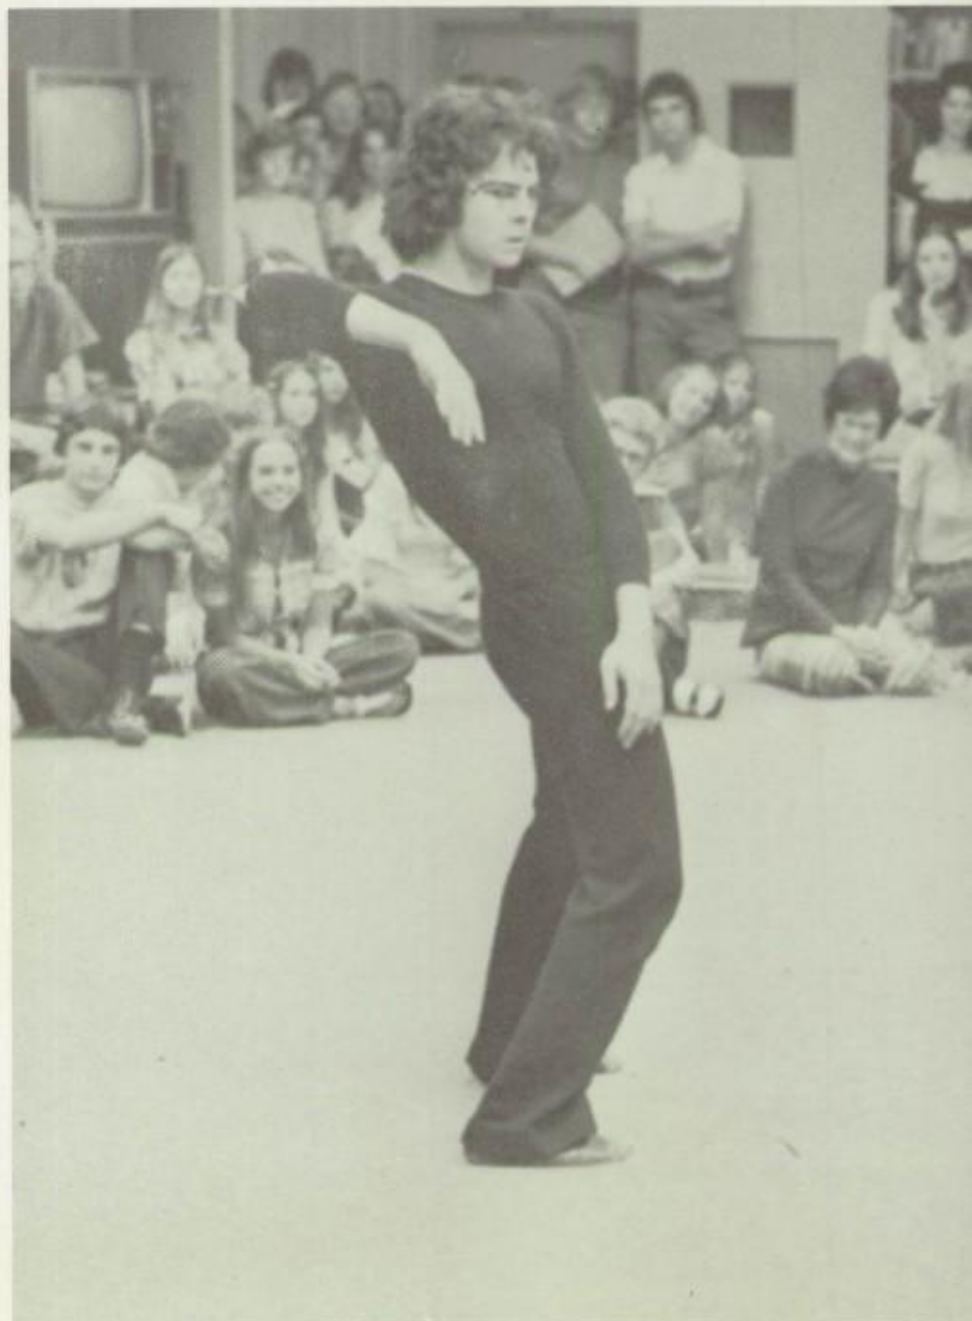

Mrs. Bowen's Dramatics students spent the spring semester studying all aspects of the dramatic arts. The class worked on the speaking portion of acting early in the year. During the Arts Festival, they and the student body were treated to a silent performance by mime Keith Berger of New York.

Putting their knowledge together at the end of the semester, students produced and acted in a series of short productions excerpted from various literary pieces, such as Waiting for Godot and Guess Who's Coming to Dinner.

Best One-Act: "Bury the Dead"

Irwin Shaw's "Bury the Dead" deals with the tragedy of war as reflected in individual lives. Performed on a construction style set of black platforms and black bunting, the play involved the refusal of six dead soldiers to be buried; thus, the War Department called the wives and mothers and sweethearts of the men to talk them into lying down in their graves.

The play was produced three times for enthusiastic Prep audiences and won second place at the Mississippi State Northern Division contest. "Bury the Dead" then won a well-deserved state-wide first place at the finals held at Mississippi College.

Ah, Wilderness: Prep's first Drama

"I wish we still belonged to England!" These words shocked and fascinated a Prep audience of young and old at the Little Theatre. Ah, Wilderness sparked the memories of those who were old enough to remember the era about which Eugene O'Neill was writing. To others, Prep's first drama was intriguing and partially humorous.

The New England family problems captivated the audience and displayed the growing theatrical maturity of the players. Touching and amusing drunk scenes, teenage rebellions, sibling rivalries, and youthful love were included in the action.

Old man McComber, played by Vaughan McRae, reveals to Nat (Andy Lambeth) the shockingly dirty love letters written to his daughter by Nat's son.

The whole family tries to control their laughter as they realize that it's "bluefish" and that they'll have to practice an extra hour.

Patriotism Shines in Of Thee I Sing

The tons of hard work, the growth of new friendships, the tons of rehearsals, the roar of the greasepaint, the smell of the crowd: all of this and more can describe Prep's first musical, the Pulitzer-Prize-winning Of Thee I Sing. Tackling the task of whipping the one hundred or so actors, singers, dancers, and committee members into a smooth, entertaining play was Mrs. Eva Hart, guest director. Our own Mrs. Lee worked with soloists and chorus, and the unsinkable Mary Anne Bowen performed the hundreds of behind-the-scenes jobs which make or break a musical. The result was the tuneful and funny presentation of John P. Wintergreen's own version of politics, a quite apropos satire of our "democratic" system.

Thespians Find Life A Stage

This charter group of Thespians, Troupe 1663, has responded to the ancient rites of Dionysus and has carried the world of drama into the halls of Prep. The Thespians, meeting every other Thursday afternoon, soon formed a very close-knit group because of their sharing of a deep interest in theatre.

This interest produced several unique projects. At Thanksgiving the Thespians, in conjunction with the singers, wrote and produced the program "America, America." Christmas was a dramatic one in which the Thespians donned appropriate dress (elves, magi, shepherds) and ate and shared their favorite Christmas readings. Most significantly, the enthusiastic endorsement of the Thespians resulted in a powerful dramatic presentation of Bury the Dead, a first place trophy at the state one-act contest, and a lot of new friendships.

The Thespians closed the year with their gala initiation of new members. This year was a significant one for the Thespians in which they truly obeyed their motto: "Act well your part; there all the honor lies."

Grammar, Literature And Projects Make English

Courses Overflow With Work And Fascination

"What, you egg!" Though this may not sound Shakespearean, it is one of the handy quotes which Senior English students picked up from Macbeth. Mrs. Strom was allowed to teach an advanced course for seniors, and students undertook varied sorts of projects, from epics to free reading and writing. Units on religion, identity, philosophy and Russian Literature deviated from the normal course of study. Other English students worked on Chaucer and Shakespeare.

Junior English students read American classics like Moby Dick and the Scarlet Letter, and also wrote a term paper. Vocabulary studies were also plentiful. Grammar was emphasized as a tool of composition in the many writing projects due for Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Shapely. Crime and Punishment and Siddharta were studied in units on identity and alienation.

Sophomores plunged deeply into grammar so as to have an adequate background in the years ahead. Yet literature wasn't neglected, as Silas Marner and Julius Caesar, Animal Farm and The Old Man and the Seas proved favorites.

Junior High students stressed grammar and vocabulary in their studies, with literature thrown in to interest as well as educate them.

Clockwise from opposite page, top left: Sharon Catledge uses her spare time to read some of the required reading. Clowning around with literature is a favorite pastime for many people in all walks of life. Vocal Mrs. Bowen takes absolute command of her class as she lectures. Allyn Mann waits for lunch period to end while she sits on the hall floor outside her English class. Mrs. Wilder goes over some papers while her class does some board work. Time to review notes before tests brings students to the library. "Till Birnam Wood comes nigh to Dunsinane Hill": These woes from Macbeth brought to mind the Junior-Senior Prom.

Fearful Four Allies For Fun And Epic

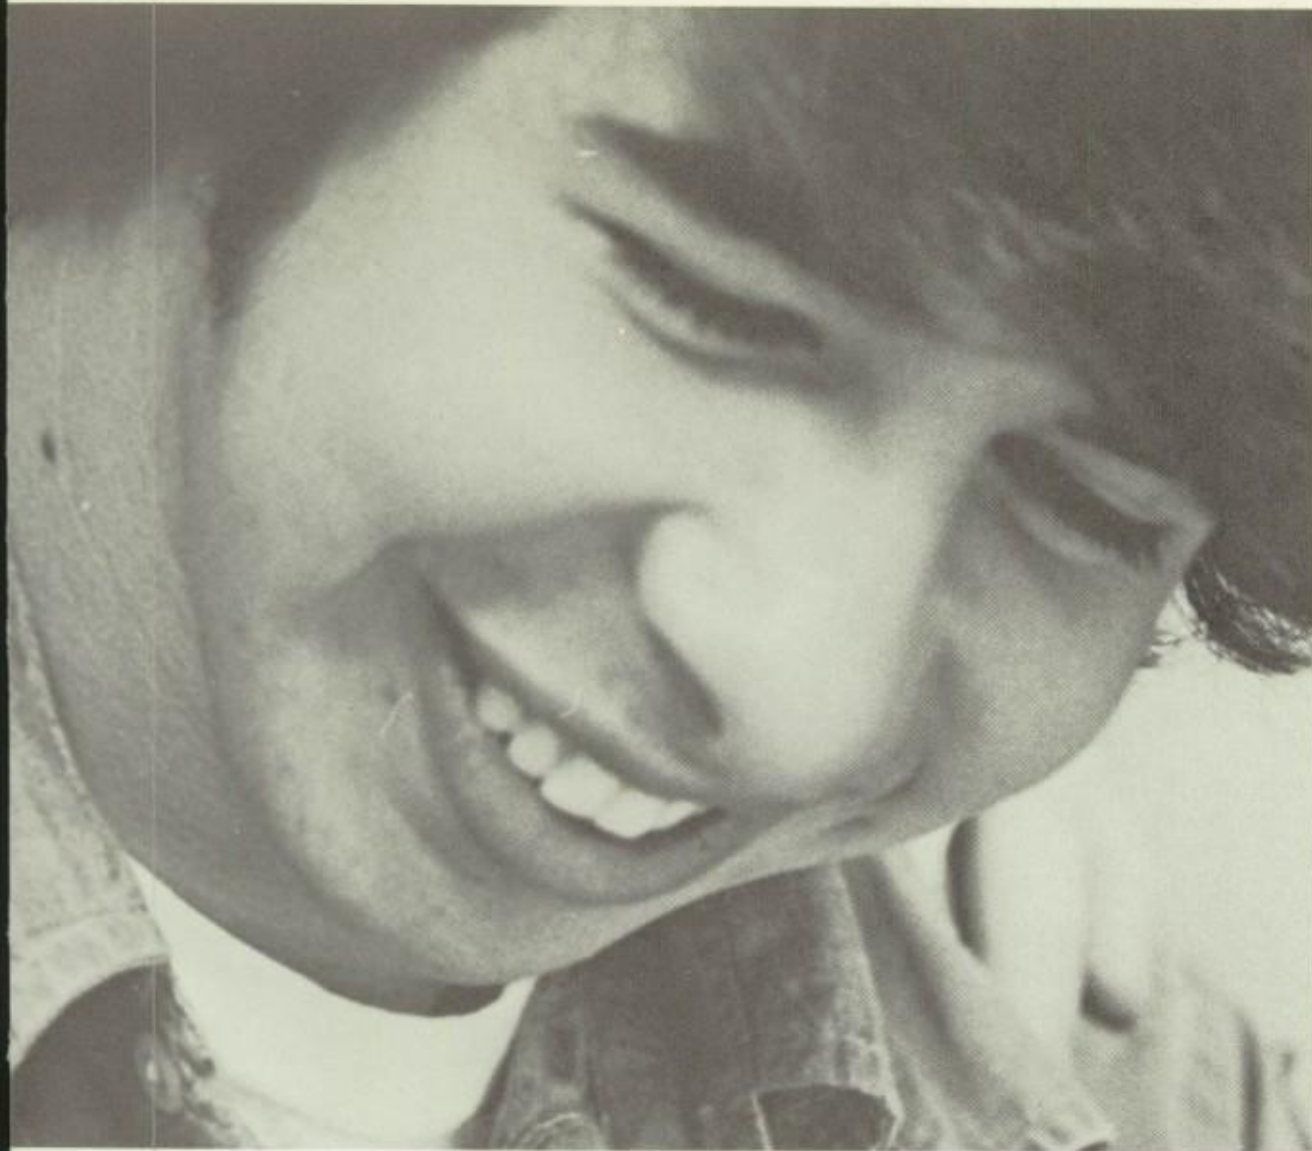

"You will write an epic," directed the unwary English teacher. A long week and many late hours after, Tales of the Fearful Four was presented to the class. Written by the original four—Sir John, Bart, Gary and Mark—the epic was the first in a long series of misadventures for the growing group.

These adventures, humorous and otherwise, included many Risk games, a tradition passed on from Murrah of old. However, humor and the betterment of any situation remained the prime motivation.

As the weeks passed, two new members were added to the group as a result of like interests and activities.

Wey Chi Society Emerges

The ancient Chinese game of Go, also known as Wey Chi, provides hours of mental stimulation and planning. The game, played with two contestants, consists of black and white pebbles and a playing board. The objective is the removal of the opponents pieces by surrounding them. Pieces are played one at a time, and there is no element of chance.

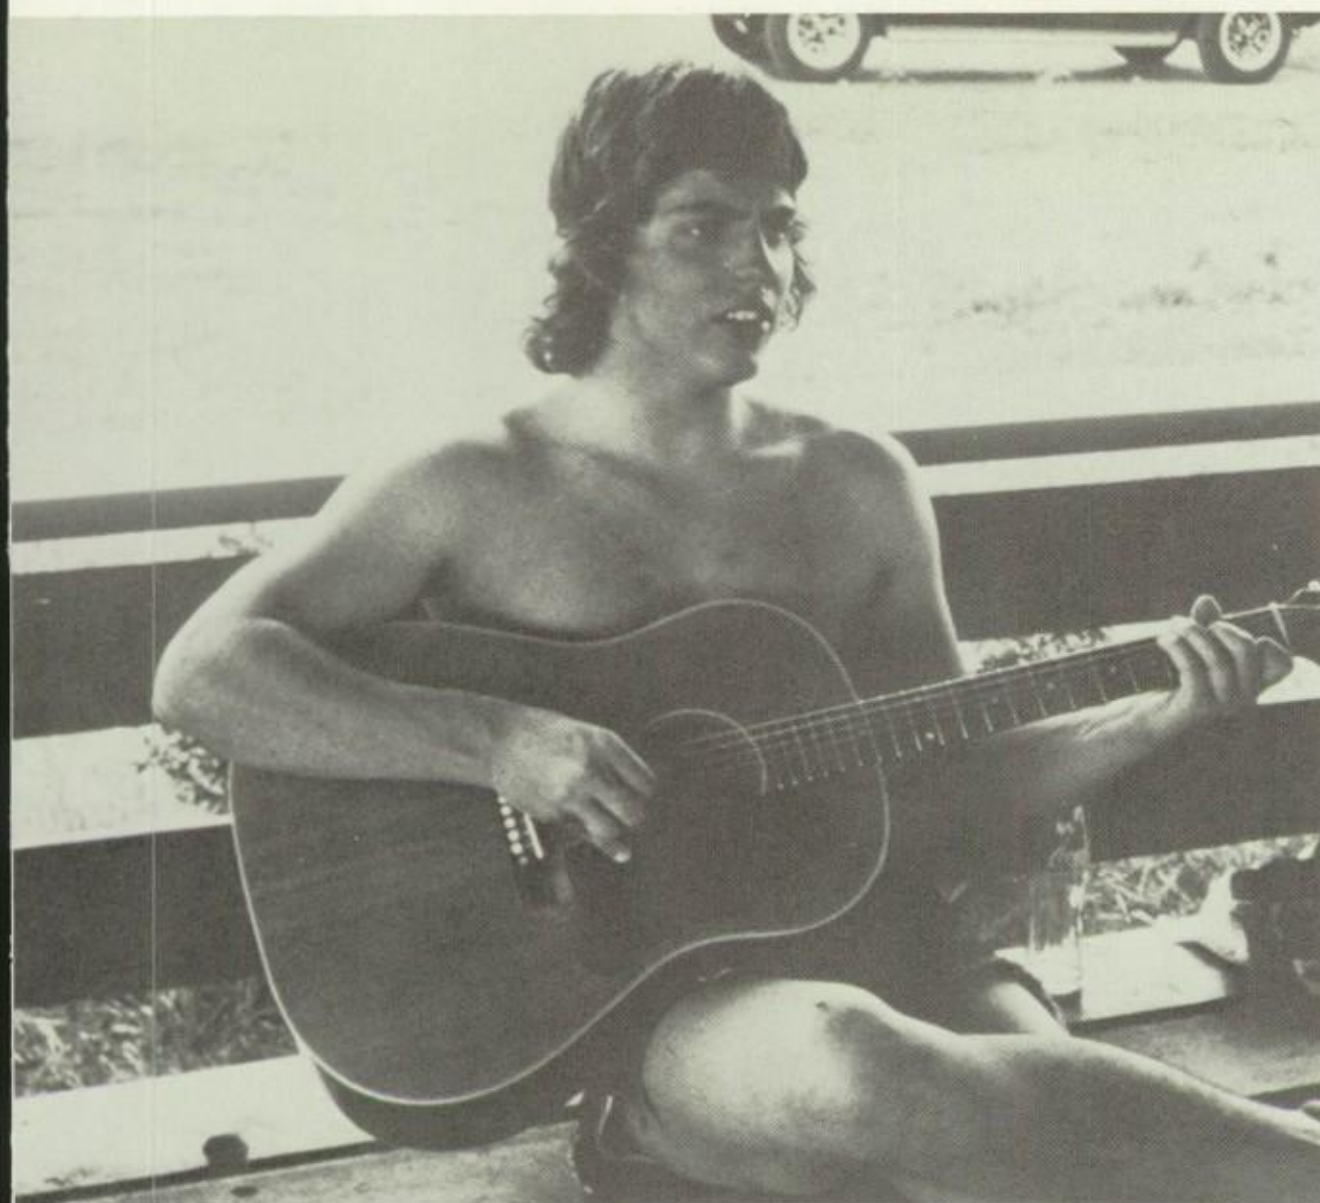

The Wey Chi Society is a farcical group in which everyone is a president. Membership is limited to those who have played the game and apply to the Society for membership.

Speech and Debate Society Expands

"Mr. Chairman!"

"The Chair recognizes Mr. McDonald."

"I move we adjourn."

"Second!"

"It has been moved and seconded that we adjourn. All those in favor, stand up and walk out."

The Speech and Debate Society, better known as the SDS, serves as an organizing body for the debate team. Tournament plans as well as social plans are laid at SDS meetings. These meetings, which were replaced by the debate class first semester, held the debate team together and helped introduce new people to the wonderful world of debate. The meetings, run by pseudo-parliamentary procedure, were also used to conduct National Forensic League business.

The SDS also has two standing committees, the Sub-Deb (Subversive Debate) Committee and the all-male Mickey Mouse Chorus. The Sub-Deb Committee was responsible for planning social activities, such as the Third Annual SDS Spring Picnic. The Mickey Mouse Chorus provides musical diversion at SDS gatherings. The SDS provides constructive activity for speech fans.

Debate Team Enjoys Unprecedented Success

Several changes in the debate program allowed the debate team to experience a year of successful competition. For the first time at Prep, a class in debate was scheduled for those interested in speech and debate. Through this class, new debaters learned concepts and gained practical experience. The class also allowed the team to hear a guest lecturer explain various ramifications of the topic. Charles Garvin, a Harvard debater, also gave critiques on practice rounds.

Another first was a full time debate coach, Gordon Meador, who taught the class and traveled with the team. In addition to Mr. Meador, the team received aid from Mr. Anderson, Mr. Darden and Mrs. Bowen. Of course, parents were always a help, providing transportation and time.

The team represented Prep in twelve tournaments against teams from Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Tennessee, and Texas. A Prep team made quarterfinals in every regular season tournament they attended and captured first place in five.

Those on the team who saw competitive debate action included Mark Stanton, James Becker, John Geary, Sonja Schwartz, Susan Tsimortis, Georgia Nix, Carver Brown and David Hopper.

Individual Events Competition Nets Hardware

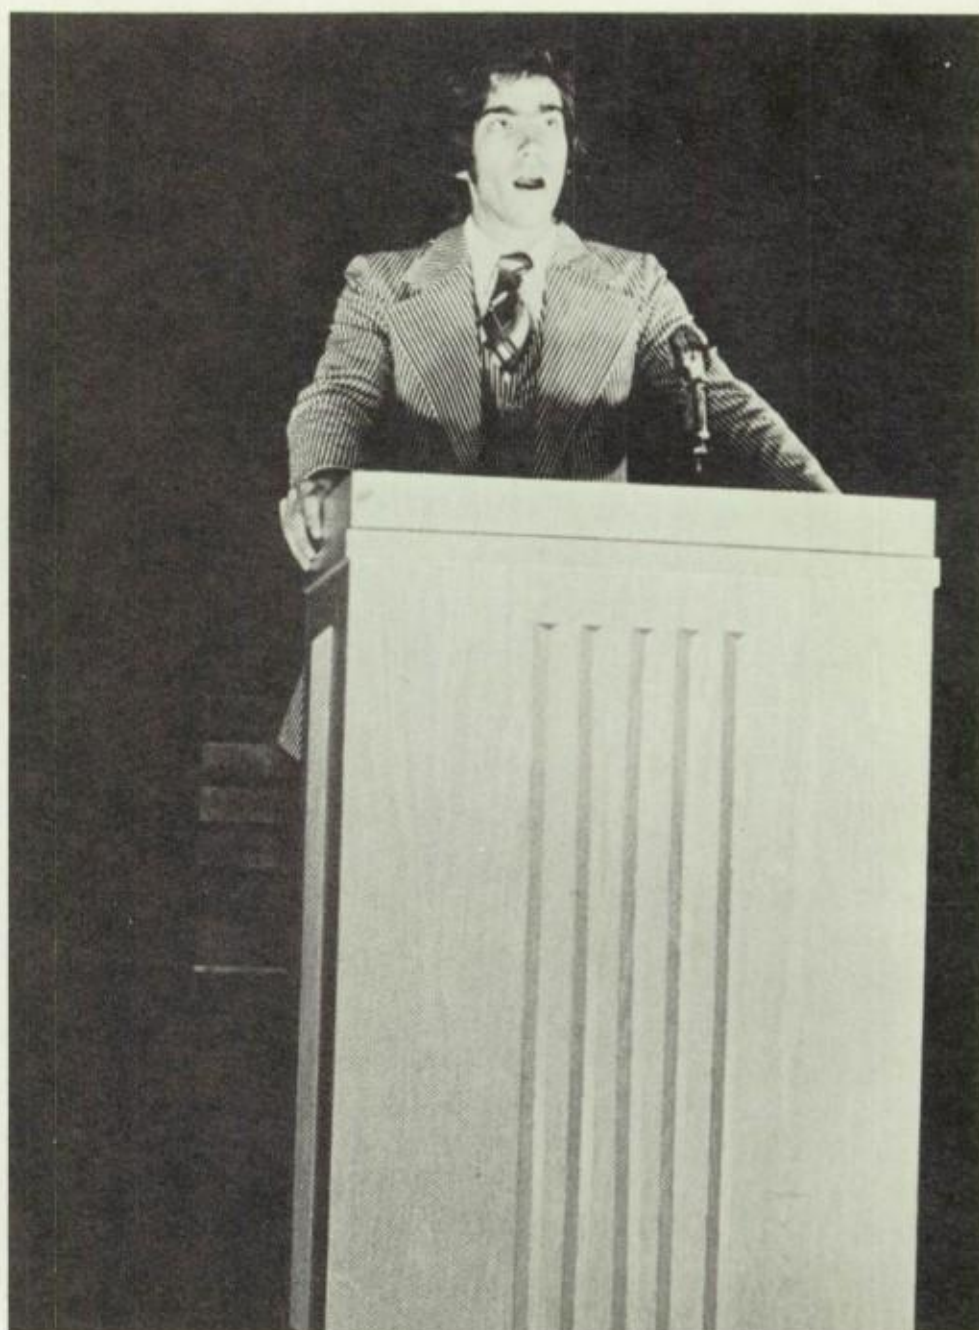

Debate is not the only form of speech competition available to students. In fact, most debate tournaments also had divisions for individual competition, such as extemporaneous speaking, original oratory, humorous oratory, after-dinner speaking, dramatic interpretation, impromptu and duet acting. A large number of debaters and other speech enthusiasts participated in this competition, and most did quite well.

Youth Congress and National Forensic League

Prep delegates to the Mississippi Youth Congress argued the validity and practicality of several bills unsuccessfully. The Congress, held over a three day period at the Heidleberg Hotel, allowed first hand experience in debate from the floor and gave representatives a chance to display their knowledge of Parliamentary Procedure.

The National Forensic League sanctions speech tournaments throughout the nation and allows students to record points for their performances. Points are awarded in three categories, with a greater number of points given for better performances. The NFL also sanctions district tournaments which are qualifying tournaments for the NFL National Debate Tournament.

Earthwinds Makes Spring Debut

Earthwinds' third edition proved to be an impressive step forward for the literary magazine's history. With the help of a new sponsor and the activity fee, Earthwinds amazed the students with its spring publication. Mrs. Beth Clay guided the editors in meeting the necessary deadlines, and Prep's activity fee allowed the staff to concentrate on obtaining student material rather than facing a fiscal crisis. Also attributing to this year's early publication was the concentrated work done during the spring holidays.

Offering an excellent place for a student to air his opinion and display creativity, the magazine contained selected short stories, essays, poetry, drawings, and photographs. Differing from past publications, this year's Earthwinds offered more photography and initiated an Editor's Award. Judging the short story, essay, and poetry sections were professors from Vanderbilt, Sewanee, and Millsaps.

Yearbook Staff Breaks, Follows Tradition

Innovation was the key word on the Précis staff this past year as several ideas picked up at the Gulf Coast Workshop were implemented. The main improvement centered around full use of the communicative areas of the book, such as the cover lithograph, extended margins, and redesigned layout and format. In this manner, tradition was left by the wayside.

Unfortunately, part of the legacy lived on as the staff missed several deadlines and had troubles with the photographers. A large group of interested students in September dwindled to a handful of workers as the year progressed. Lack of materials such as copy, photos and layouts thwarted attempts to rectify the situation. However, dedication and friendship managed to complete the task at hand, and the 1974 Précis went to press, late but in polished form.

The Sentry entertained the students with features on current events, as well as kept them informed with school happenings. Though the beginning of the year marked a learning period for the Sentry workers, the staff quickly caught on to the mechanics of newspaper publications with the help of a new sponsor, Mrs. Barbara Robertson. Another new addition to the Sentry was the Northside Sun's offset printing.

Seven staff members spent their Thanksgiving holidays at the National Scholastic Press Association Convention in Atlanta. The techniques learned from the Convention helped the Sentry win four awards at the Mississippi Scholastic Press Association Convention in Oxford: General Excellence, News Writing, Advertising, and a special writer's award for Mark Stanton's "Palantir". Advertising, cartoons, and photography were also successfully employed.

Although there was no journalism class, journalism awards were presented on Honors Day to Ann Woodliff, Ben Puckett, and John Wells for their dedicated work on the Sentry.

A Comment On The Year 1973-1974

In the world of sports, several records were broken and much turmoil arose. Secretariat won the 1973 Kentucky Derby, Preakness, and Belmont Stakes with impressive performances to capture horse racing's Triple Crown. Secretariat was the first horse to do so since Citation, over two decades ago.

Gordon Johncock won the tragedy-torn 1973 Indianapolis 500 which saw three drivers killed and several spectators injured. Several racing safety regulations were changed as a result of this race. Johnny Rutherford won the 1974 version, which saw modified cars carrying less fuel.

In tennis, hustler Bobby Riggs, the male champion of women's tennis, fell to the wicked racquet of Billy Jean King in the Houston Astrodome. The event was broadcast live. Engaged Americans Chris Evert and Jimmy Connors won the men's and women's singles on the grass at Wimbledon.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama lost the Sugar Bowl and the college national championship of football to Notre Dame's Fightin' Irish in New Orleans. North Carolina toppled mighty UCLA and Bill Walton to capture the NCAA basketball championship.

The Buffalo Bills' O.J. Simpson became the first professional running back to carry for over 2000 yards in a single season (2003). The Miami Dolphins (National Football League) won the Superbowl for the second consecutive time, tying Green Bay's record.

In baseball, Hammerin' Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves broke Babe Ruth's homerun record of 714 early in the season.

League tennis, professional track and the World Football League began operation during the year. The WFL was aided in its infancy by an NFL player's strike.

College campuses across the nation were hit by streakers in the early spring. Streaking is a type of informal track event where uniforms are not allowed. Streakers were spotted in heavy concentrations in the northeast and in the west, with a few spotted in the south.

Middle: Energy-saving cars became the mode of travel. Bottom: Then-President Nixon gave the Miss. Economic Council a pep talk at their annual meeting.

The political world was rocked by upheavals both in America and elsewhere. A new party came into power in Great Britain following their declaration of a three-day work week due to energy shortages. Chancellor Willy Brandt of West Germany resigned after being linked with a double agent working for the Communist nations. Portugal, Greece and Cyprus were sites of peaceful and not so peaceful government transitions. France and Spain also saw new figures gain power in their governments.

America herself saw a major change in the personnel of the executive branch. Spiro T. Agnew became the second Vice-president to resign his office. Ramifications of the Watergate investigations revealed tax evasion and corruption from his days as governor of Maryland. He pleaded nolo contendere to the charges brought against him.

Vast changes in President Nixon's Cabinet due to personnel shifts and indictments brought foreign affairs advisor Henry Kissinger to the post of Secretary of State. Dr. Kissinger, German-born diplomat, was instrumental in continuing America's relations with Russia and Red China, as well as in settling flare-ups in the Middle East and other parts of the world.

The Watergate scandal of the 1972 elections, which saw Nixon elected with the greatest majority ever, branched in several directions. Both the House and Senate, as well as a White House investigator, heard testimony for months on end. Subpoenas were issued to the president for tapes of conversations which were held in his office. Finally, after Nixon produced transcripts of the tapes with portions deleted, the Supreme Court declared Nixon should turn over the tapes themselves. Portions of these tapes as well as of tapes released earlier, were found to be nonexistent. Impeachment proceedings were begun by a House Committee, and a resolution was passed. The Result: resignation of President Nixon and the ascension to office of Vice-President Ford, former House minority leader whom Nixon appointed as Vice-president when Agnew resigned.

A dire energy shortage, rocketing inflation, the "kidnapping" of Patty Hurst, UFO sightings in Mississippi, all shared headlines through the year.

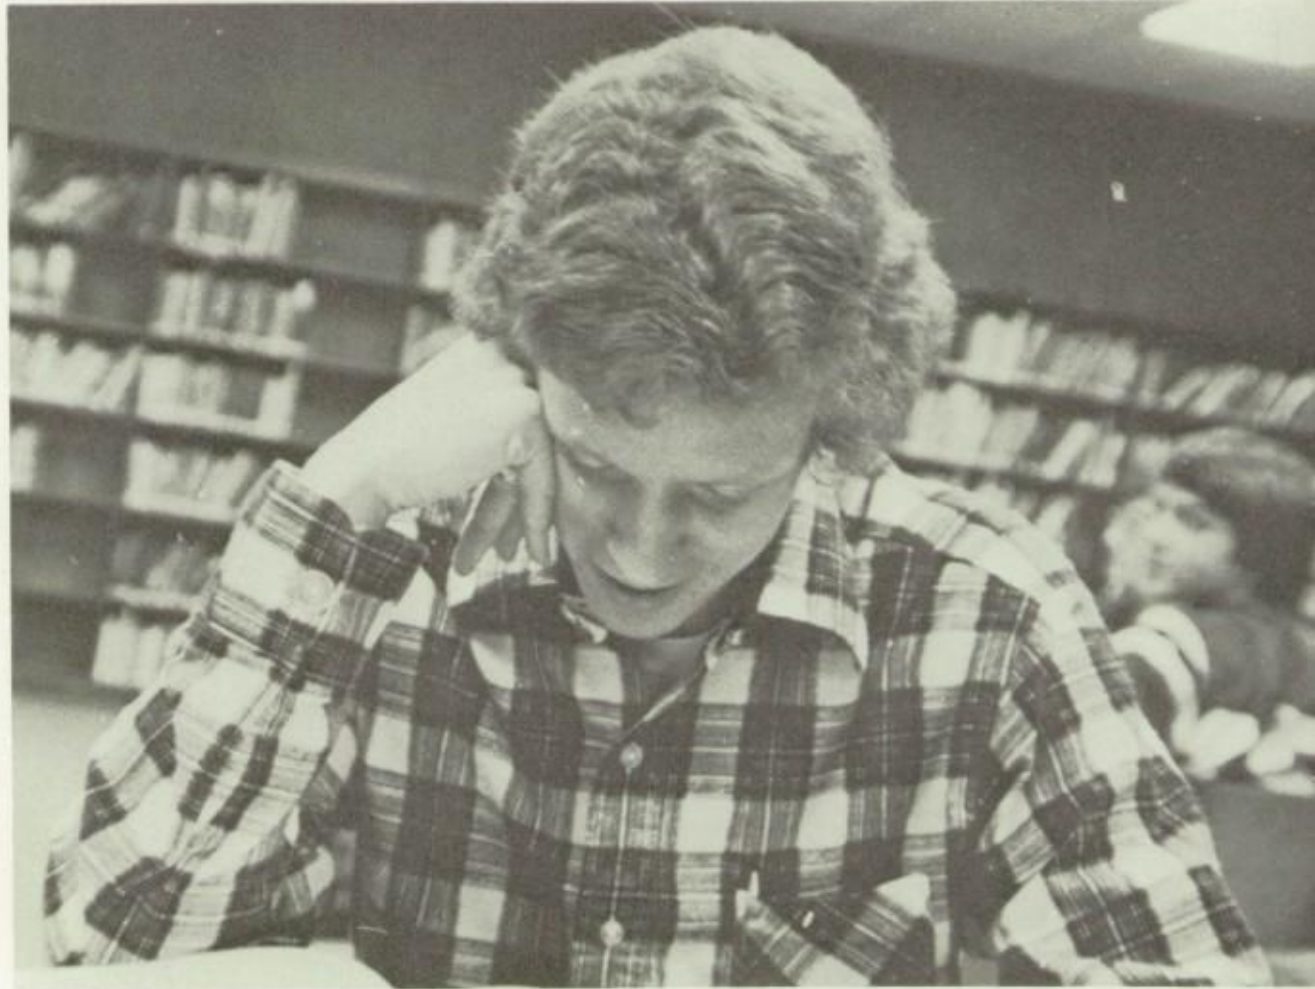

Social Studies Arouse Interest In World Affairs

The Social Studies department was a mixture of intriguing projects and activities and the same "old stuff." Courses in both the senior high and the junior high in many cases bore a remarkable resemblance.

While seventh graders were engaged in studying international affairs, prodded by Mrs. Allen and Miss Worthen, they plunged into studies of several areas of the world, highlighted by their own European Day. Eighth graders and eleventh graders alike found themselves studying American History, although the depth of coverage was different. Another difference was the area of concentration, with the younger students centering on the Colonial period while the older ones looked at the Post-Civil War Era intensely.

Mississippi History and Civics occupied the minds of ninth graders, equivalent to the instruction received in American Government classes. World History occupied the time of tenth grade students as they surveyed the world as a whole. Seniors covered international relations in their courses.

Socio-economic Implications of Fair and Dance

Learning has never been confined to the classroom. Students of sociology, business and accounting can verify this fact. Even though no field trips were taken to the State Fair or the Fifties Dance (trips were taken to Parchman and Riverside, however), any student with an eye for applications can spot varying social and business encounters which he (or she) has read about.

Obviously, human behavior comes into play whenever the human is active in some activity. At the Fair or at the Dance, different behavior characteristics were apparent. And for those with a business background, the Fair is ideal for seeing business in action.

Students of accounting, typing, business and sociology were far more classroom oriented, with emphasis on theory rather than practice. This type curriculum allows students to learn the basics and make applications themselves. This system hopefully will let students profit to a greater extent in the business world.

Roundballers Post 14-11 Season

The basketball team, although young and inexperienced, proved itself a talented and solid ball club. The team finished with a very respectable 14-11 record. The team relied on a tenacious press and its great speed to beat taller opponents. Ricky Covington led the team offensively, averaging 20 points per contest, while Mike Montgomery was the defensive standout. The big men in the middle were Andy Lambeth, Bill Nolan, and Rusty Ethridge. Bee Stricklin contributed greatly with his outside shooting. There were only two seniors on this year's team, Stricklin and Lambeth. The team awards went to Ricky Covington, Best Offensive and MVP; Mike Montgomery, Best Defensive; Rusty Ethridge, Most Improved; and Bee Stricklin, Coaches' Award.

Free Period and Lunch Provide Release From

Rigors of Study

The thirty minutes after second period is utilized by clubs for meetings, by some individuals for rest, by other individuals for eating, and by even others for conducting miscellaneous business. The free time also gives the faculty a break, as well as an opportunity to schedule assemblies.

Of course, everyone knows what lunch is for. This twenty-five minute break sometime during third or fourth period gives students a chance to fill their stomachs and conclude unfinished business, or for some, a chance to visit or study.

A few students were able to sneak food inside the building so that the wait for fourth period would be easier.

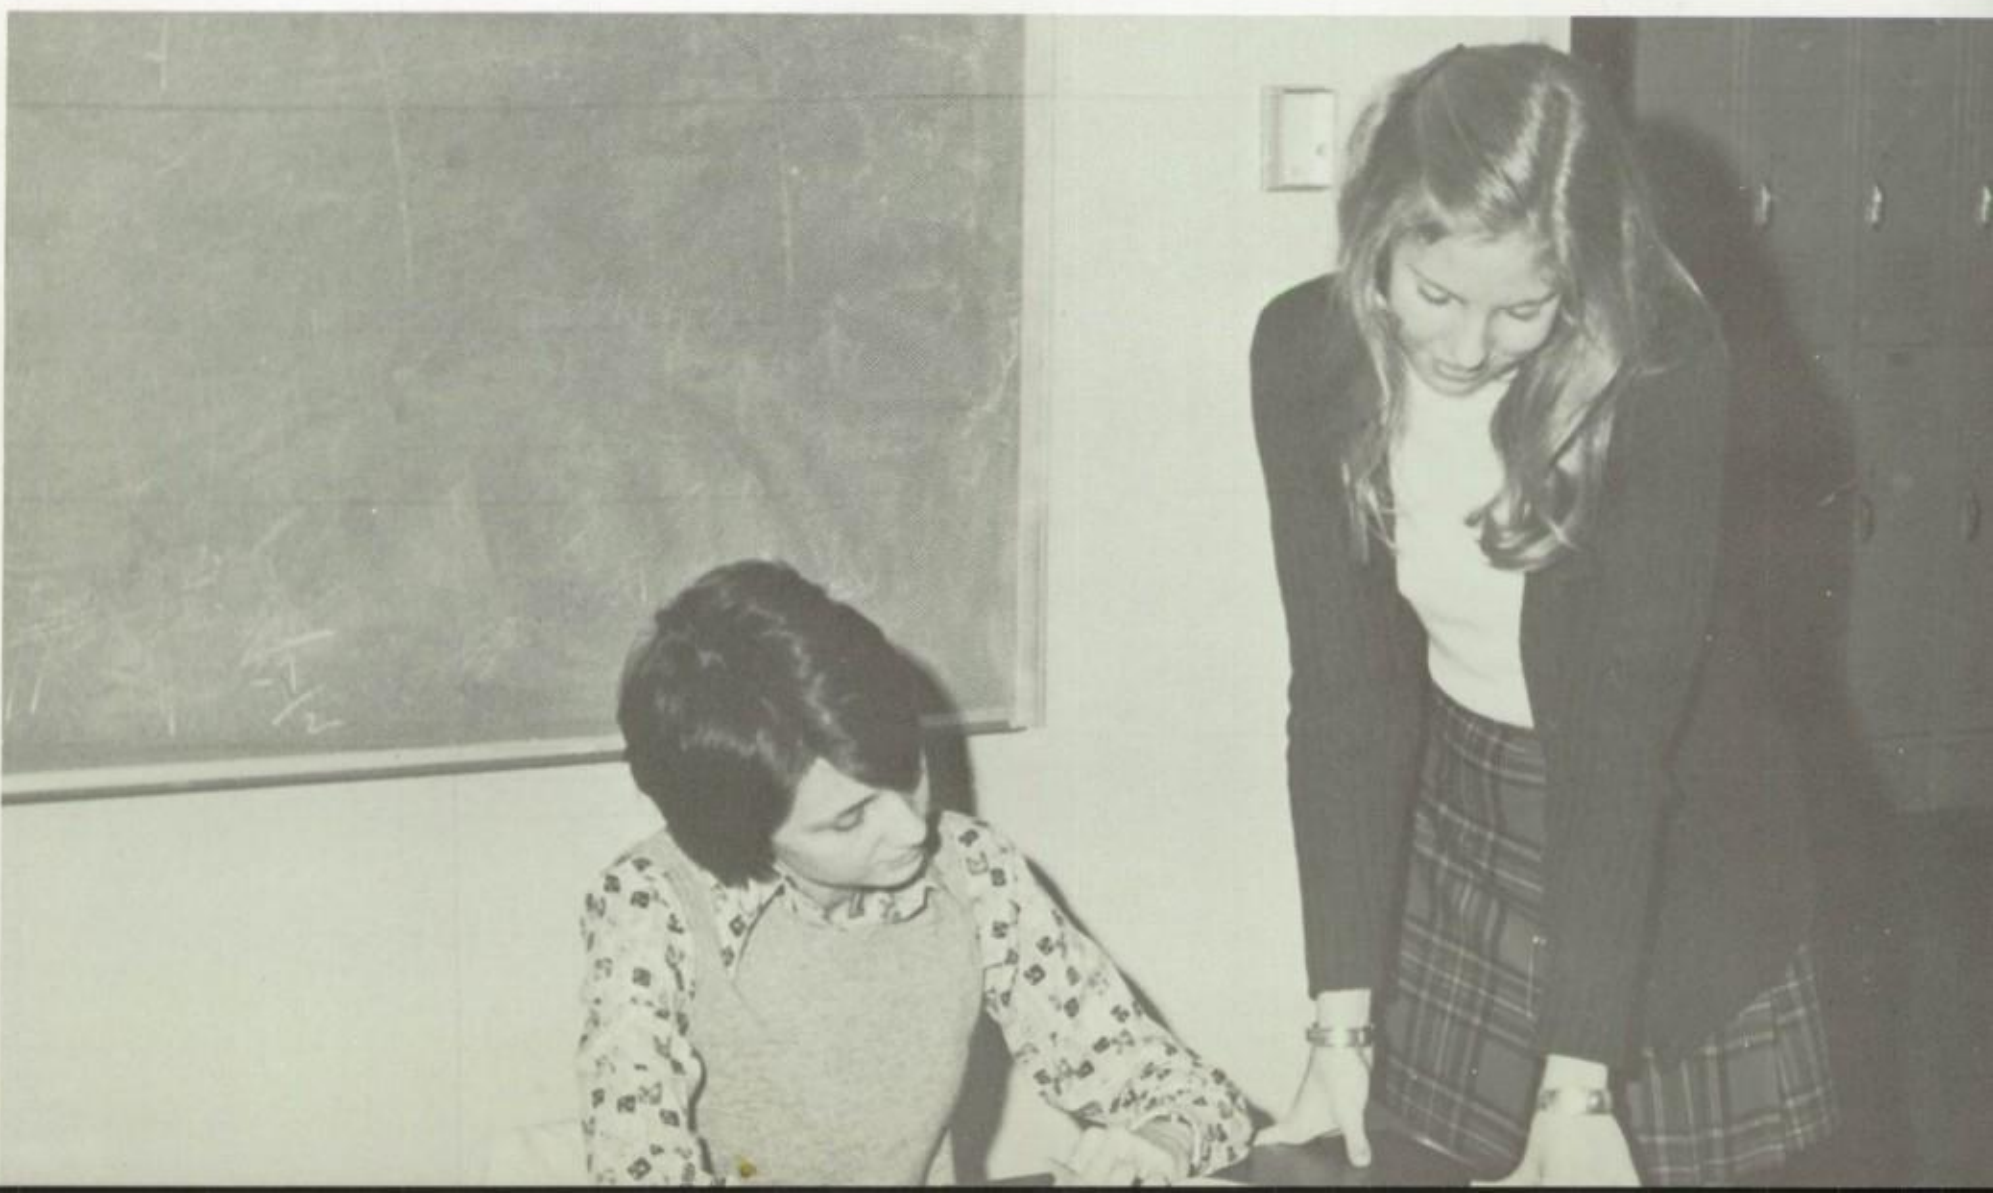

Domain of Math Extends Without Limit

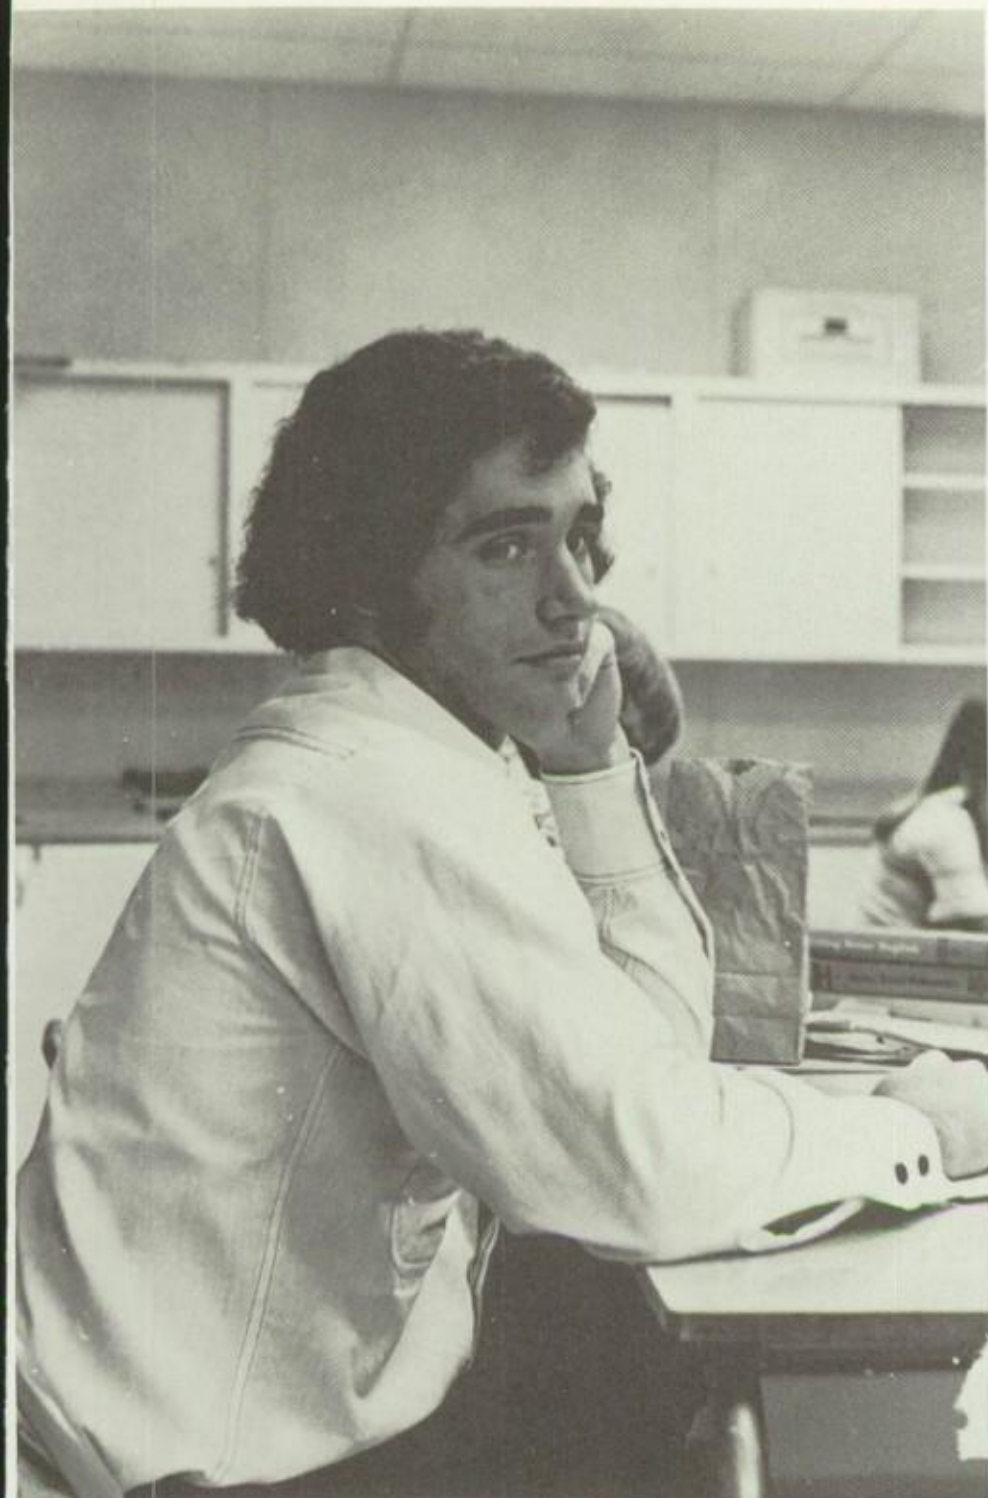

Mathematics encompasses many aspects of many fields. In preparation for the unavoidable encounter with math in the world outside school, Prep courses provide basics and more.

Seventh grade students as well as eighth grade scholars are exposed to the basic rudiments of math. Algebra I expands these basics to cover more complex areas of the science. Geometry allows students to glimpse proofs and theorems at a greater extent. Algebra II carries knowledge of figures and theory further. Trigonometry and Analytic Geometry expose students to the type math they will see in college courses. For the advanced students, Algebra III introduces them in depth to permutations and manipulations not normally seen in high school. Calculus carries these scholars further into the realm of college math, almost without limit.

The Prep math curriculum allows maximum experience and comprehension in an atmosphere of learning.

Mu Alpha Theta Adds New Dimension

The math honorary, Mu Alpha Theta, sponsored a tutoring service to aid those students who needed help in the field of mathematics. This service project proved to be quite successful as participation from the club was high. The club also sponsored math oriented assemblies, Math Week, and competitive tests. Visors were sold to members to advance the feeling of brotherhood. The group, sponsored by Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Guest, also held a banquet at Primo's.

Service Is Key For National Honor Society

The National Honor Society began its year of scholarship, leadership, service and character with a luncheon at the Capital City Club. New members were initiated and photos for the yearbook were taken.

Members of the National Honor Society are chosen on the basis of academic excellence and are required to maintain a 3.5 grade average. This year one of their projects was the sponsoring of a tutoring program for those students who felt they needed help. The society sponsored other service projects during the year. Perhaps the most successful was a Christmas party held at Prep for the children from the Methodist Children's Home.

When scheduling permitted, members attended programs on topics from energy conservation to income maintenance.

Key Club Strides Forward, Serves School

The Jackson Prep chapter of the Key Club served the community, school, and drinks this year. The club, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club, manned the concession stand for home football games, serving popcorn, hotdogs, pickles, coffee, and cold drinks. Then, after the game, the club cleaned up the litter which always results. The club also rented stadium seats at each game.

The Key Club co-sponsored the Toys for Tots basketball game between the faculty and victorious Seniors. Then, during the spring, the Key Club sold suckers for the Heart Fund. Service dominated the Key Club's efforts, and many different groups benefited.

The Key Club sent representatives to the Kiwanis Club meetings, but failed to play either a basketball or softball game with the Kiwanians.

Physical Education Program Strengthening

Physical education gives students a break from the rigors of academic pursuit. This break, however, is often far from relaxing. The PE classes work to build the bodies of the students and to increase their motor skills in many areas. The classes also serve as a classroom in leadership.

Girls classes under Miss Jordan continued their tradition of thorough tests on rules of sports from archery, softball, and basketball to volleyball.

Boys classes began with three weeks of strenuous exercise and PE tests. Many complaints issued from the mouths of aching bodies as Coach Vaughn whipped the boys into shape for football, soccer, basketball, volleyball, softball, and tumbling. Tests on knowledge of rules were also plentiful.

Intramurals

Incite Excitement

Intramurals, always popular, reached a new level of popularity this year as more people participated in a wide variety of sports. Intramural teams battled it out in basketball, volleyball, and ping pong. There was even a special Junior-Senior football intramural game. And, of course, the Sophomore-Junior-Senior basketball game was repeated with the Seniors conquering the faculty. The faculty also participated in a volleyball game.

Patriots Capture AAA Baseball Crown

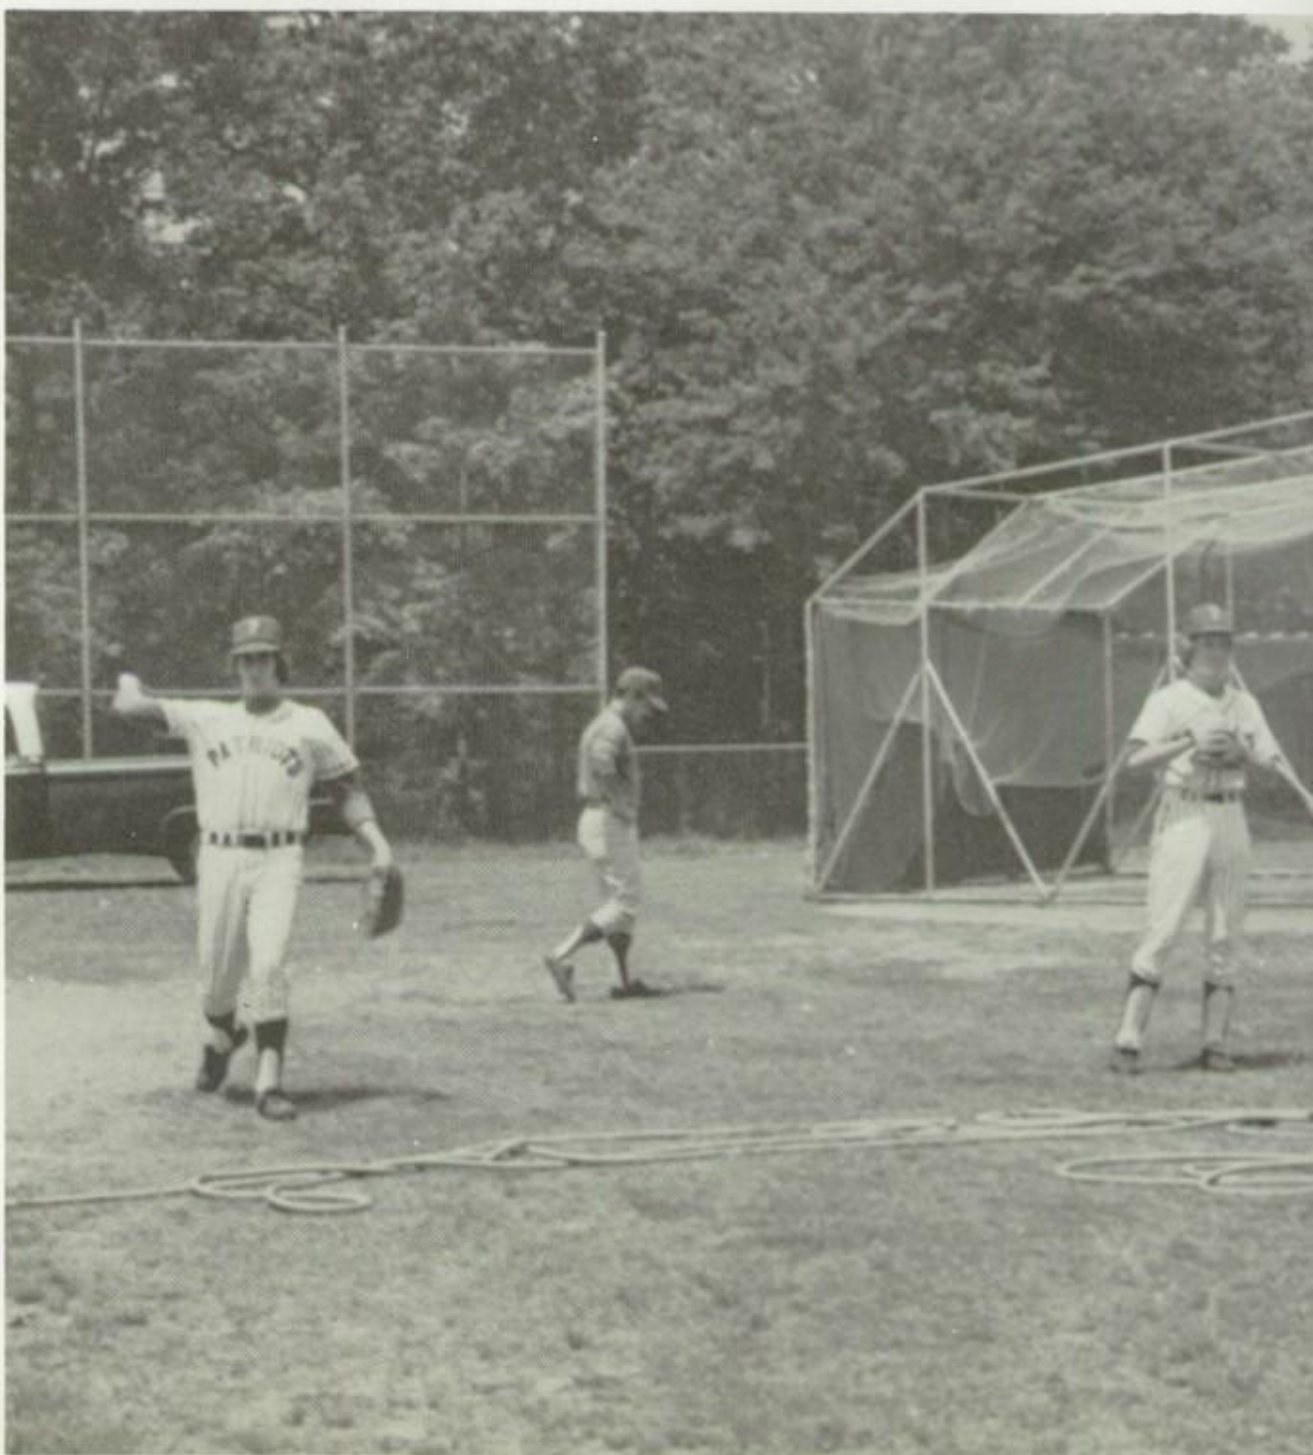

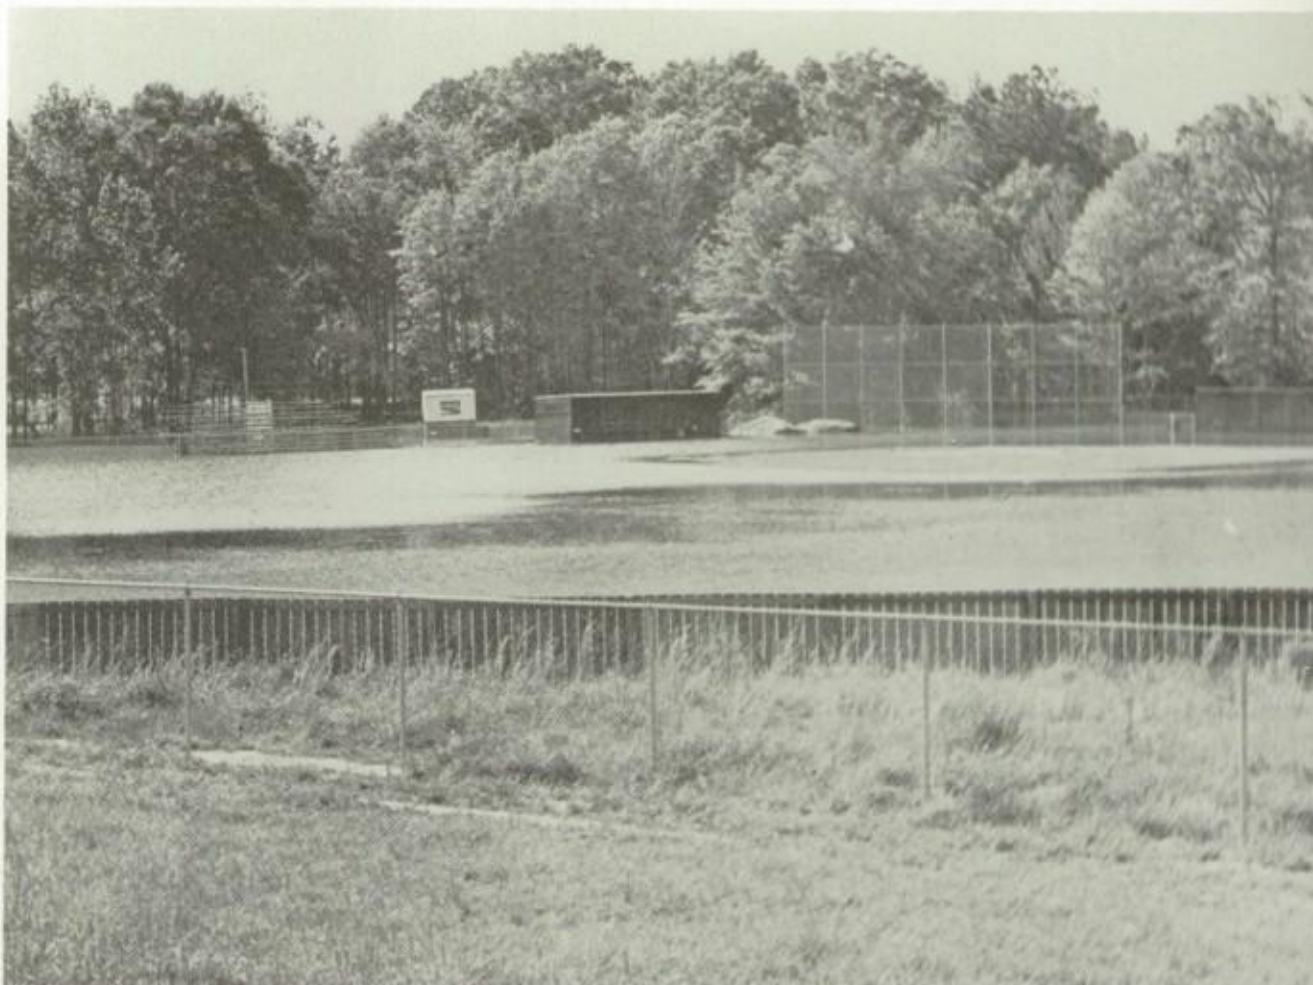

When the 1974 baseball season began there was no doubt that the Patriots would give a strong showing on the diamond. Coach Bill Clement and Coach Preston Smith felt that Prep would be very tough on opposing pitcher's with big sticks like Bee Stricklin, Chip Jones, Mark Clark, and Ricky Covington. The coaches also held the opinion that the fielding ability of Jeff Glover, Joe Putnum, Larry Pavlou, and Don Carlisle would be equally dangerous to opposing batters. Yet there was some doubt as to the strength of the Pat's "Bull Pen." The members of the pitching staff were few in numbers. Hurlers Jack Bickerstaff, Bill Lynch, Ken Fairly, and Bobby Jacobs proved that you don't need a lot of pitchers—just a few good ones.

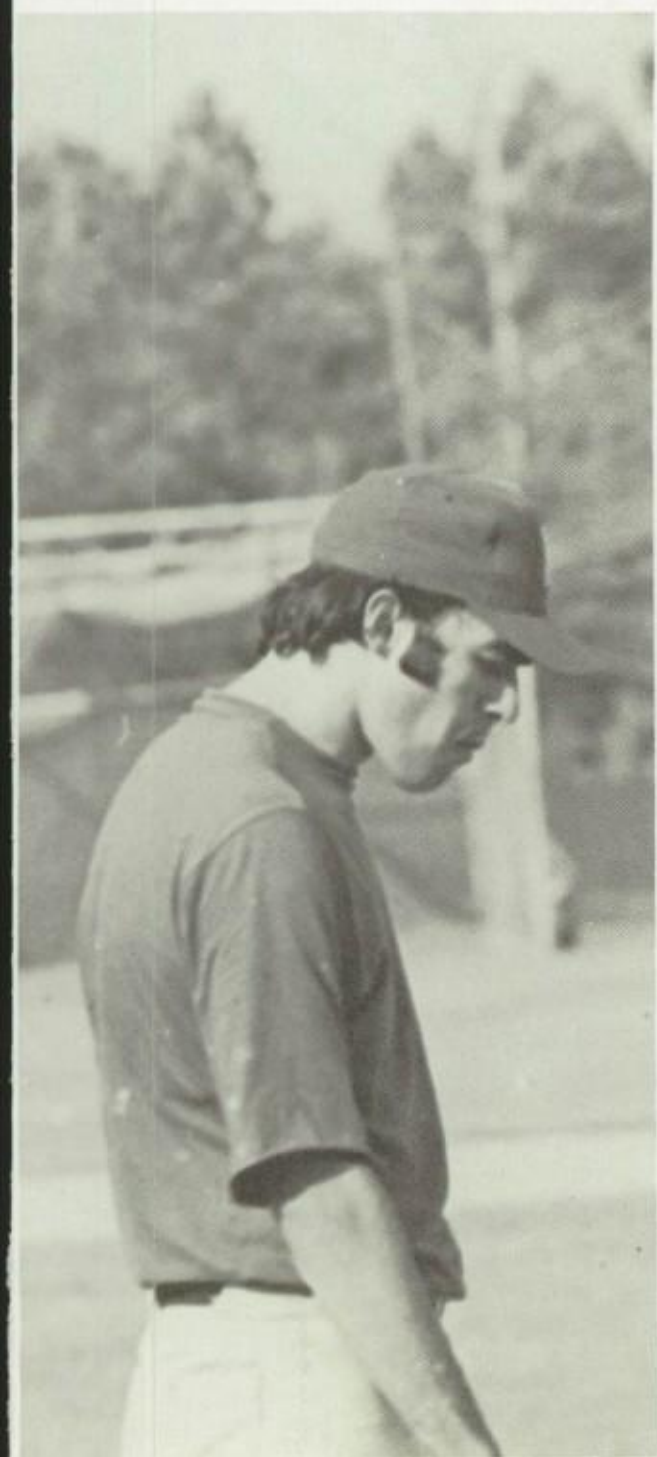

The season got underway with a disappointing loss to Riverside; nevertheless, the Patriots came back to receive only one other loss during the season, which unfortunately came at the hands of Manhattan.

However, revenge was sweet when Prep clobbered the Lancers in the last game of the regular season to end a long campaign with a fantastic 20-2 record and the South AAA Crown.

Prep then advanced to the State AAA tourney. The Patriots swept the best-two-out-of-three game series and brought home Prep's first AAA Baseball Crown.

Students Explore Aspects Of Science

The odors of formaldehyde and hydrogen sulfide and the shocking experience of the "electric pencil" greeted students who entered the biology, chemistry, and physics labs. The excellent laboratory facilities enabled students to demonstrate the concepts that they learned in their courses. Junior high students study Life Science, Earth Science, and Physical Science. Required senior high courses are Biology and Chemistry. Anatomy and Physiology, Physics, and second year Chemistry count as electives.

Classes were accented by field trips. Anatomy and Physiology classes made several trips to local hospitals during the year. Physics students traveled to the Waterways Experiment Station in Vicksburg. Time was also taken out on science fair projects. Several students won awards at fairs on the school, district, and state levels.

Great Discoveries Made at Second Science Fair

Winners for the Math, Computer, Earth, and Space (ninth and tenth grade) category were first place "Digital Logic" by Harry Boadwee and second place "Turbine" by Paul Brewer.

In the Physical Engineering category for ninth and tenth grades, Ernie Strahan placed first with "The Tesla Coil." Clint White placed second with "Turbine."

In the Botany-Microbiology division for ninth and tenth grades, first place went to Steve Surratt for "Bacterial Mutations" and second place to Cathy Patterson with "Dying Yarn with Plants."

In the Zoology-Medical Health division for ninth and tenth grades, Kathryn Becker placed first with "The Balance of Nature" and Mary Williamson was second with "Do You Believe Your Eyes?"

Keiko Suzuki placed first in the Behavioral-Social division for ninth and tenth grades.

The following are eleventh and twelfth grade winners. In the Math, Computer, Earth, Space division, first place winner was John Speed with "Coal Mining." Second place winner was Bill Warner with "The Salinity of Sea Water."

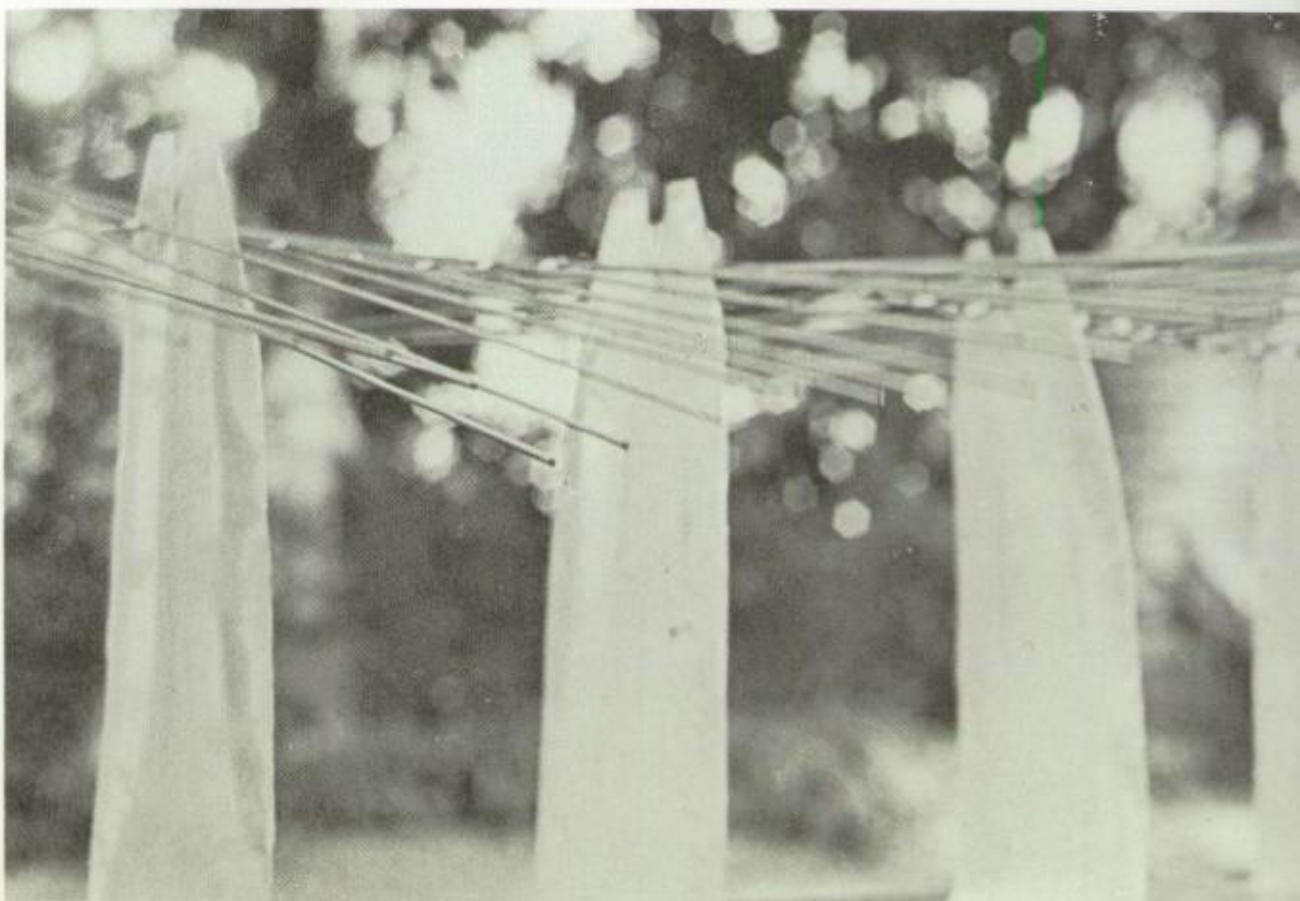

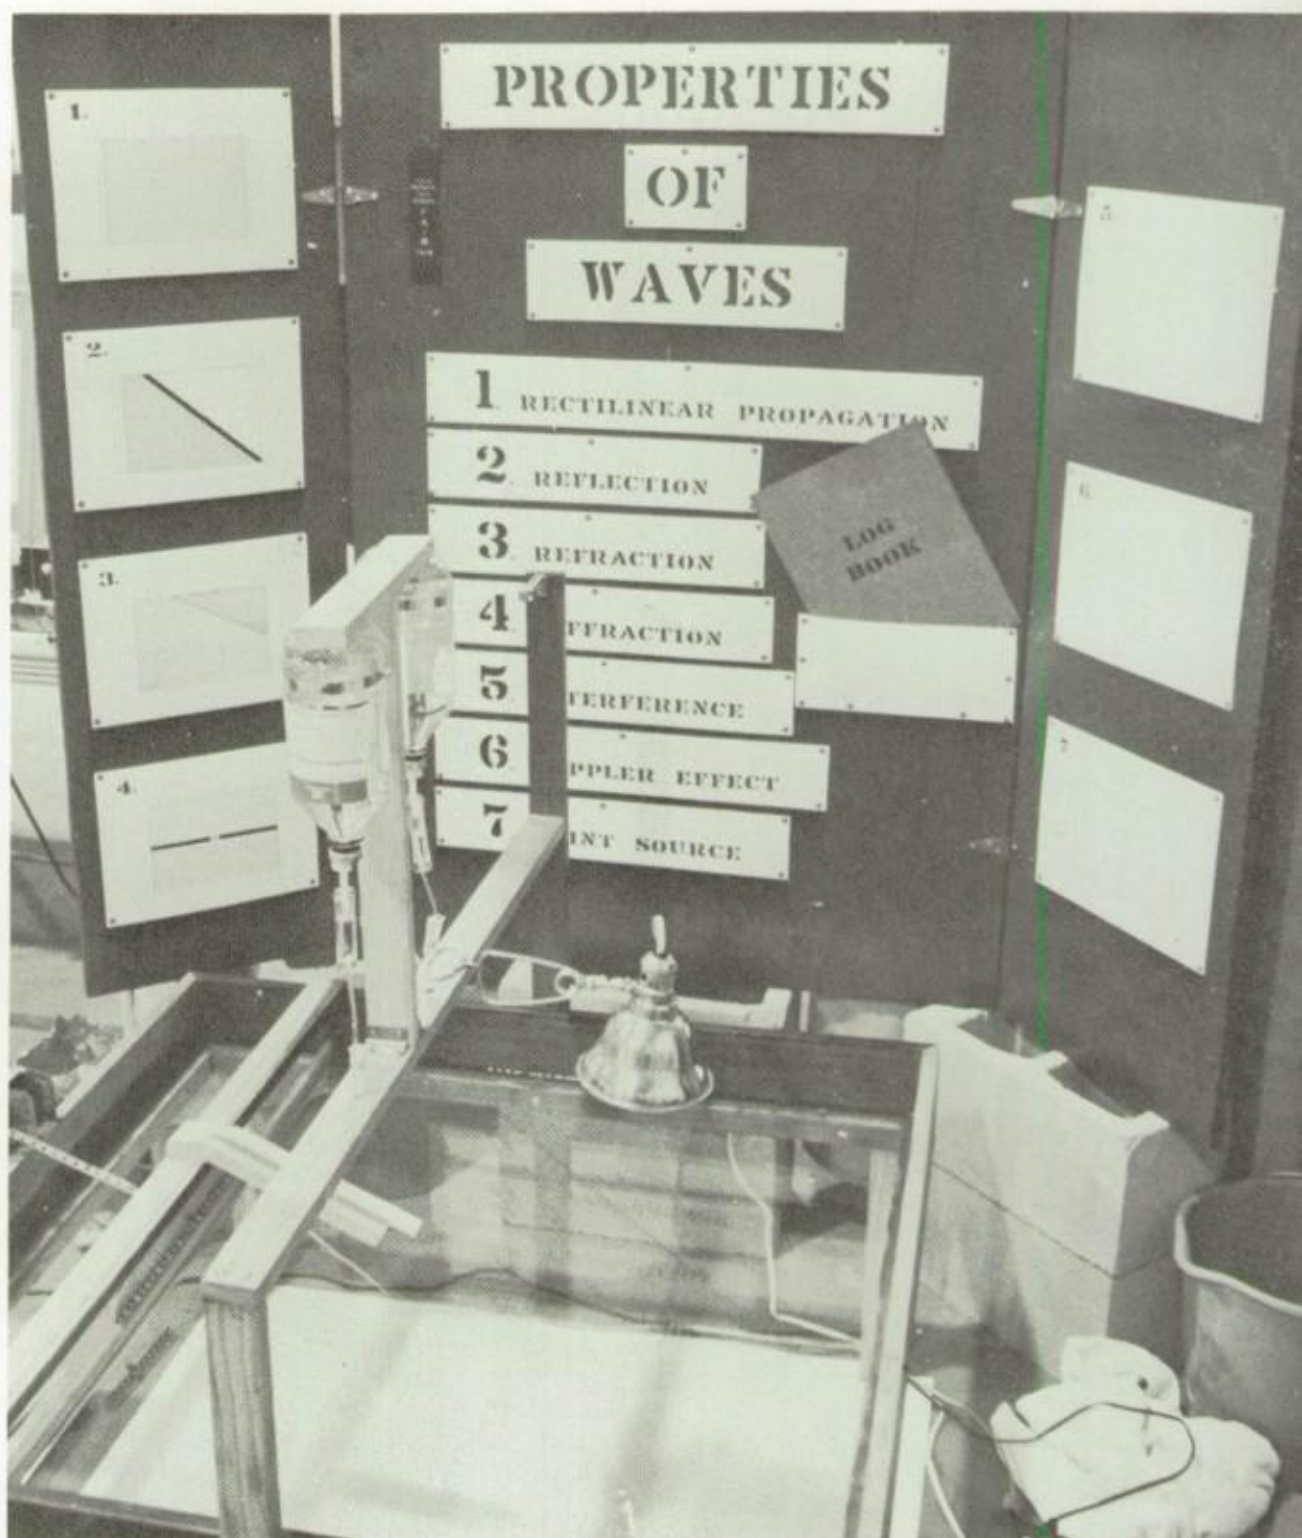

In the Physics-Engineering division, Johnny Sparrow placed first with "Properties of Water." Bart DeLashmet was second with "Waves."

In Botany-Microbiology, Scott Story was first with "Testing Household Germicides." Linda Ray was second with "Result of Hydrocarbons on Vinka."

In the Zoology-Medical Health category, Suzanne Smith was first with her "Interrelation of Mind and Body." Ginny Lee's "Study of Ear Lobes" was second.

In the Behavioral and Social division, John Morgan was first with "Do Mice See Color?". Raymond Hall was second with "Rates of Hostility."

Council Organizes Activities

Student Council members organized several service projects this year, including co-sponsoring Toys for Tots. The Council also organized Victory dances and the Homecoming Dance.

The Student Affairs Committee of the Student Council served as a liaison between students and the Board of Directors. Topics of concern, such as dress code, Senior lounge, smoking lounge, and exam exemptions, were freely discussed. Ideas were kicked around concerning almost everything as the mediation board worked in its inaugural year. The committee consisted of several council offices and students chosen from the student body at large.

Student body officers stop a moment before running off. Taking a back seat are Secretary-Treasurer, Dea Dea Adams and Vice-President, James Becker. Riding shotgun is Parliamentarian John Geary. President Mark Clark is at the wheel, of course.

Assemblies Entertain Students

Assemblies this year gave students an additional way to spend their free period. The programs varied from lecture to musical, from religious to secular, and from mandatory to optional. Although most assemblies originated from within the student body, several were foreign. Among these were visits from NASA and from some singing groups.

Assemblies originating on campus included the Precis Pageant, The Senior Talent Show, and of course several musical programs.

Clockwise from right: "The Tulaneans" from Louisiana sang and strummed their way into the students' hearts. "Songs from the Sixties" was the theme of this Senior Talent Show segment starring Ken Drummonds and Mike Herm. "Sha-Na-Na" were the hit of the show as Bill Stone, "Flop" Ozier, and Richard Aiken crooned the tunes. Prep's melodious Melissa Mann, a freshman at Ole Miss, returned with their singing group to captivate the students. Special effects provide this view of an Ole Miss singer.

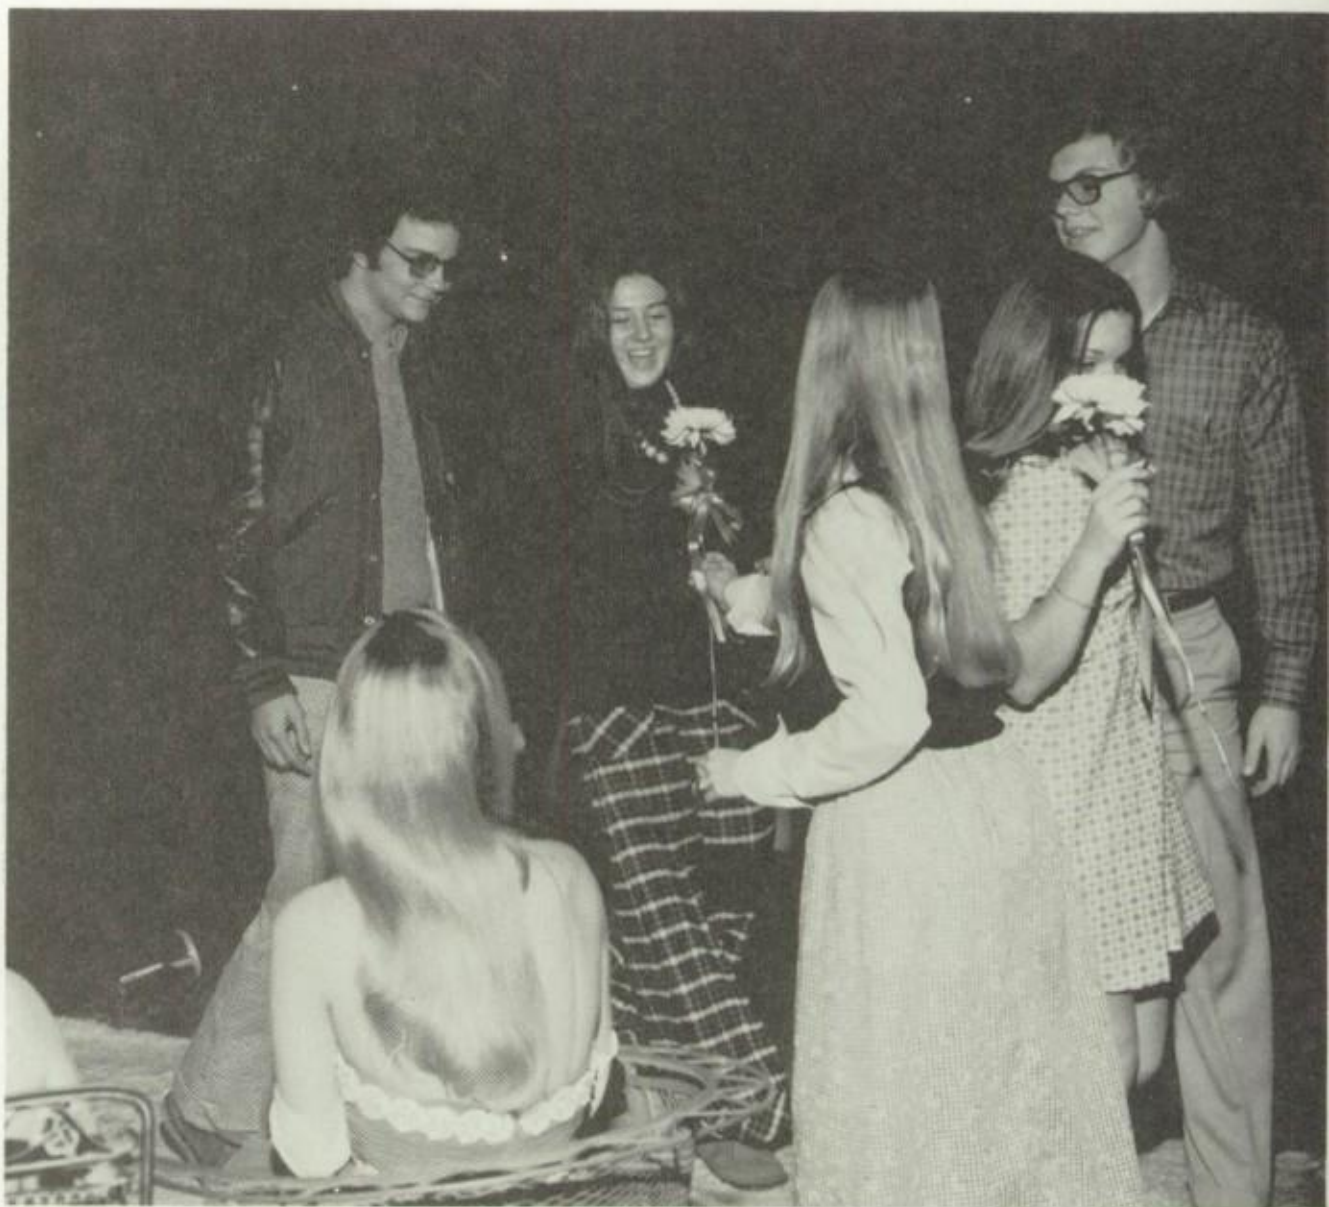

Precis Pageant Reveals Select Few

The 1974 Précis Pageant was a return to ancient Greece, with the trip reflected in the stage settings. Pageant co-ordinator Mike Cutrer borrowed props and handled the technical details. The year-book staff, which uses the pageant as a money-raising project, helped set the stage for the gala show, and also cleaned up afterward.

Student ballots determined the winners in all categories except Most Intellectual, in which grade point standings selected the recipients. Judges voted for Most Beautiful on the basis of their pre-contest talk with the beauties and the beauties' promenade down the runway. Tradition was broken this year as Mr. and Miss Prep was not revealed until the end.

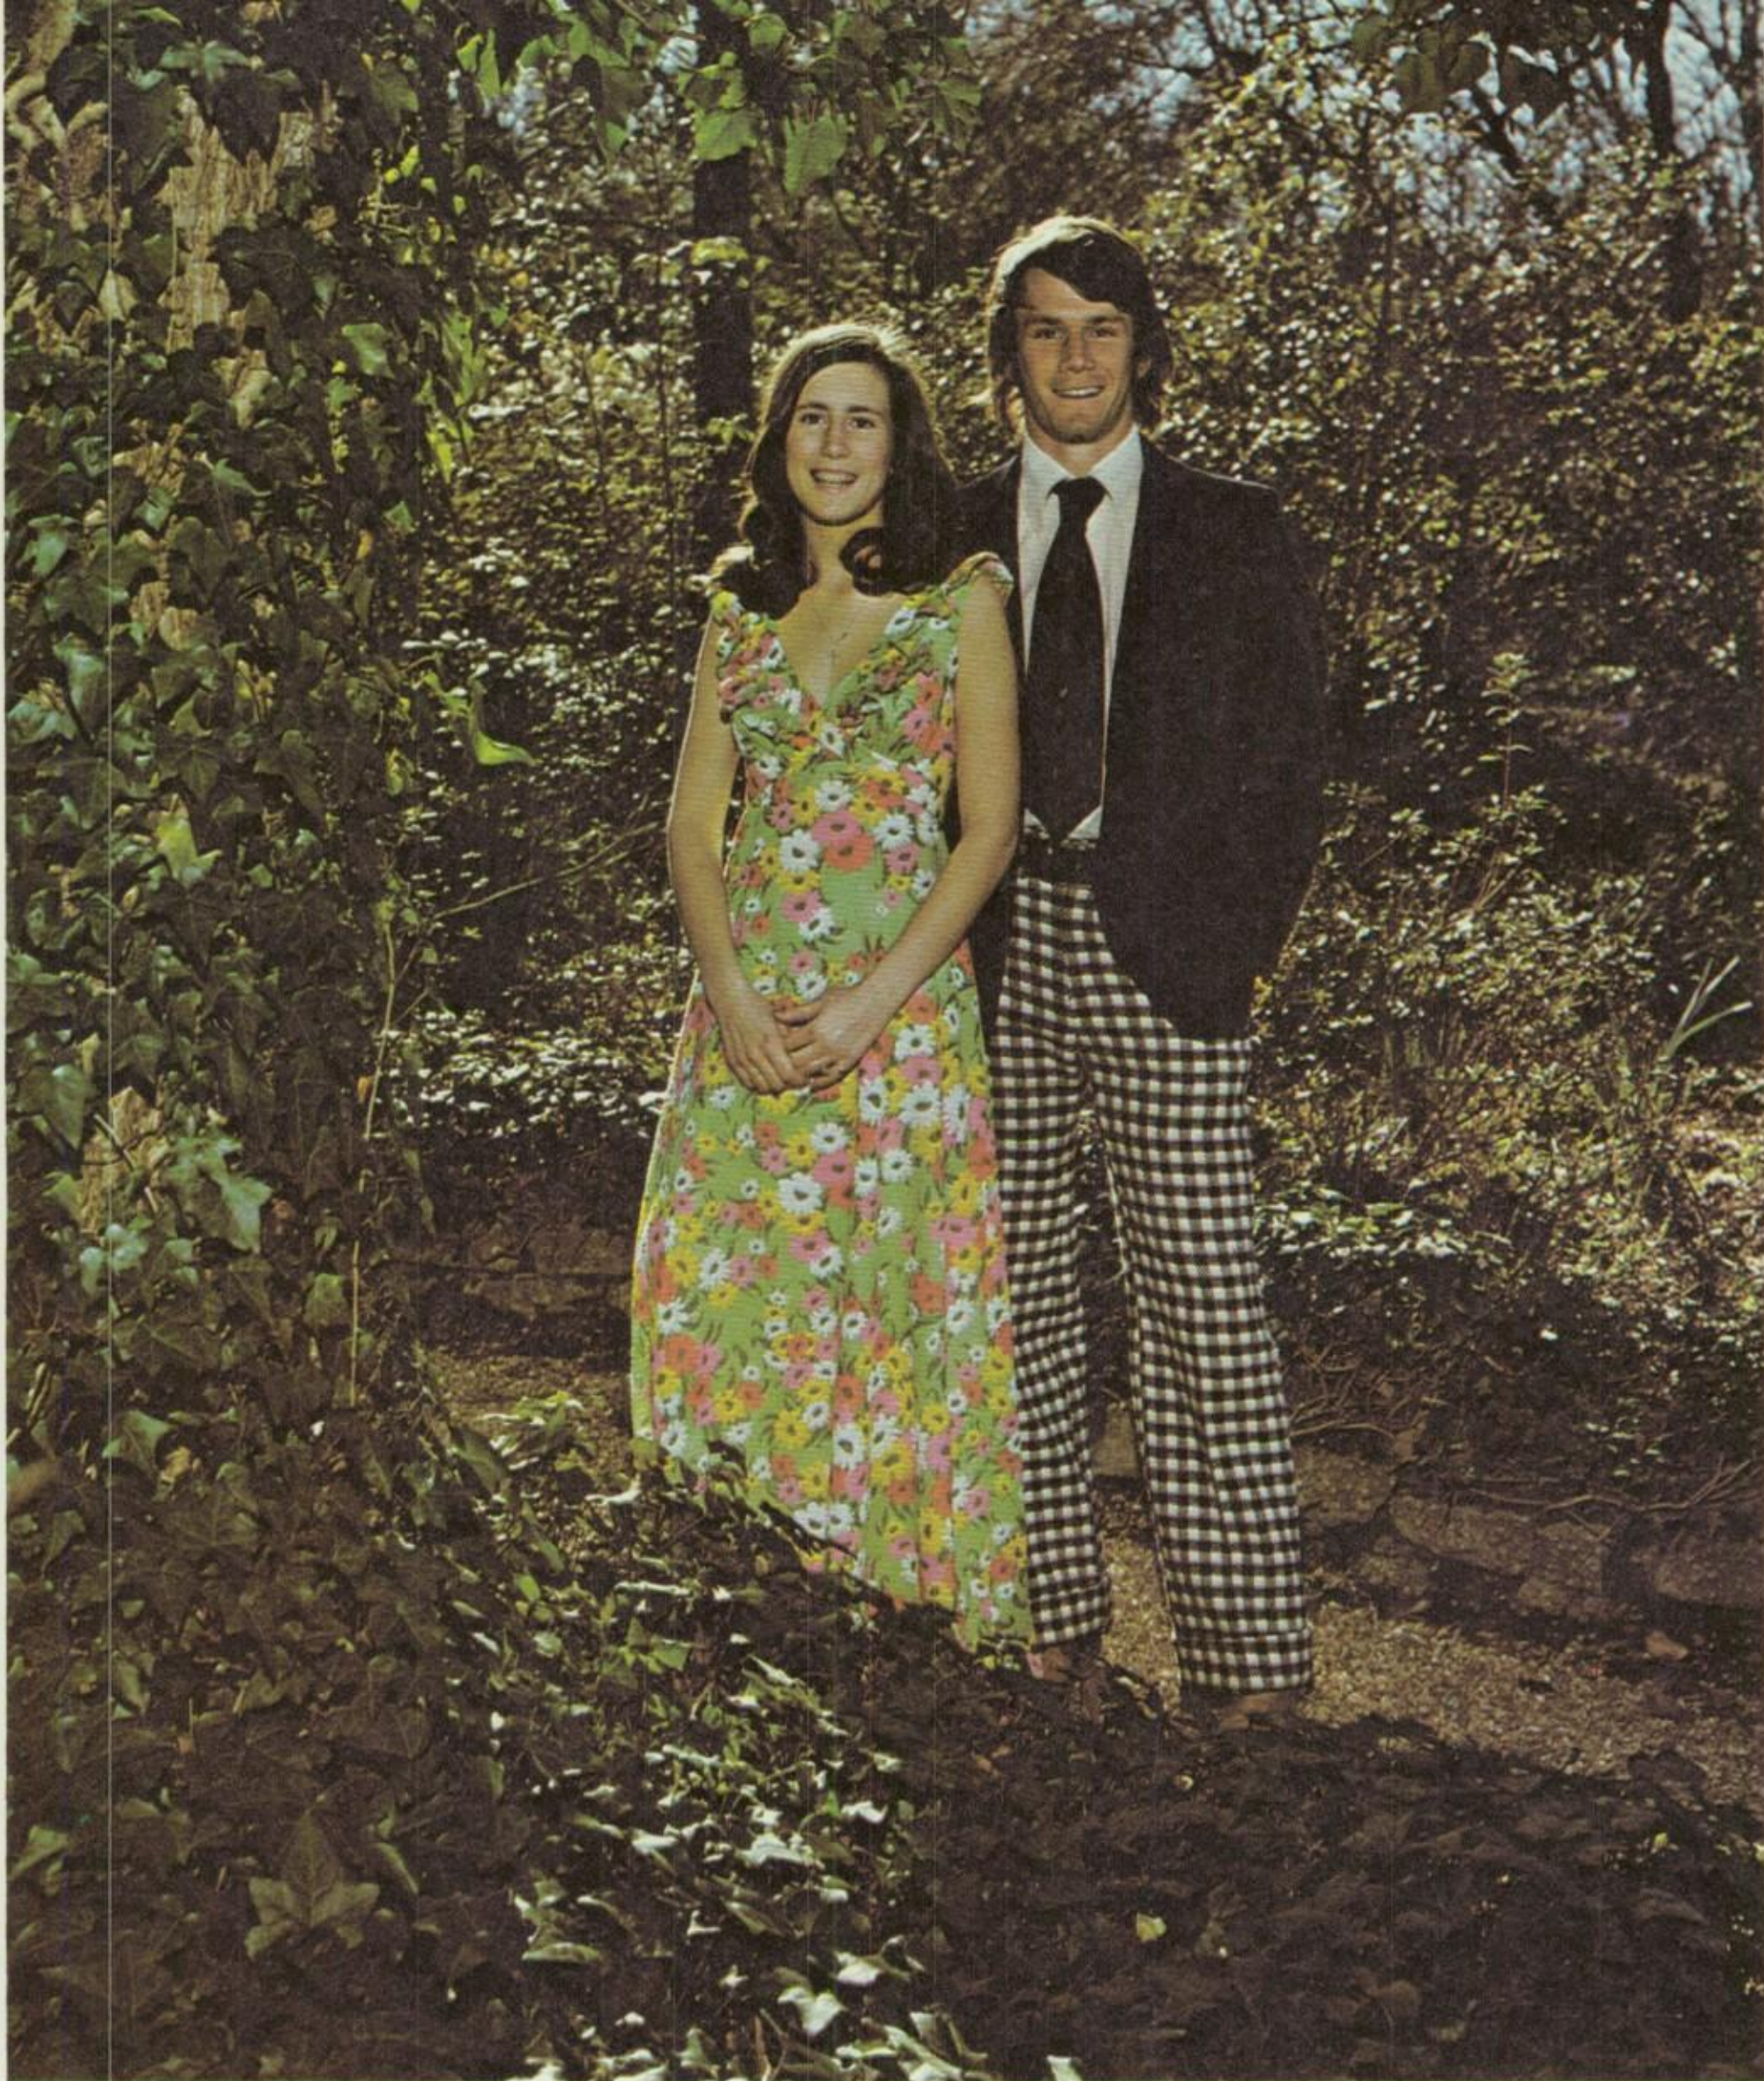

Clockwise from right: Pam Lehan presents flowers to class favorites Mary Diane Brown and Gayle Drake. Bart DeLashmet adds more dry ice to the water in the bird bath in an attempt to create an airy look. Paul Brewer, the mischievous Roman, bedecked in toga, readies to add water to the fountains. Pageant judges discuss the upcoming parade of beauties. Lynn Welsh, Susan Tsimortis, and Lynn Warner recuperate after the rigors of setting up for the pageant. Janie Simmons is presented her bouquet as Most Beautiful by Pam Lehan.

Spanish, French Students Learn Old World Tongues

Spanish students this year took a trip to Mexico during the spring break. This traditional trip took the up the Mexican pyramids and through famous gardens and cities. Back at school they put their first hand knowledge of Spanish to use on the myriads of tests they encountered during the year.

The pupils of French planned a trip to New Orleans and considered one to French Canada. Unfortunately, the trip to Canada was cancelled. French students studied both the language and culture of France, as well as her geography.

Junior Classical League Propagates Ancient Language, Culture

The Junior Classical League, dedicated to passing the torch of classical civilization on to future generations, is composed of those students who took or had taken Latin at some time during their high school years. Guided by Viciated Dot Mann, the members attended the state convention, held a slave auction and celebrated at a banquet. Officers of the JCL were third year students, past and present.

Successful Season Follows Track Team

The Jackson Prep track team finished the 1974 season with eight first places in nine meets. The ninth meet was the Tri-state meet held in Selma, Alabama. In this meet, which pits state versus state, Prep was a key to Mississippi's second straight landslide victory. Prep took first in the South AAA meet as well as in the State AAA meet, both of which were held at Prep. Prep thinclads also streaked away with a victory in the annual Prep relays held earlier in the season.

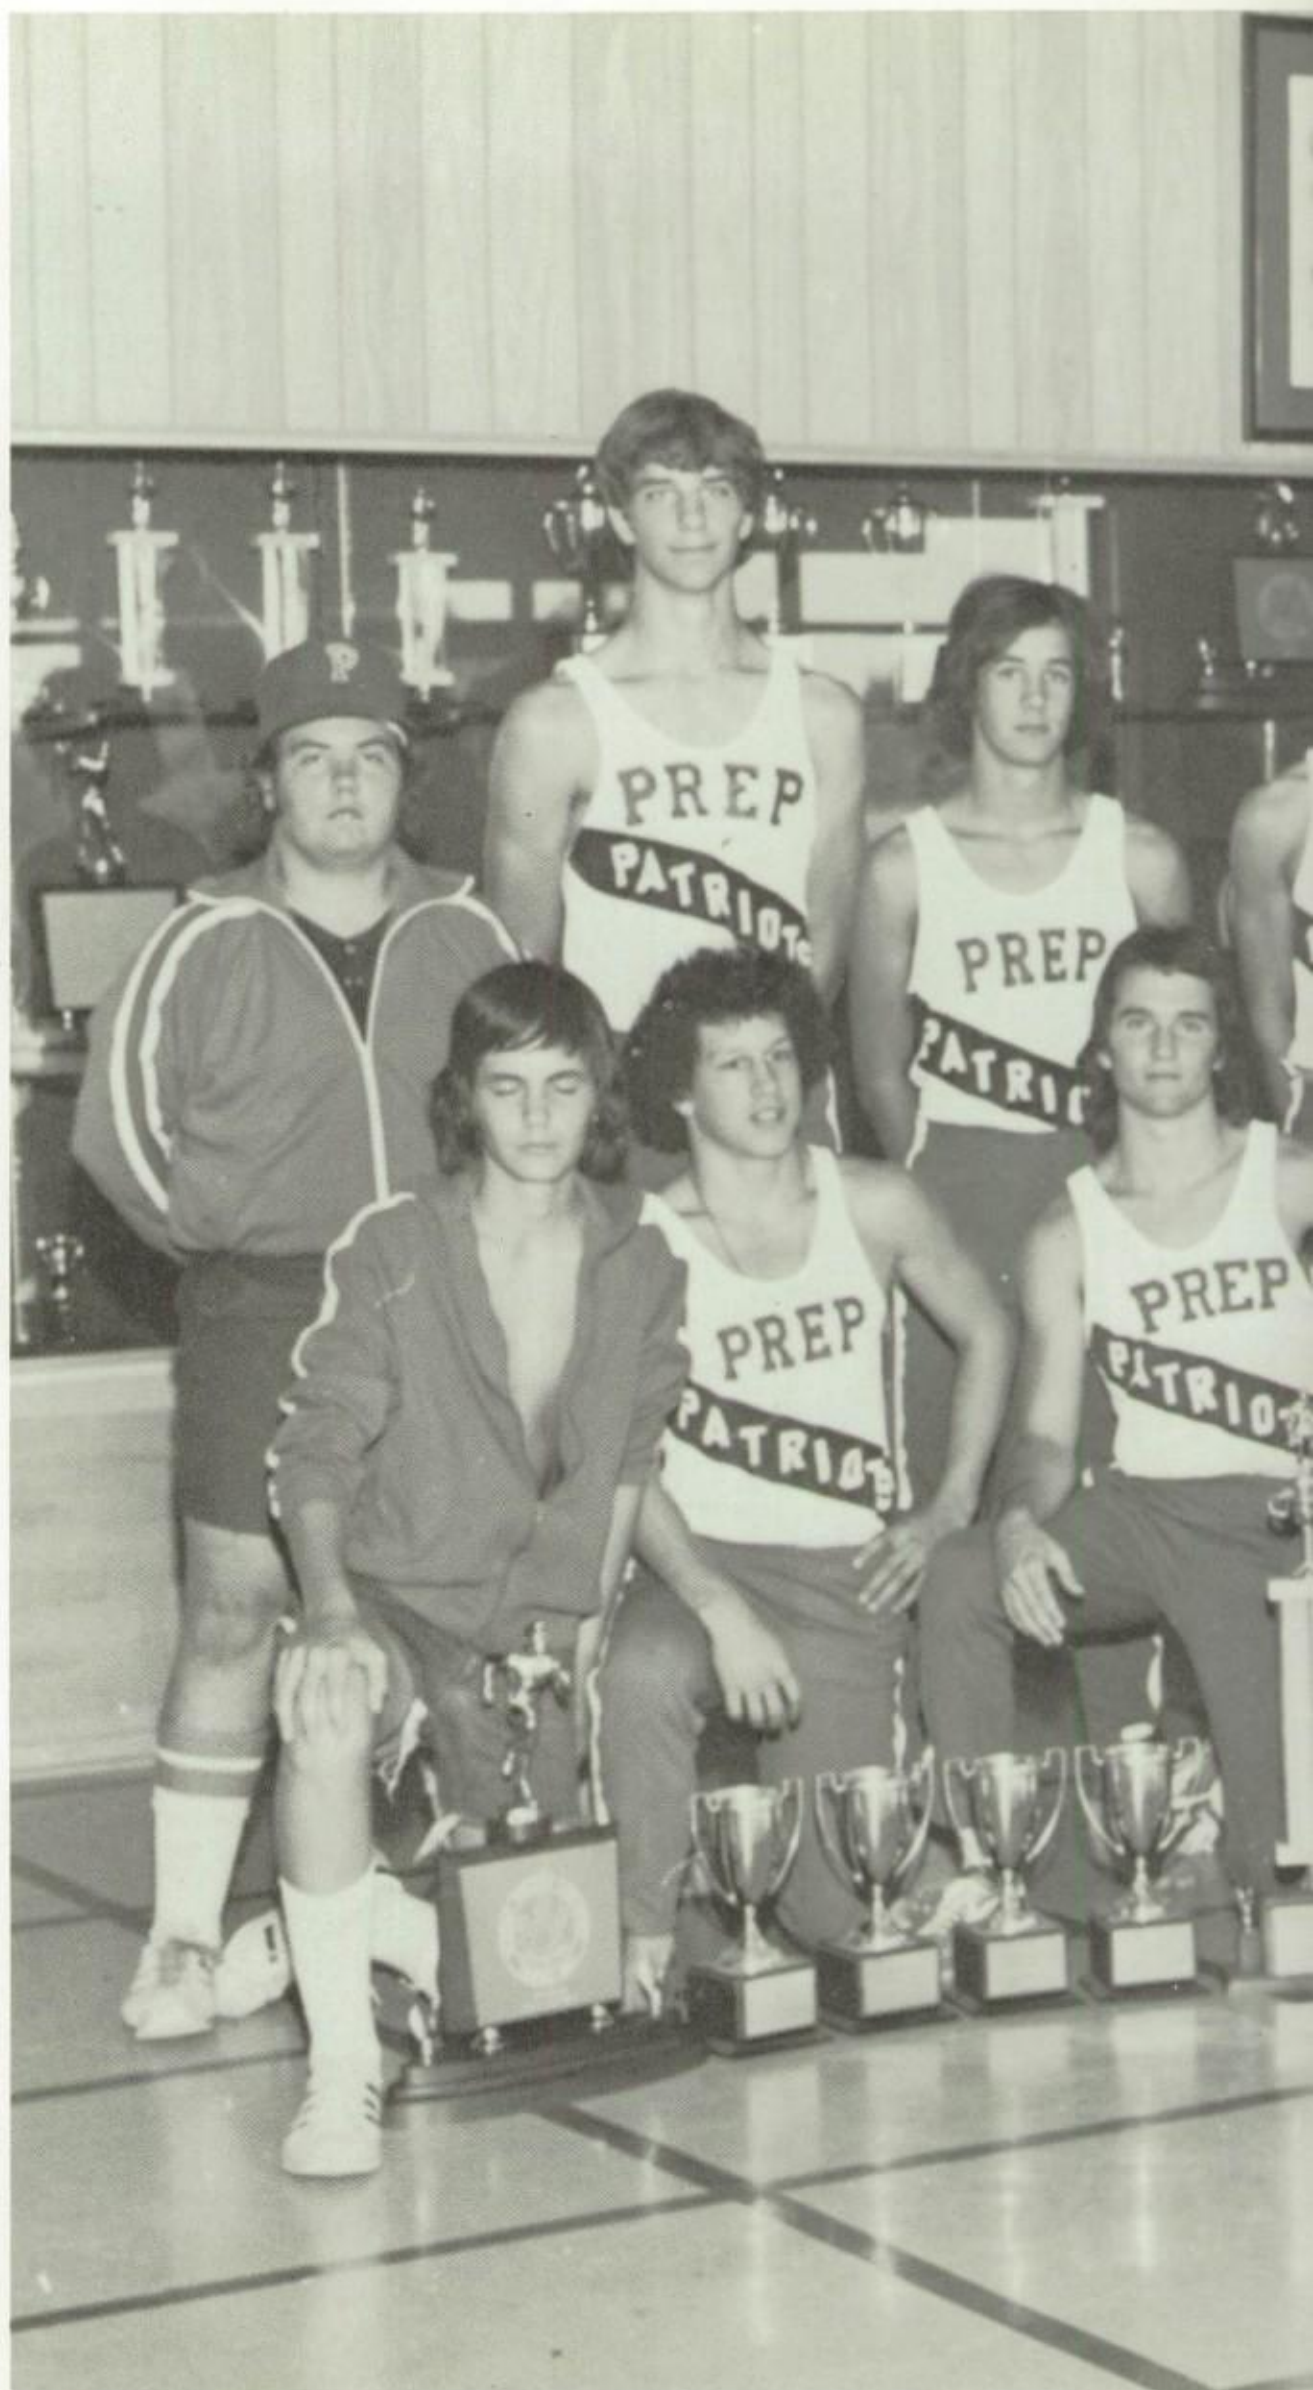

Both state and academy records were broken during the season, as were several school records. New state records were recorded in the 440, 880, and mile relays. School records were set in the 440 dash, 2 mile relay, shot put, and high jump.

First year head coach Donald Carruth continued the strings of track victories as he guided the team to an undefeated season. Participating on the team this year were seniors Clint Ivey (sprinter), Eddie Rives (sprinter), Bowen Eason (sprinter), Les Kimbrough (sprinter), David Campbell (relays), Jack Bickerstaff (distance), Joel Everett (distance), Dell Crosby (distance), Jeff Glover (discus) and Ken Drummonds (pole vault).

Home Economics Classes Fashion Clothes

Often the odor of burned food or the aroma of delicious masterpieces could be detected in the hall outside the home ec kitchen. Students in home ec not only explored the realm of gourmet cooking but also delved into the art of sewing. In fact, some students wore their own creations to school, displaying their talent for all to see.

The year ended in the annual fashion show held in conjunction with the final PAT meeting. All segments of the fashion show were coordinated with divisions in the Prep cookbook, Potpourri from Prep's Kitchen, which was published this year. All items in the show were made by students, and reflected the spring fashions of casual dresses, pants suits, jeans and halter tops and formal wear.

Tennis Team Earns Fourth State Championship

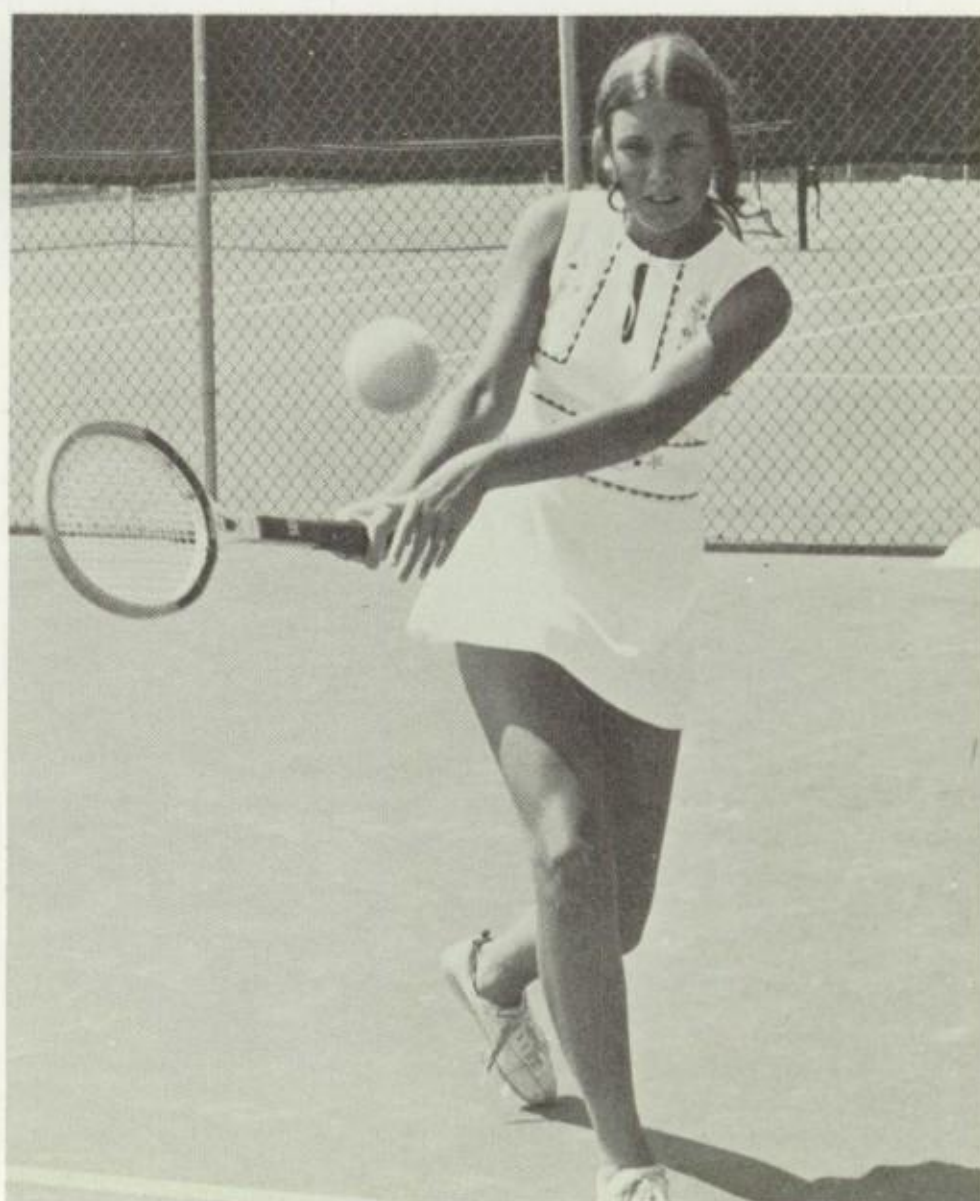

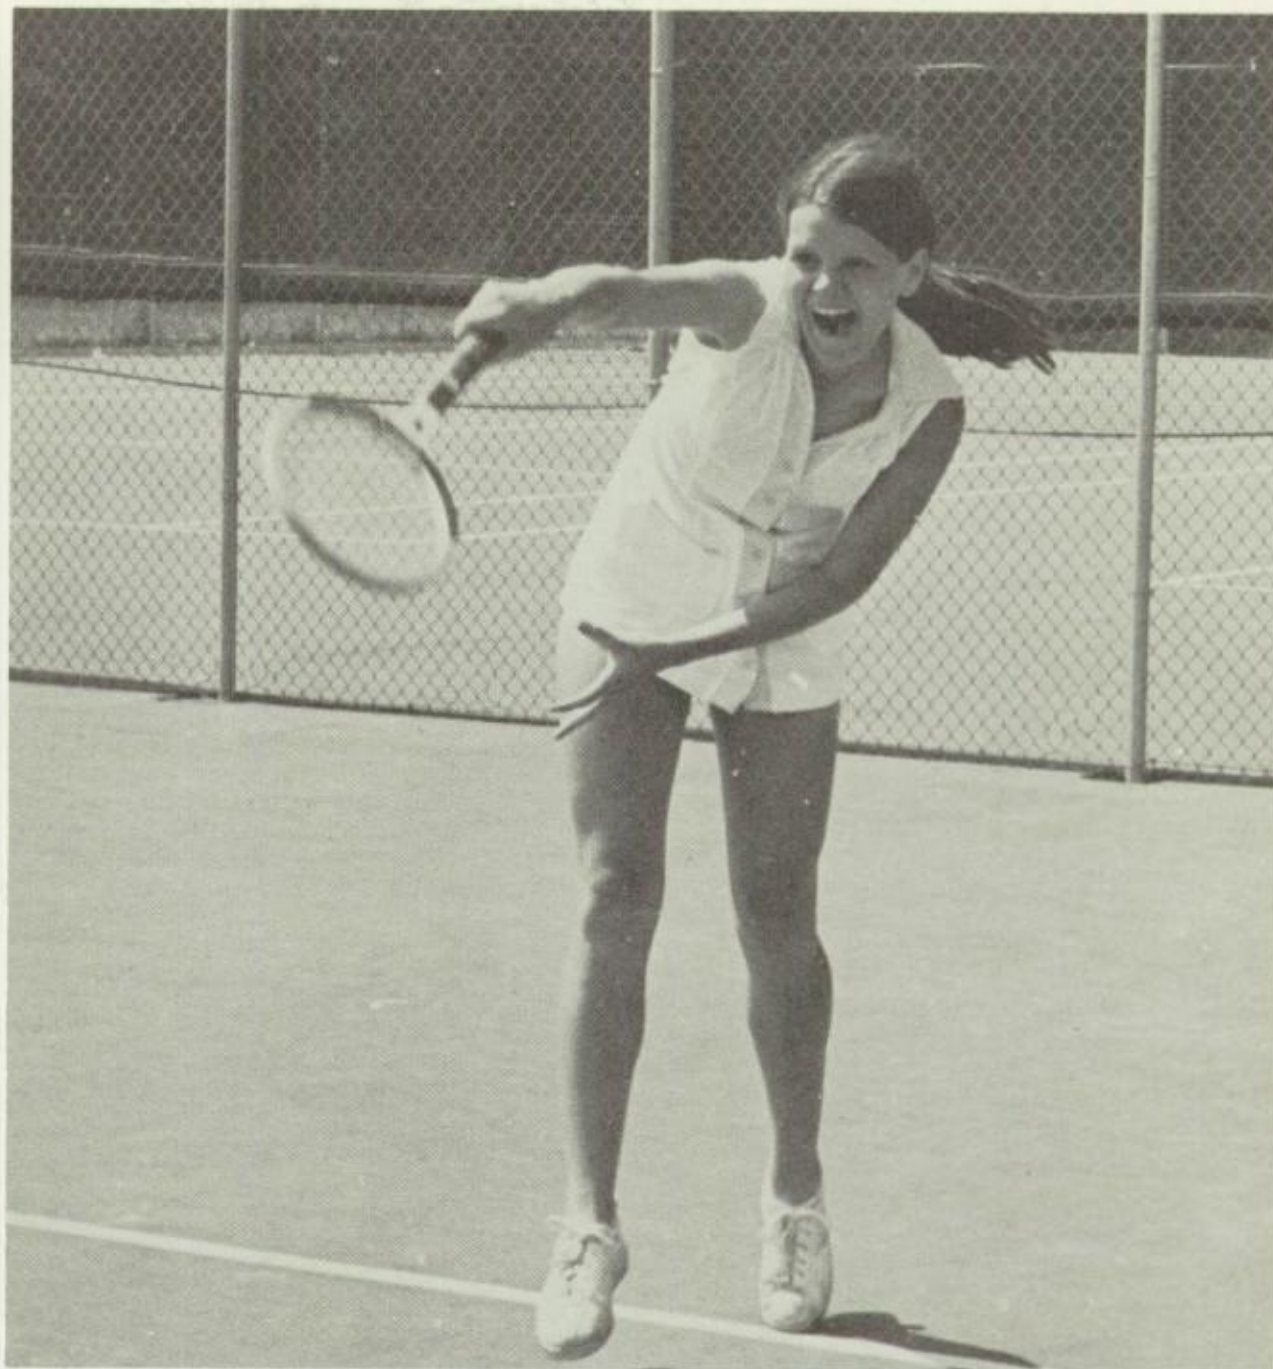

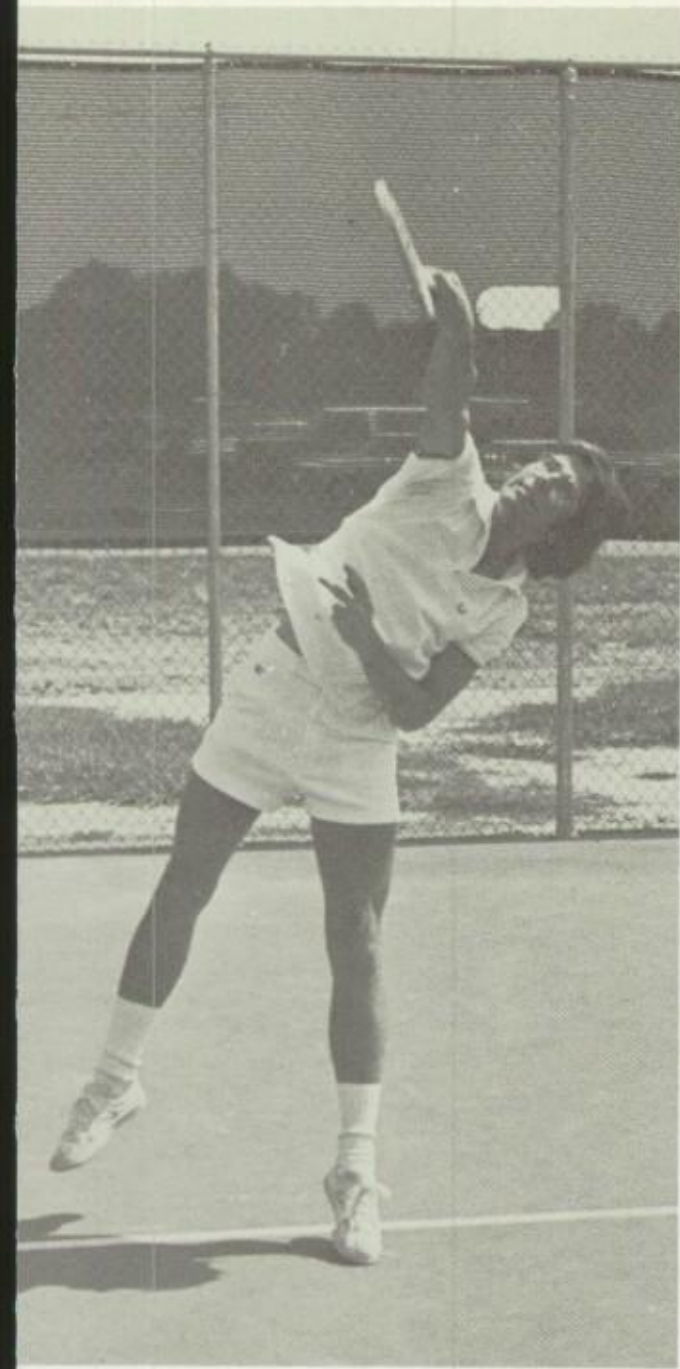

Continuing Prep's undefeated tennis record, this year's team captured the State Academy Conference Championship. In the search for competition, the netters travelled to Natchez and Greenwood where they defeated Trinity and Pillow Academy. Both of these schools, as well as Indianola Academy, sojourned to Jackson to compete. Prep proved victorious in all three tournaments. To add to the season, Coach Sara Beth Jordan scheduled matches for the boys with the men at River Hills Club.

Season Record

Prep	6	Greenwood Pillow	2

Golfers Stroke Their Way To Excellent Season

The golf team began an outstanding season by beating Manhattan in a practice game. Contests for the record were held against Natchez, McClellur, Manchester, Canton, and Yazoo City. Adding to the competition, golfers also played in the Sam Barthe Invitational Tournament where they placed third. They ended their winning season by outstroking all competition in the State Academy Conference title match.

The team, under the leadership of Coach David Bass, ended the year with a record of seven wins and two losses.

Swimmers Fly Through State Meet, Place Second

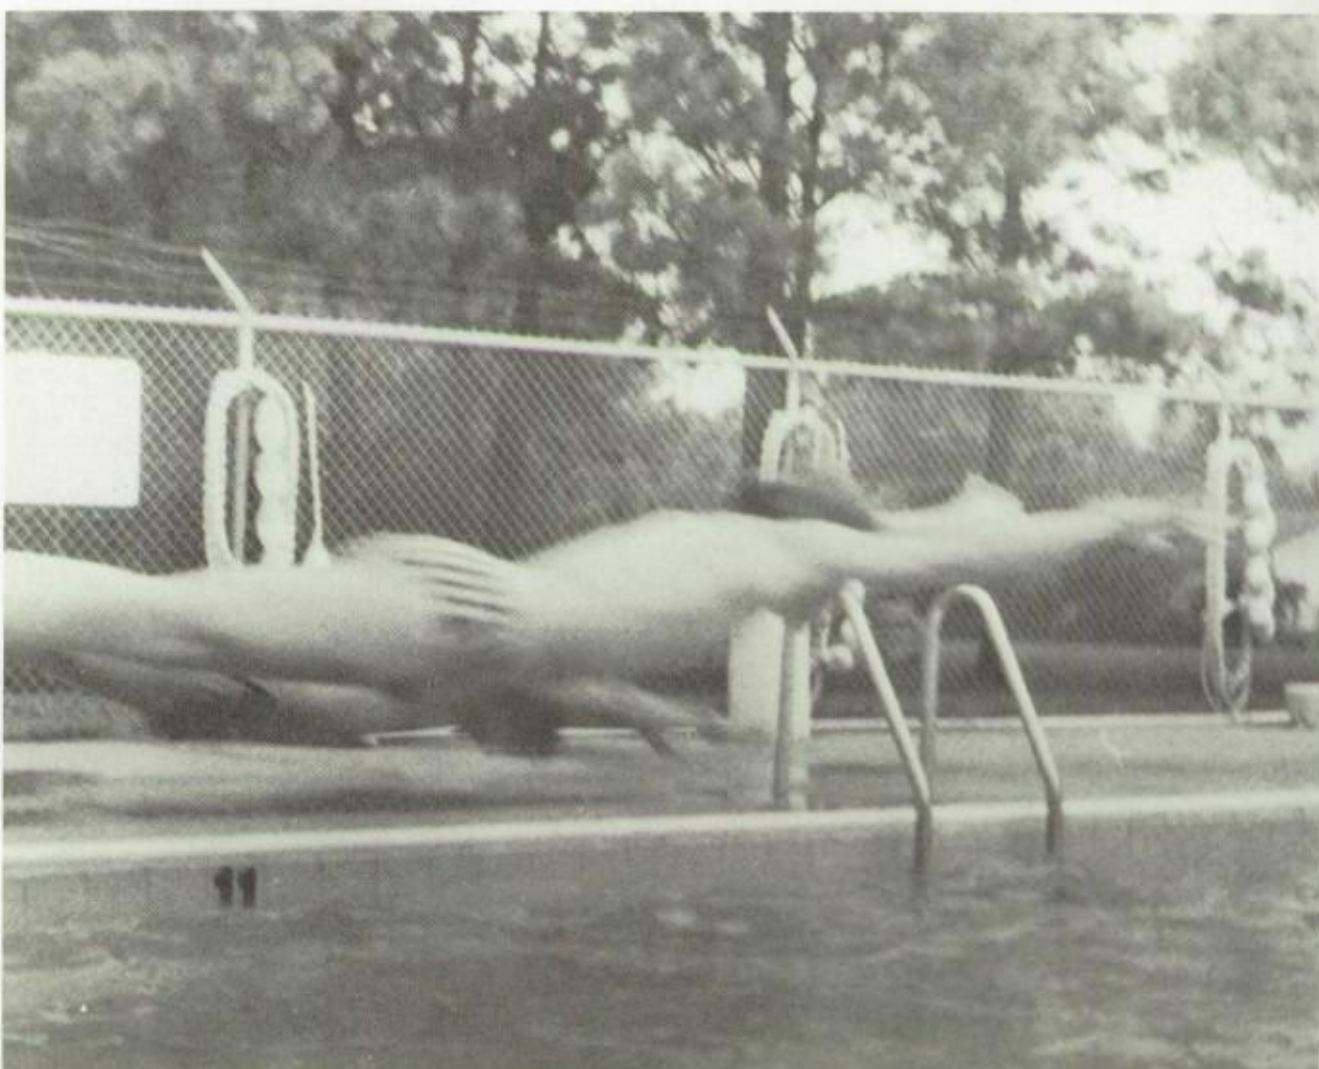

The Prep swim team began practice in early September in preparation for the upcoming State meet for private schools. The team was sponsored by Mrs. Nancy Prothro and coached with the assistance of Jimmy McKay and Kirk McGehee. The state meet was the only one attended, although plans for two others had been made.

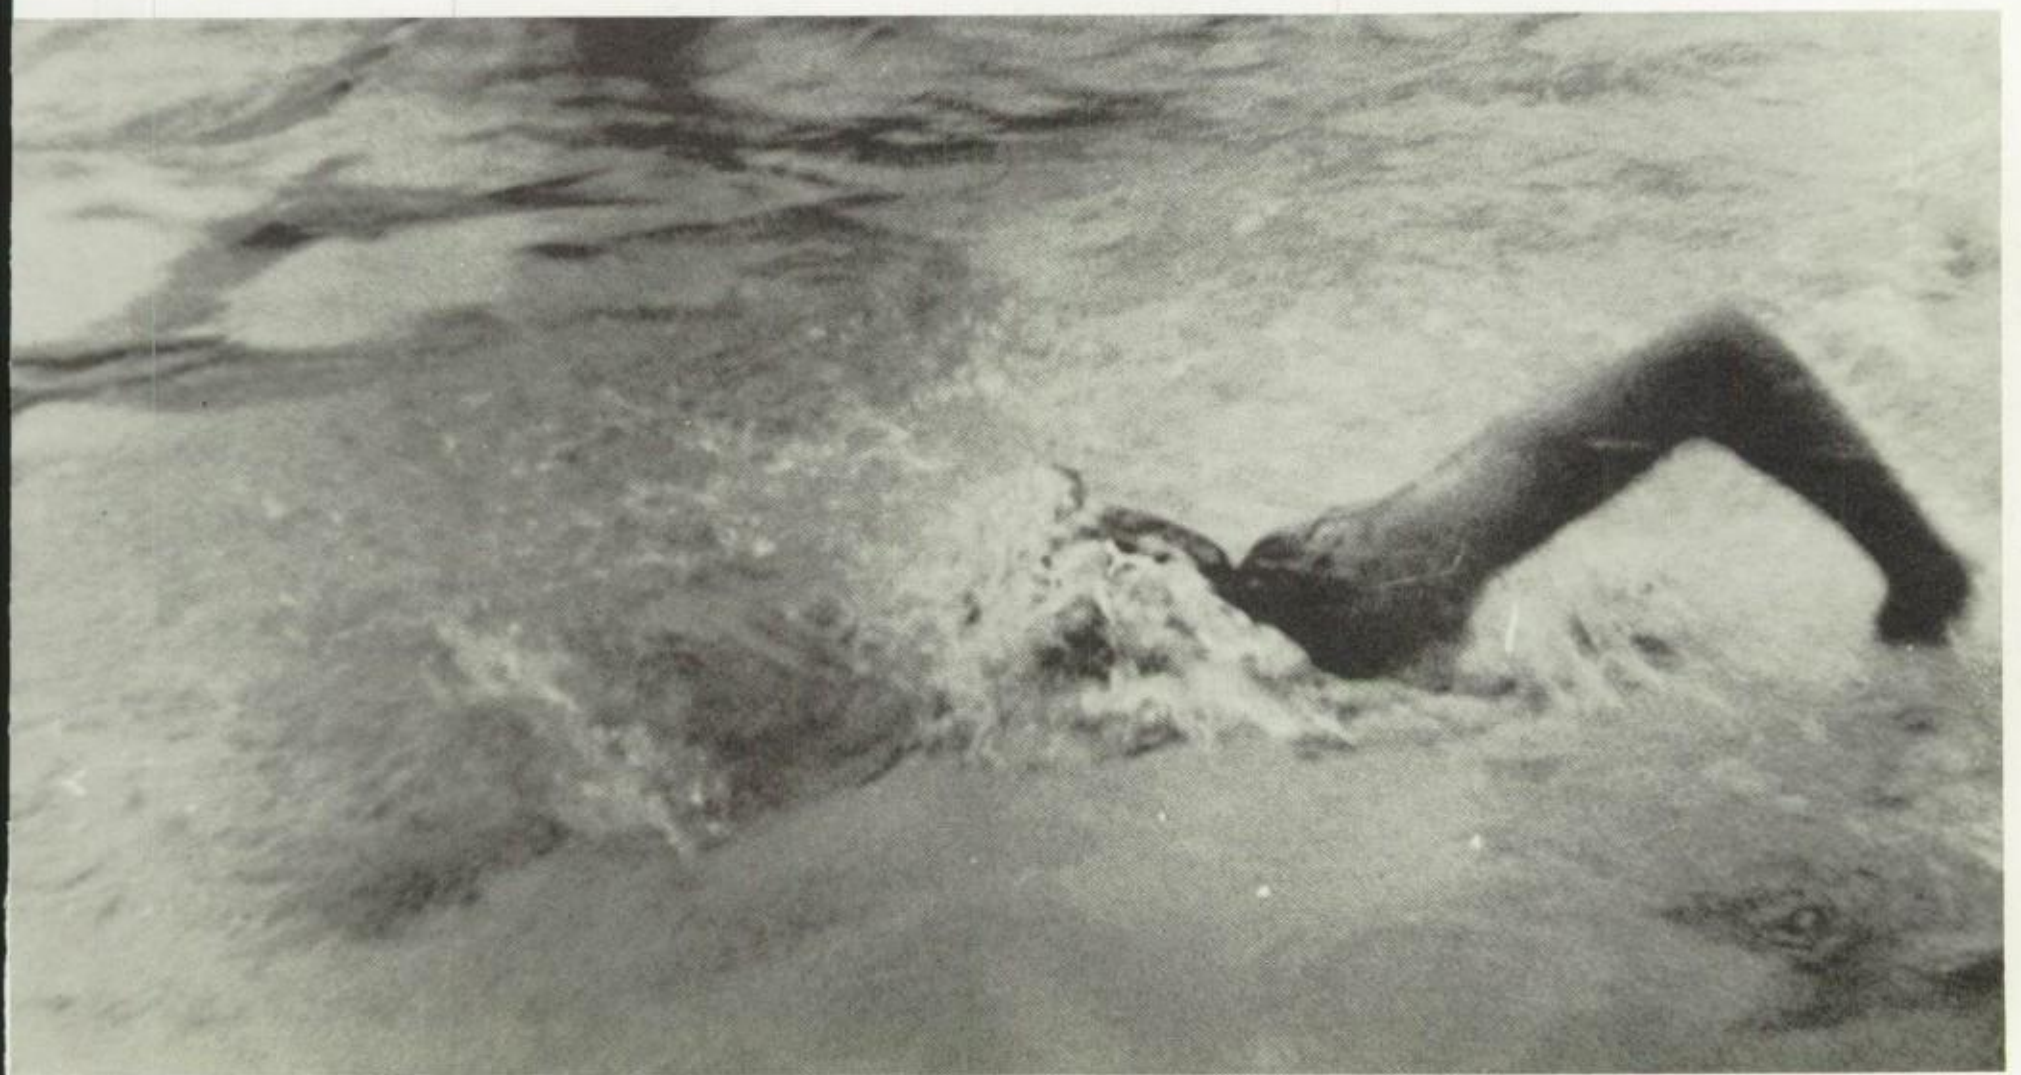

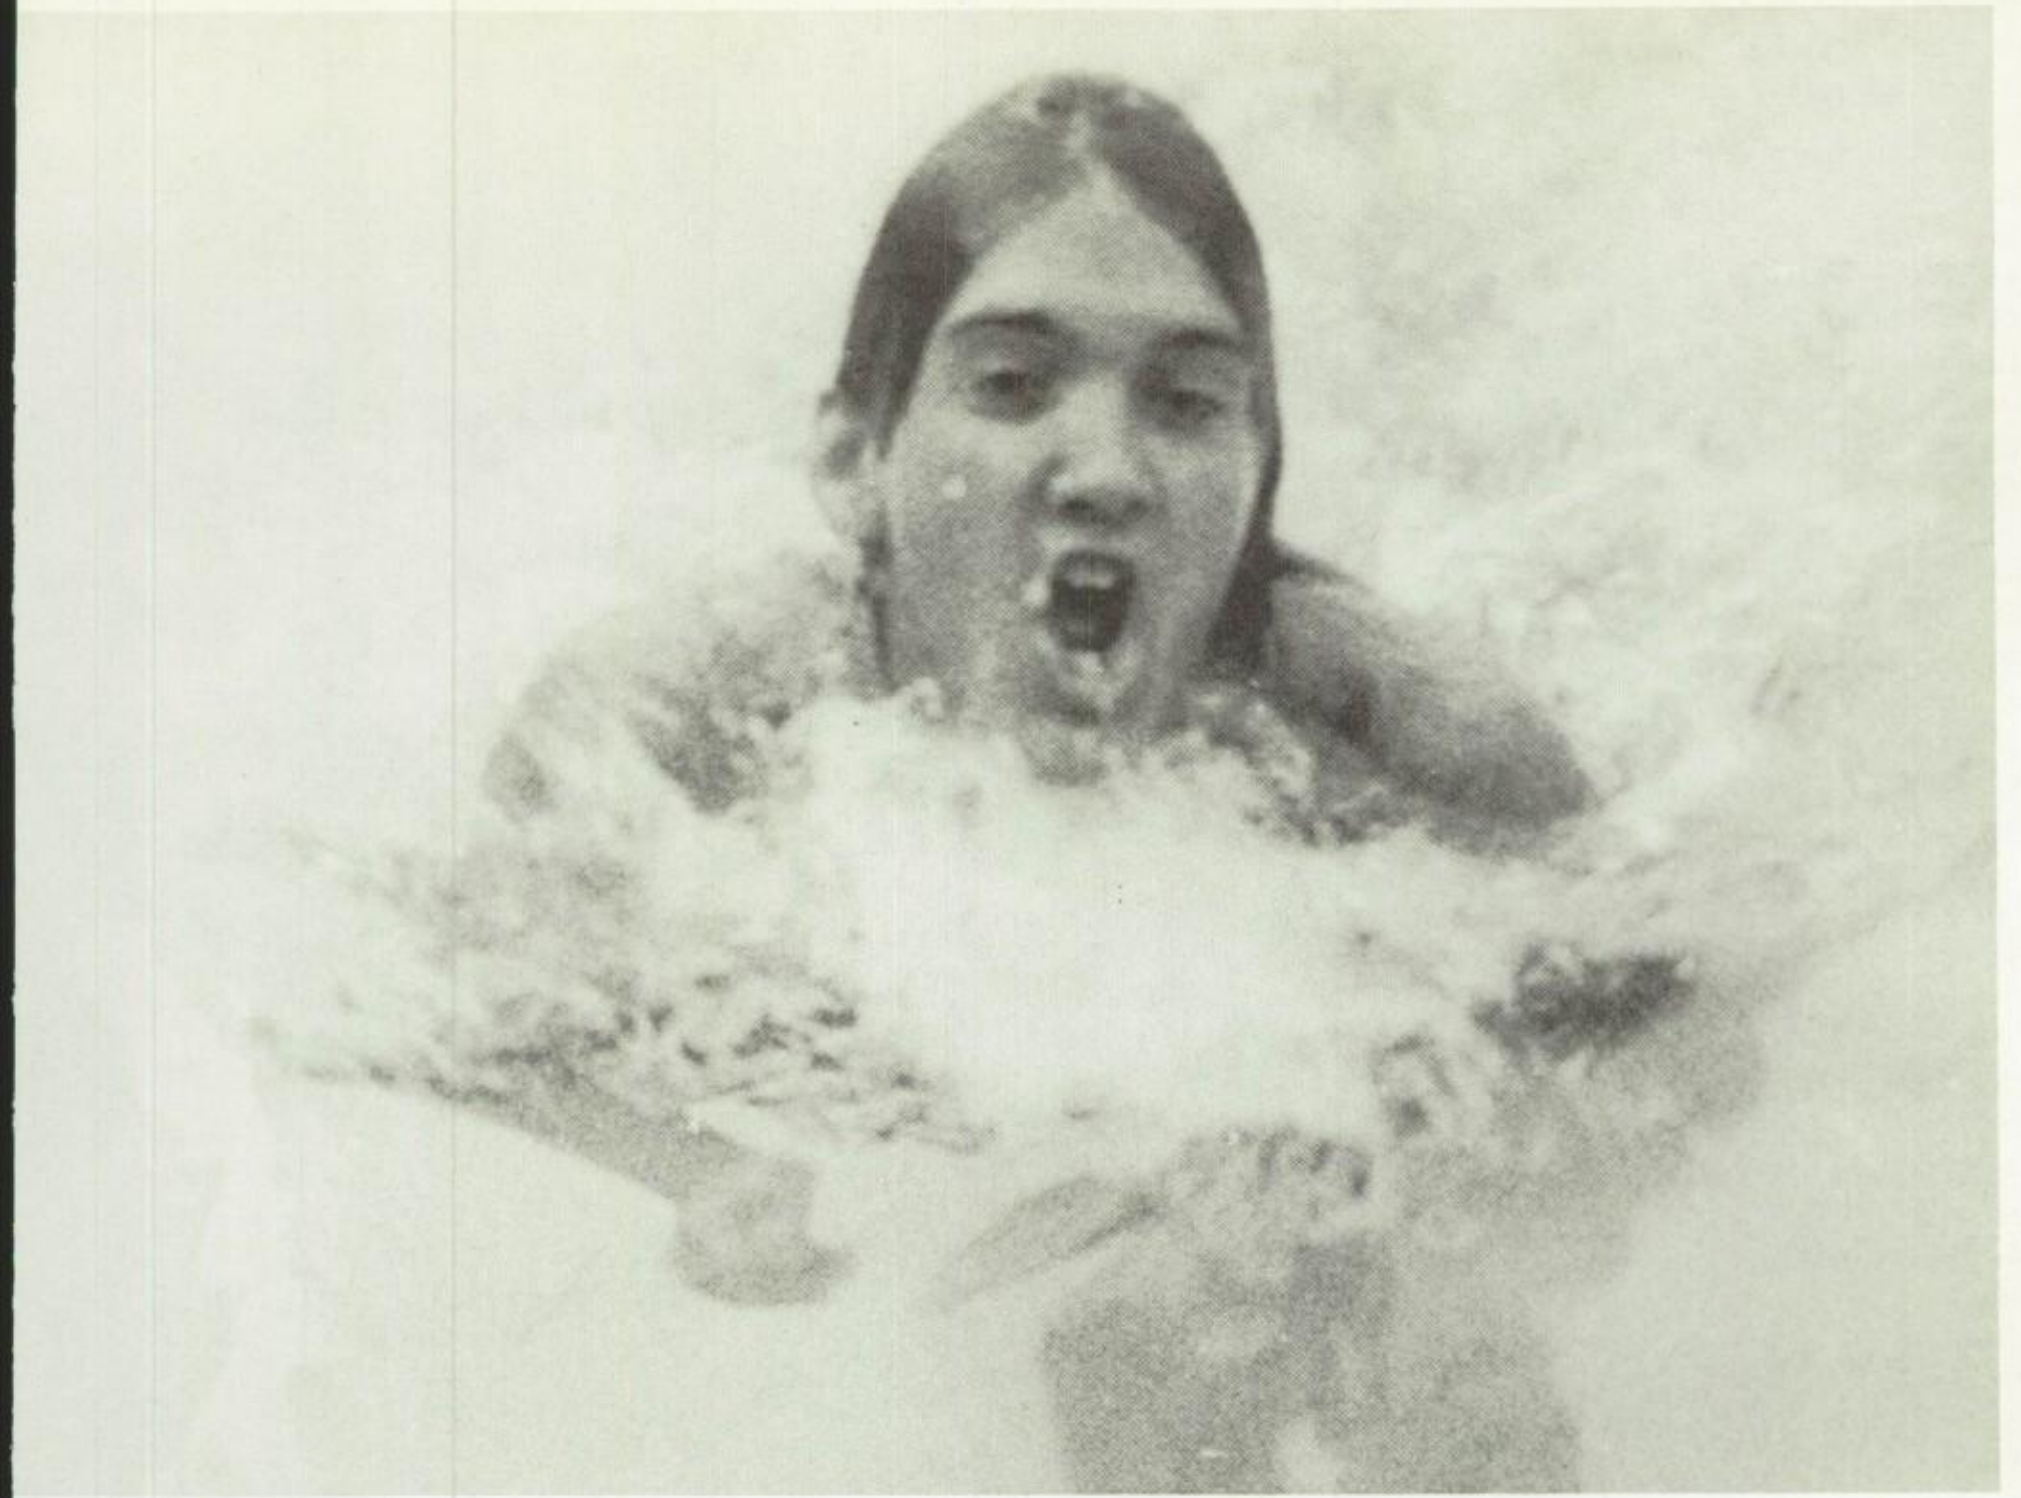

The state meet was held at the Northside Y pool, and six teams gathered to swim against Prep for the title. The morning's events pitted elementary school students against each other. Prep, lacking an elementary school, fell behind by 546.5 points during the morning competition.

In the afternoon competition Prep came alive, capturing fifteen of thirty-two first places. The afternoon's Junior and Senior High competition saw Prep gain 540 points to lead all other Junior and Senior high schools. However, since the final results were based on the total points during the day, Prep saw Canton rack up a total of 930.5 points to out-score Prep's 540. The final order of finish saw Canton first, Prep second and Manhattan third. The meet also saw Prep break eight records.

Team members included Adrienne Bass, Joanna Bass, Bill Bush, Kanda Carothers, Bart DeLashmet, Jimmy Guyton, Tommy Guyton, April Guyton, Ann Hester, Peter Hudson, Sheila Hudson, Sai Ireland, Margaret Ann Johnston, Lynn Lofton, Kelty Lowery, Kirk McGehee, Jimmy McKay, Kirk Morgan, Mark Porter, Jason Shepard, Kevin Stanton, Mark Stanton, Barbie Thames, Liz Tolley, Sara Tolley, Judy Weems, Ann Woodbridge, Laurie Woodbridge, Dick Wofford and Ed Wofford.

National Merit Scholars Awarded

Prep tied with Biloxi in having the largest number of National Merit semi-finalists in the state. Semifinalists are chosen on the basis of their PSAT/NMSQT scores. To become a finalist, semifinalists must receive endorsement by the school, make an equivalent score on the SAT, and complete specific forms required by the National Merit Corporation. Only finalists are eligible for Merit Scholarships. Commended Students are those whose PSAT scores rank exceptionally high and yet fall below the cutoff score for semifinalist.

NCTE Writing Achievement Award

Each spring, the English Department nominates two students for the National Council of Teachers of English Achievement Award in Writing. Each student submits samples of his best writing, including an autobiographical sketch and an impromptu essay. These materials were evaluated by state judging teams of college and high school English teachers.

STAR Student Named

STAR, or Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition, is a program established and sponsored by the Mississippi Economic Council to honor scholastic achievement and the teaching profession. Each school selects one STAR student based on the scores on the ACT. The student then designates a STAR Teacher, the teacher who made the greatest contribution to his scholastic achievement.

Senior Breakfast Refreshes Colorado Memories

LeFleur's early morning breakfast provided the Seniors of 1974 one last time together before graduation. The morning was filled with lampoon, jest, humor and remembrances. After the reading of the class will and prophecy, films of the Colorado trip were shown on the wall, courtesy of David Lotterhos.

Following the breakfast, the class drove to Prep to line up for graduation rehearsal. Later that afternoon, a final rehearsal was held at the City Auditorium.

Talby Bevil entertains a small group with the harmonica as David Grant looks on. The slopes became a cool place to talk as the wind and cold affected the temperature. Cool but cleared of snow, a shopping plaza was a gathering spot for several Seniors. Mike Herm and Les Kimbrough display their ski apparel on the slopes. Overjoyed at the sight of a snowfall, Ken Johnston and Joel Everett meet for a conference. Left: President David Grant presents one of the sponsors, Mrs. Strom, with a gift from the class. Below left: Mrs. Fitzgerald thanks Andy Lambeth for her special gift to help her give up smoking. Below: On senior play day, skiing was a common activity on the reservoir.

Graduation Ends One Life, Starts Another

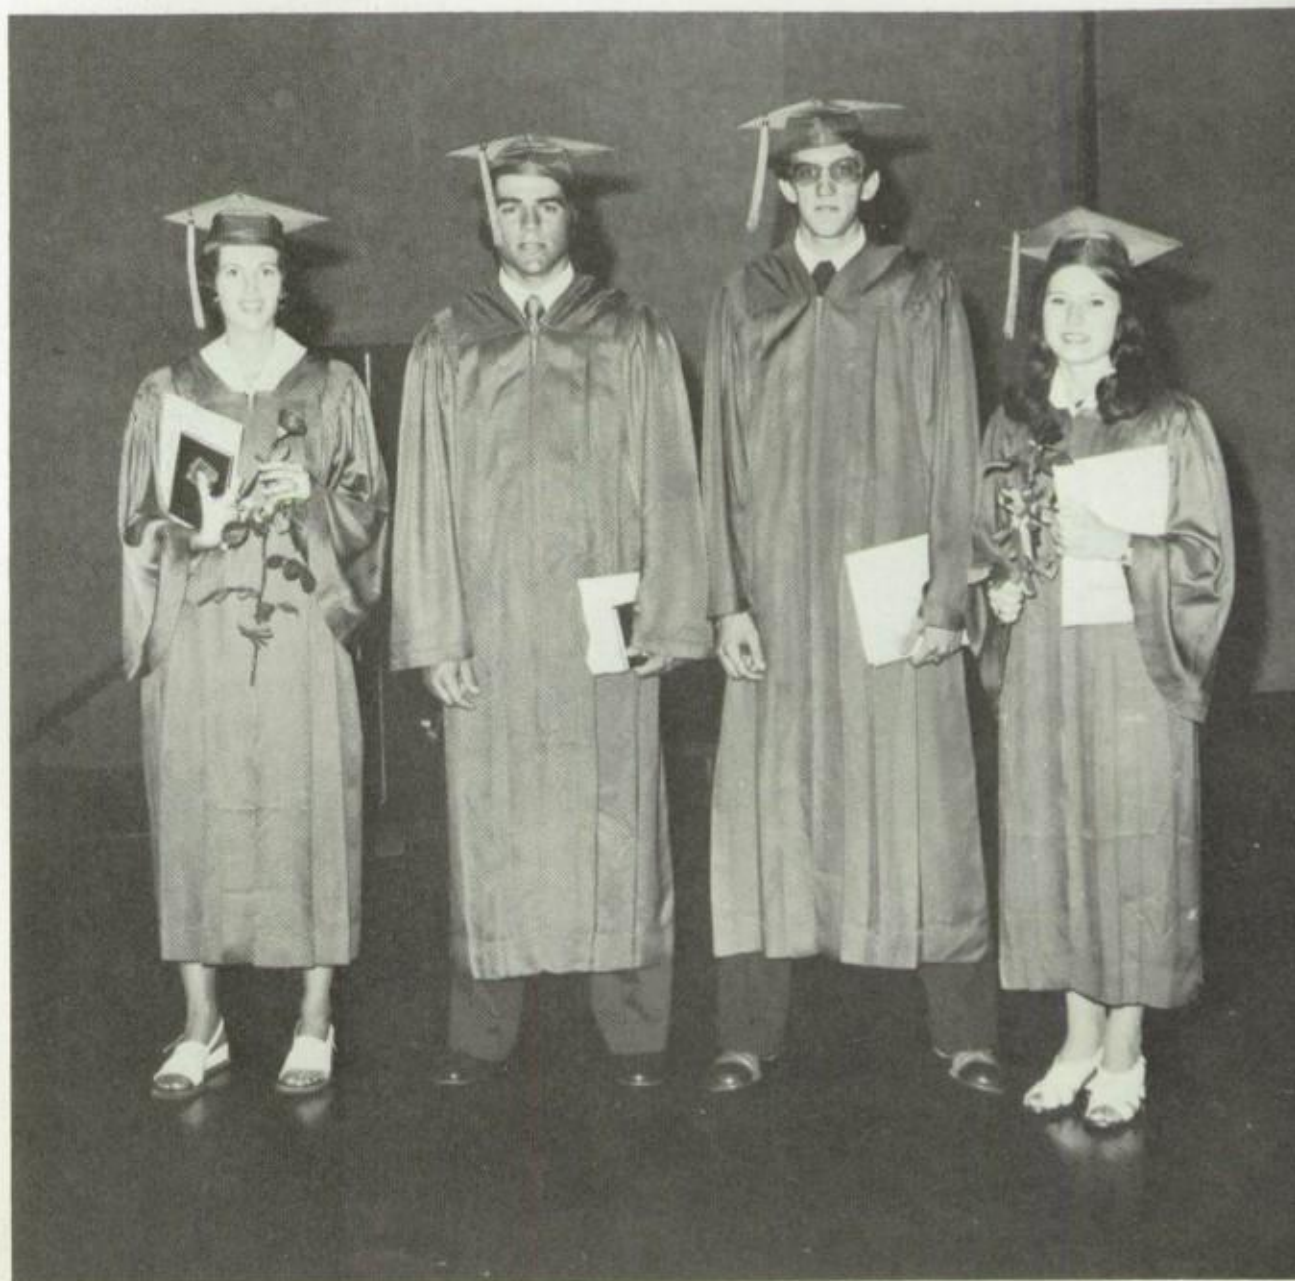

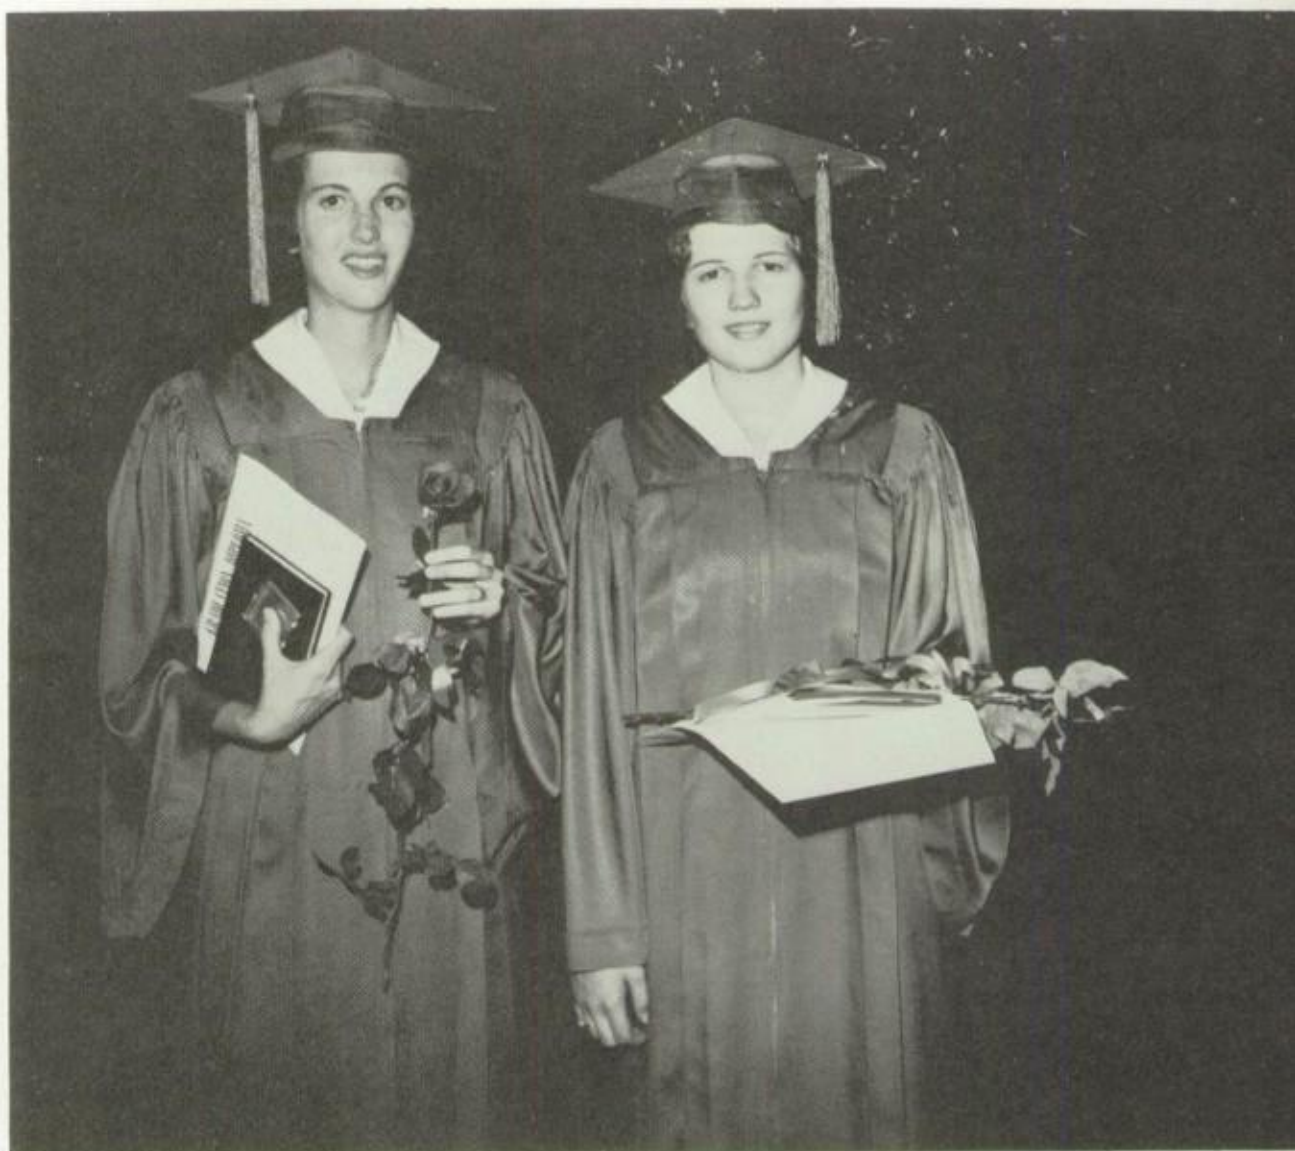

The big day arrived with fine weather and the promise of an enjoyable evening. Seniors gathered at the City Auditorium for the occasion. Friends, family and relatives crowded the audience as the class walked down the aisle to the stage for the commencement exercises. Before diplomas were distributed, various awards were presented by Mr. Howell.

After the ceremony, the class grouped at Colonial Country Club for the graduation dance, which was followed by a breakfast at River Hills Club.

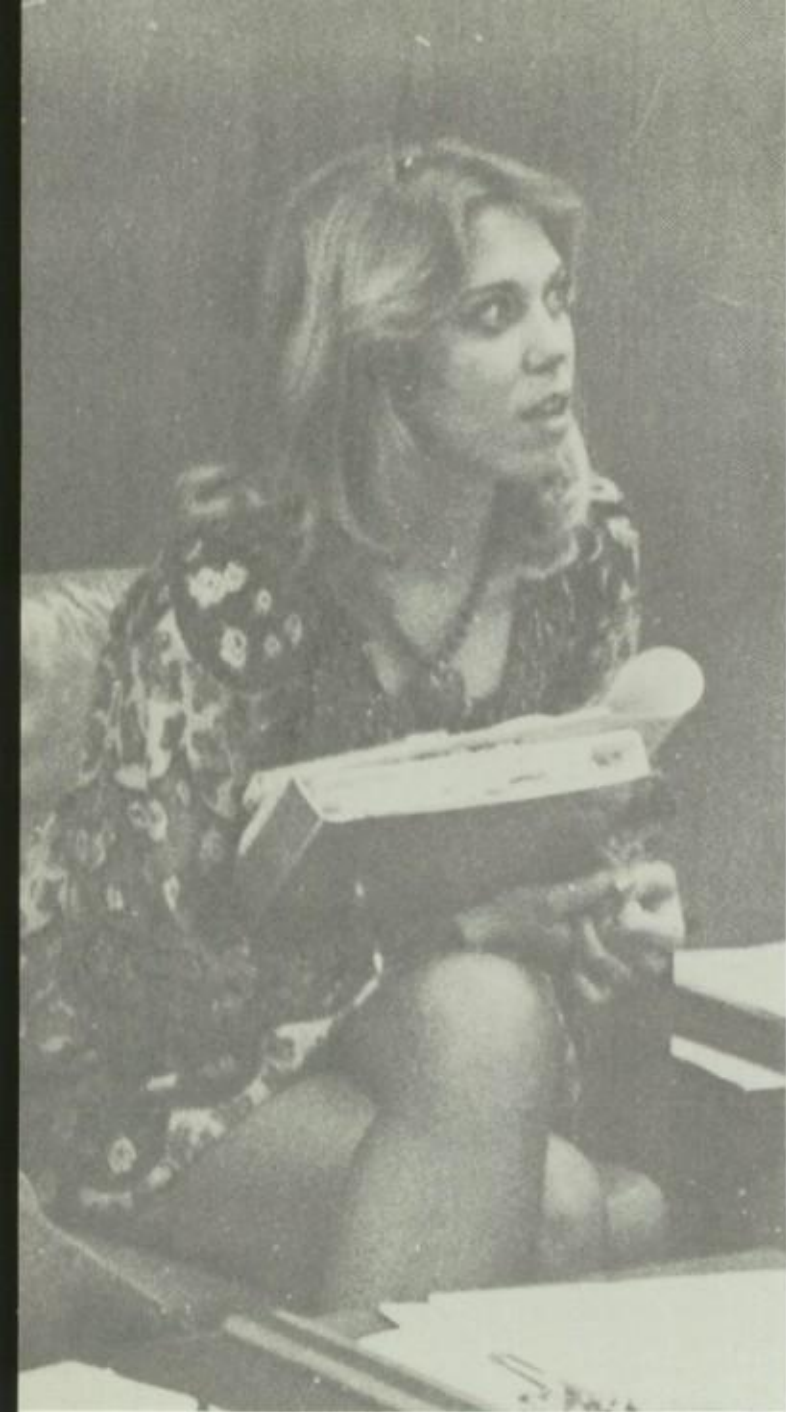

Those who graduated with honors included Dea Dea Adams, Jeff Adams, Ann Bear, Julie Best, Dana Bounds, Paul Burt, Sharon Catledge, Chan Clover, Bill Cook, Mike Cutrer, Gina Gillespie, Jeff Glover, David Grant, Betty Griffin, Pam Gryder, LeAnn Harryman, Earl Hassler, Tommy Hudson, Meg Humphries, Christy Jones, Amy King, Linda Lovelace, Lisa Mateer, Dav Mosby, George Pearson, Joe Putnam, Linda Ray, Ruth Ridgway, Sallie Roper, Bill St. Clair, Johnny Sparrow, Diane Warwick, Judy Weems, and Mark Williams.

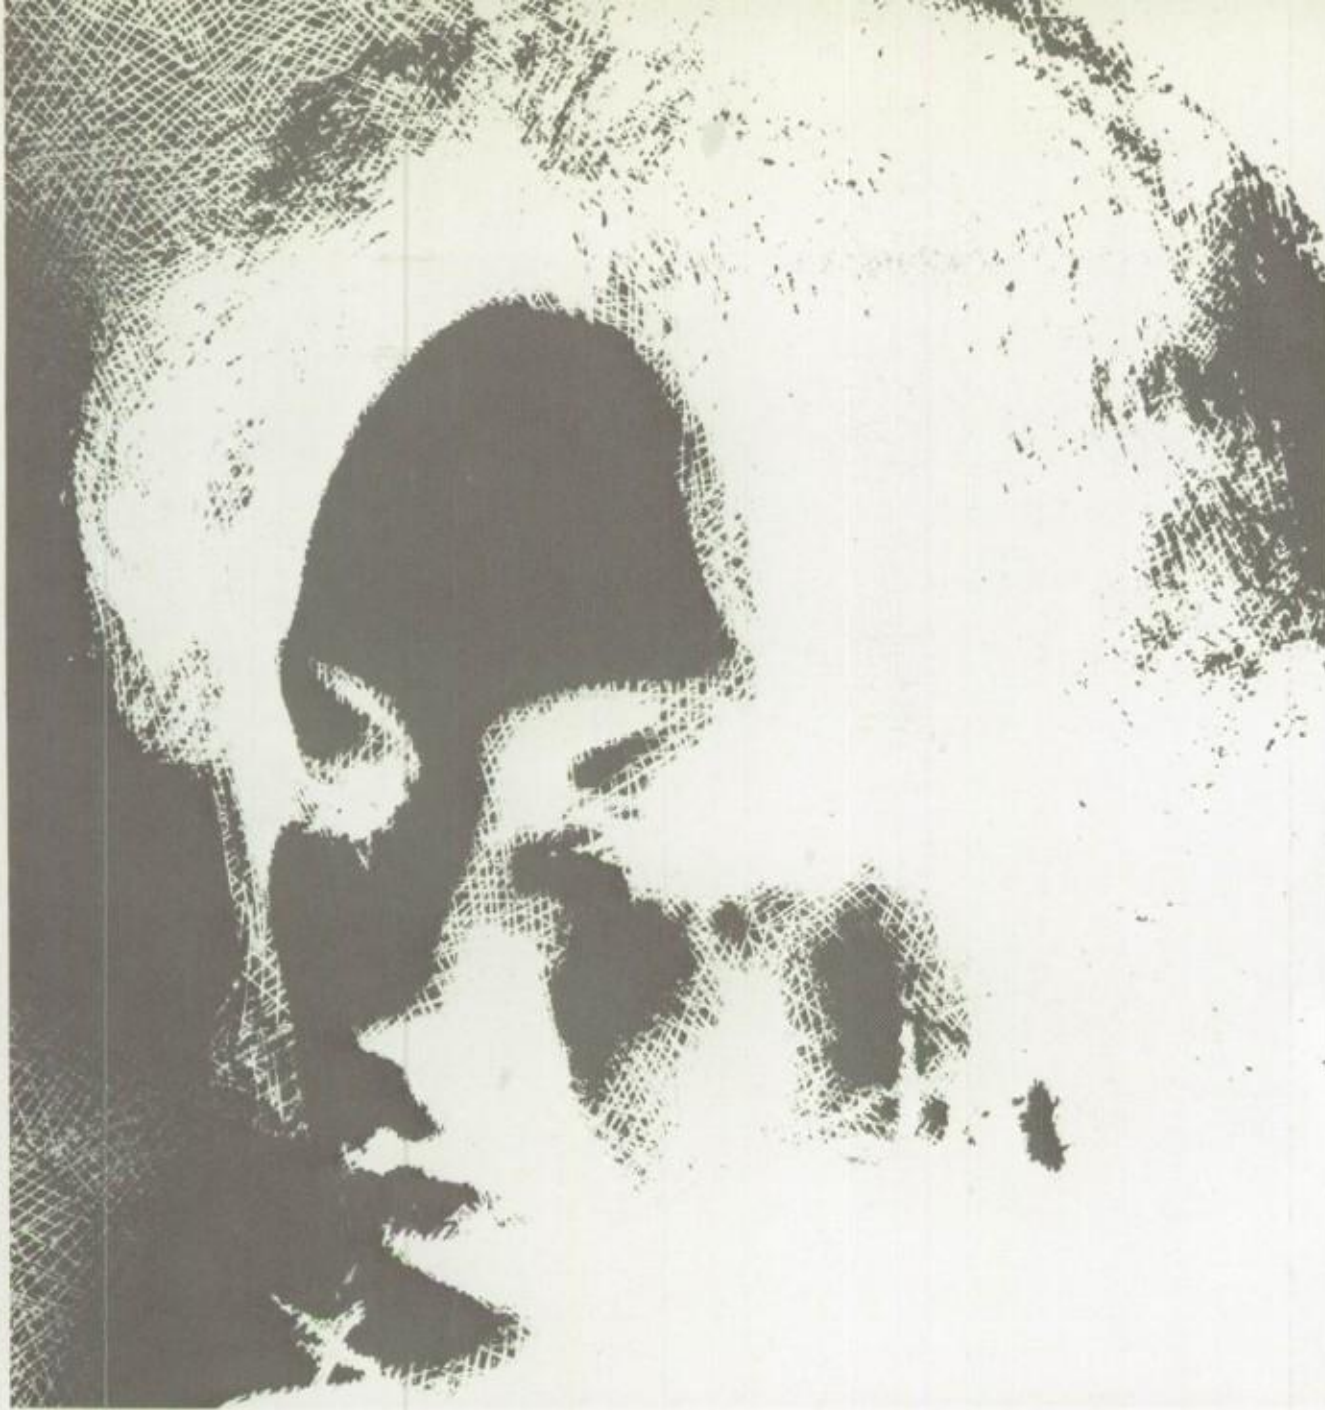

Graduating summa cum laude were Carol Coursey, Lisa Graham, Gary Huff, Allyn Mann, Katherine Rone, Mark Stanton and Ann Woodliff.

FACES

The Faces section, formerly called the Class section, contains photographs of both faculty and Senior High students. The section groups them by class, allowing the classes' activities to unfold in one place in the yearbook.

We regret that for various reasons inherent in yearbook work, a photo may not be shown. This is usually attributed to failure to return proofs or failure to have a photo taken. Efforts have been made to remedy that situation.

Administration, Board Set Policy, Seek Quality

Setting guidelines for running a school can be a difficult task, especially when there are many diverse interests at that school. Rising to the challenge, the Board of Directors, coupled with the front office, settled grave problems, planned future expansions and listened to students voicing their troubles. Through the year, whatever the occasion, someone from the front office, counsellor's office or even the board was available to lend aid to rectify the situation.

Interrupted at an early summer meeting, these Board members graciously posed for a photo. Several members were absent due to vacations. The full membership of the Board for 1974 included President Gus Primos, Vice-president Ben Puckett, Secretary William Spotts, Assistant Secretary Robert King, Treasurer O. B. Walton, and Assistant Treasurer Chandler Clover. Other members included Glenn Clark, Dr. William Cook, Dr. Marshall Fortenberry, Dr. Earl Fyke, Jr., Farris Gibbs, Barney Jacks, Paul King, Leslie Lampton, Dick Liddell, B.B. McClendon, Jr., Dr. J.O. Manning, Sam Riddell, D.L. Simmons, Jr., Dr. William Warner, and Calvin L. Wells.

Maintenance Crew Spreads Happiness

Wherever people go, so go litter and trash. Without the efforts of a small group keeping the environment clean, the atmosphere would soon become unfit for presentation to either students or visitors. This small group of affectionately known janitors consists of John Bell, Raye Shaw, Birdie Bratton, and Taylor Morris. The building and grounds maintenance is their responsibility, and their job is done well.

Senior Class Leads the Way

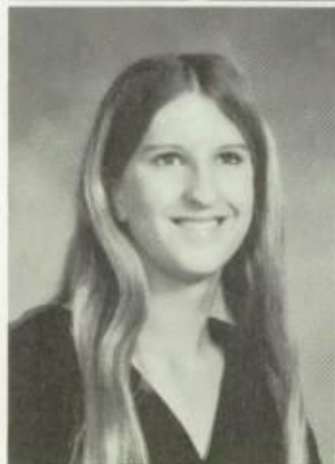

As the class of '74 began their last year at Prep it seemed as if graduation was just another word, but soon it became a reality. Seniors remember all the football games preceeded by boogie times at pep rallies, and the enthusiasm of Homecoming which ended in another float flop as the lowly Sophs took the crown. Christmas was not far off, and Santa's visit to the Christmas Dance brought much excitement. Mrs. Fitz's International Relations Banquet soon followed as did endless English and Chemistry projects and various term papers. When spring arrived, many seniors endured a twenty-eight hour bus ride to the slopes of Breckinridge, Colorado. April came on strong with continuous Senior parties. All stopped with Graduation, the dance, and the breakfast.

Cherish—it's the word the '74 Juniors will think of when they remember that very special "middle" year of high school. At the beginning of the year, John Geary was elected president of the class. Also Mrs. Norton and Coach Bass were elected Junior sponsors. Thoughts of sports, victory dances, Homecoming, ordering and receiving class rings, raising money for the Junior-Senior Prom with the help of the "foosball" table, activity period, friends, half time shows, the seemingly endless tests, papers, projects, those "unforgettable teachers, more friends—all of this, and more, will be retained in the minds of these youth for a long time.

Yes, memories of those "good ole school days" will remain with them always. And from their experiences of working, learning, and being together, these eleventh graders will move on. They will move ahead, applying the past, to the today, for a better tomorrow.

The Junior sponsors and officers are John Geary, president; Charles Bolian, treasurer; Trish Coleman, vice-president; Mrs. Norton, Mr. Bass; sponsors.

Shows Promise

The sophomores showed a unique unity this year that helped establish themselves as true Patriots. The members of this class played important roles in academic, athletic, theatrical, and community activities. Frances Rone and Bert McCuiston, president and vice-president, led the sophomores diligently. Sophomore student council members accomplished much, including the donation of fifty dollars to the William F. Bond Home.

The first homecoming for the sophomores was highly successful, with hard work earning a first place in float competition. Athletic endeavors revealed great potential, with several lettermen in various sports. Academic promise shone from several areas. The Sophomores unforgettable first year showed they had promise for the future.

The Sophomore class was led to new heights by vice president Bert McCuiston, president Frances Rone and sponsor Mrs. Russell.

JUNIOR HIGH

These pages reveal the activities of the Junior High students. Endeavors in journalism, athletics, government present themselves. Also included is a section of Junior High classes, broken down by grade.

Junior High Student Council Continues Policies

The Junior High Student Council, headed by Miss Jan Worthen, sponsored several dances through the year. These dances were held after games and during the Christmas season. The council used the proceeds from the Christmas dance to sponsor a project at the Willard

Bond home for Men.

The year began with a workshop at Prep, during which Nancy Adams was elected president, Tommy Dunbar voted vice president, Linda Smith selected as secretary, and Gary Mounger chosen as treasurer.

Declaration Staff Issues Junior High News

The 1974 Declaration got an early start on the year with a workshop before school began. Staff members were instructed in the art of writing news articles, headlines and cutlines. Feature writing was also covered.

Plans were made to edit a paper at least twice a month, though once or twice this timetable proved to be unobtainable. Eleven issues were published during the year. The final issue, containing the class will and prophecy had a special effect applied. The cover was a collage of photos of Junior high school students.

The paper sponsor was Mrs. Morgan, and the editor was Patty Duggar.

Inspirational Thoughts Start Each Day

Each morning a short devotional was given by a student over the junior high intercom. Directed by the Morning Watch committee, these inspirational periods provide food for thought during the day. The committee consists of executive directors and members. The executive chairman was Margaret Evans. Other committee members were Linda Smith, Gray Mounger, Anne Hurst and Kim Coffman. Sponsor Mrs. Ketchum stated that response was good as many students participated in the program. The committee sponsored a Christmas project as an outside activity.

Spirit Runs High As Cheerleaders Cry Success

Tryouts were held in the spring before a panel of judges for those girls interested in becoming cheerleaders for the upcoming school year. The student body then voted on the final eight.

The girls practiced often during the summer to perfect their technique. They also painted signs for the games to help boost spirit, as well as making pin-ons and leading cheers at the pep rallies.

Also evident at games were the pep squad girls. They led students in cheers, helping the cheerleaders.

Junior High Athletics Continues Winning Tradition

The Prep junior high football team posted a 5-1 record this year as they swept almost all the competition before them. On January tenth, they held their football banquet, presenting awards and letters to those deserving players.

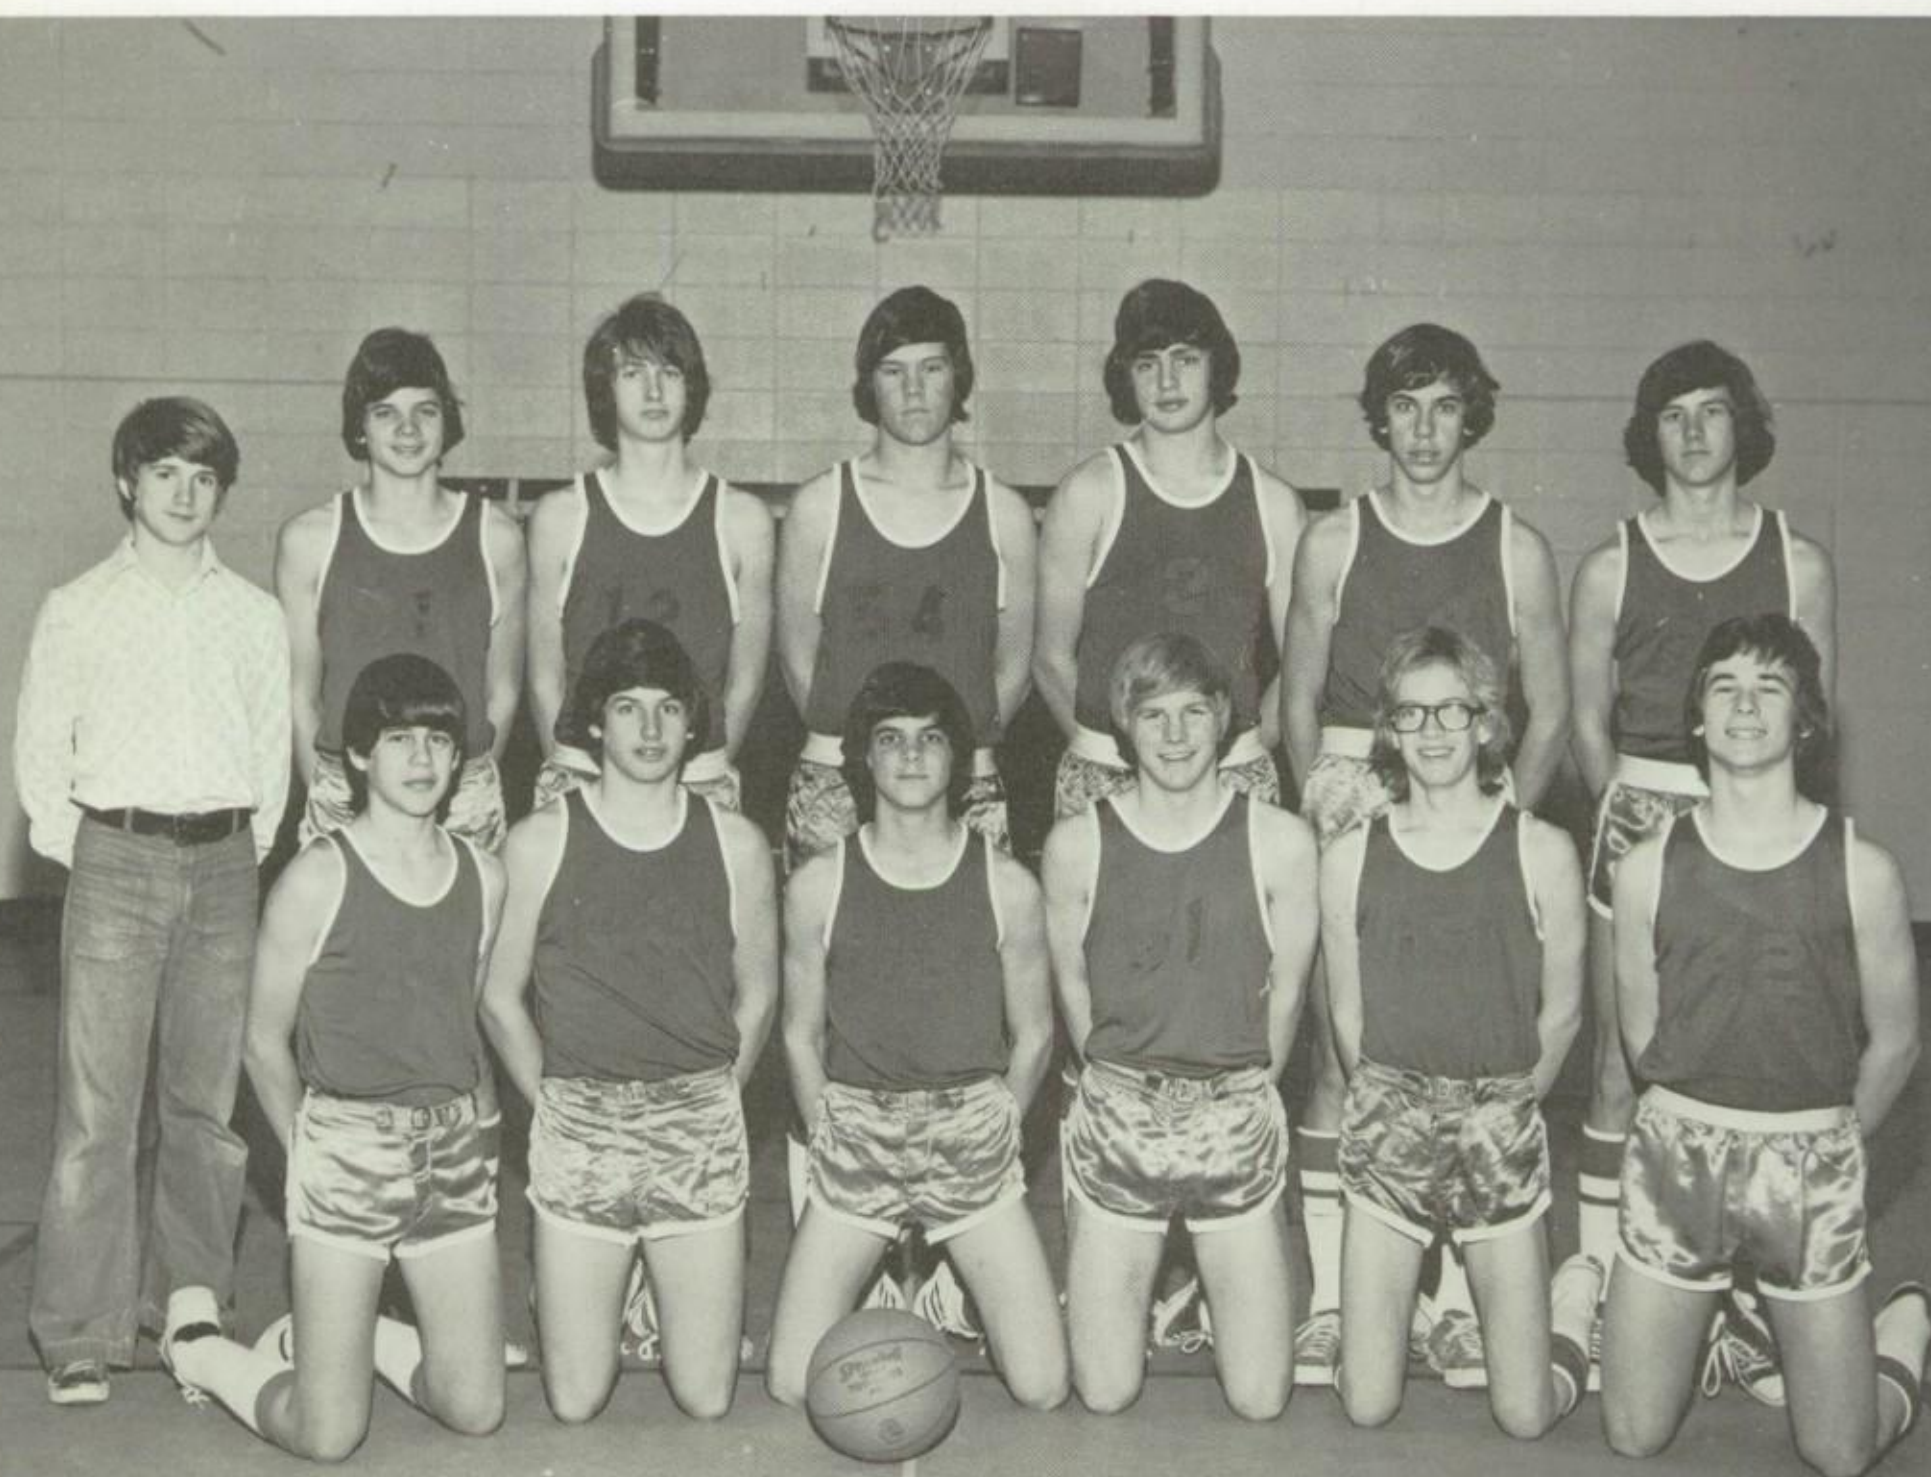

The junior high basketball team earned a 15-2 record as they, under the direction of Coach Houston Vaughn, pushed the opposition around the boards and down the court.

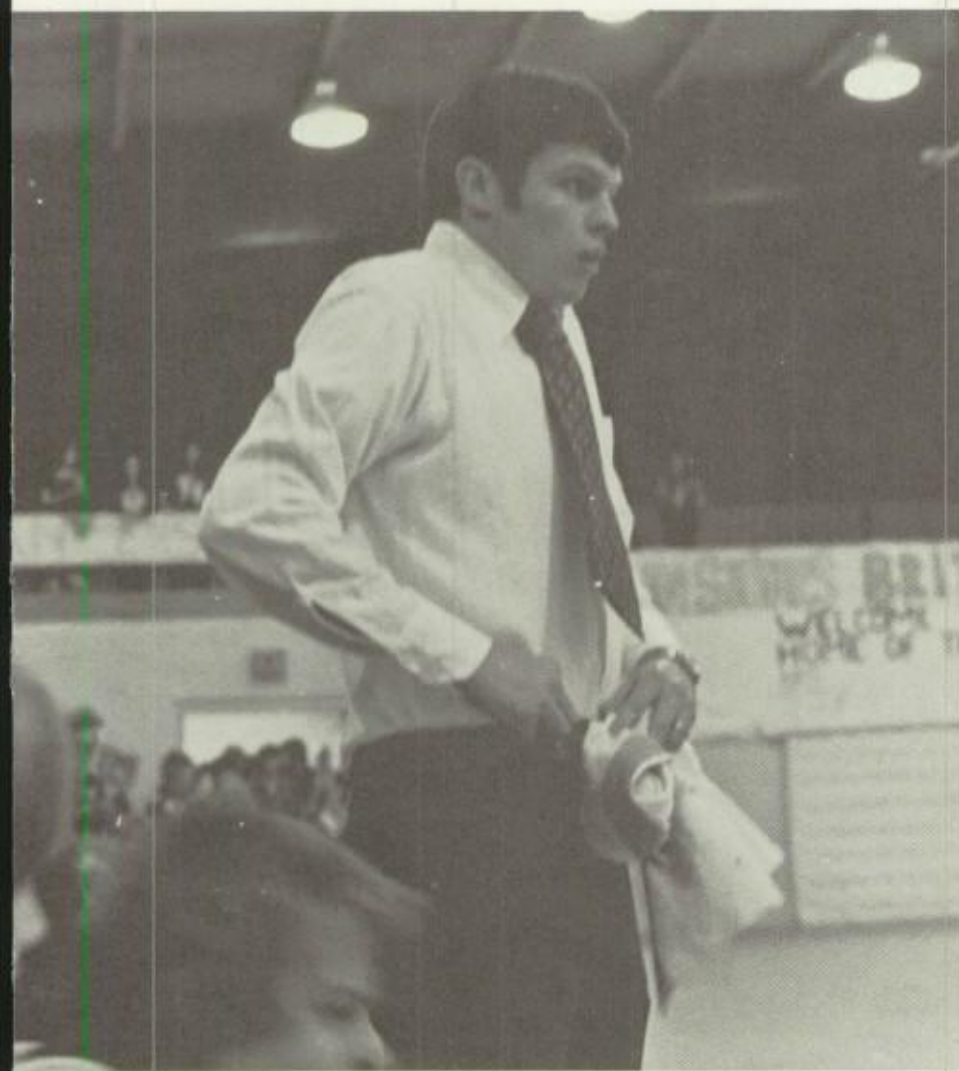

The track team continued the winning tradition as they outraced the opposition. Tennis players competed with the varsity team in their matches.

Derby Day Recreation Held For Third Year

After a restless first part of the day, seventh and eighth graders scurried off to change for their third Derby Day, held each spring. Volleyball, egg tosses, balloon races, three-legged races, human pyramids and water chairs filled the afternoon with excitement.

Bottom left: Tim Jacobs picks up Alisen Swayze's chair after she fell from it. Opposite page, top left: Shippy Sanders serves the ball in a volleyball game. Top right: Alisen Swayze tops a pyramid. Back row: Mark Carraway, William Sykes, Harry Boadwee, Bill Green, and Paul Schaefer. Not shown: Michelle Wilkes.

On May tenth, Junior High Class Day was held. Similar to the senior high event, the junior high occasion saw the presentation of awards for academic excellence and subject area scholarship, as well as class favorites.

After the ceremony, ninth graders left to go to the reservoir for their class day picnic, which included activities such as volleyball and horseshoes.

Random Junior High Glimpses

Life is never all work, nor is it all play. There is a median somewhere in between which allows us to achieve some results, yet not overwork ourselves to the extent we cannot function at our peak. Oftentimes work can be made enjoyable, as many junior high students discovered. Using their spare time, some found gainful occupation of their time. Others found that those hours of dull classwork can be made enjoyable. Right: Paula Wallace, Beth Vianey and Liz Rowan tend and use the school bookstore. Below: Social Studies students dress up on European Day. Opposite top: Derby Day afforded many the opportunity to relax at school. Bottom middle: But classwork always seemed to loom on the horizon. Bottom right: A banquet in English gave all the excuse to dress as peasants.

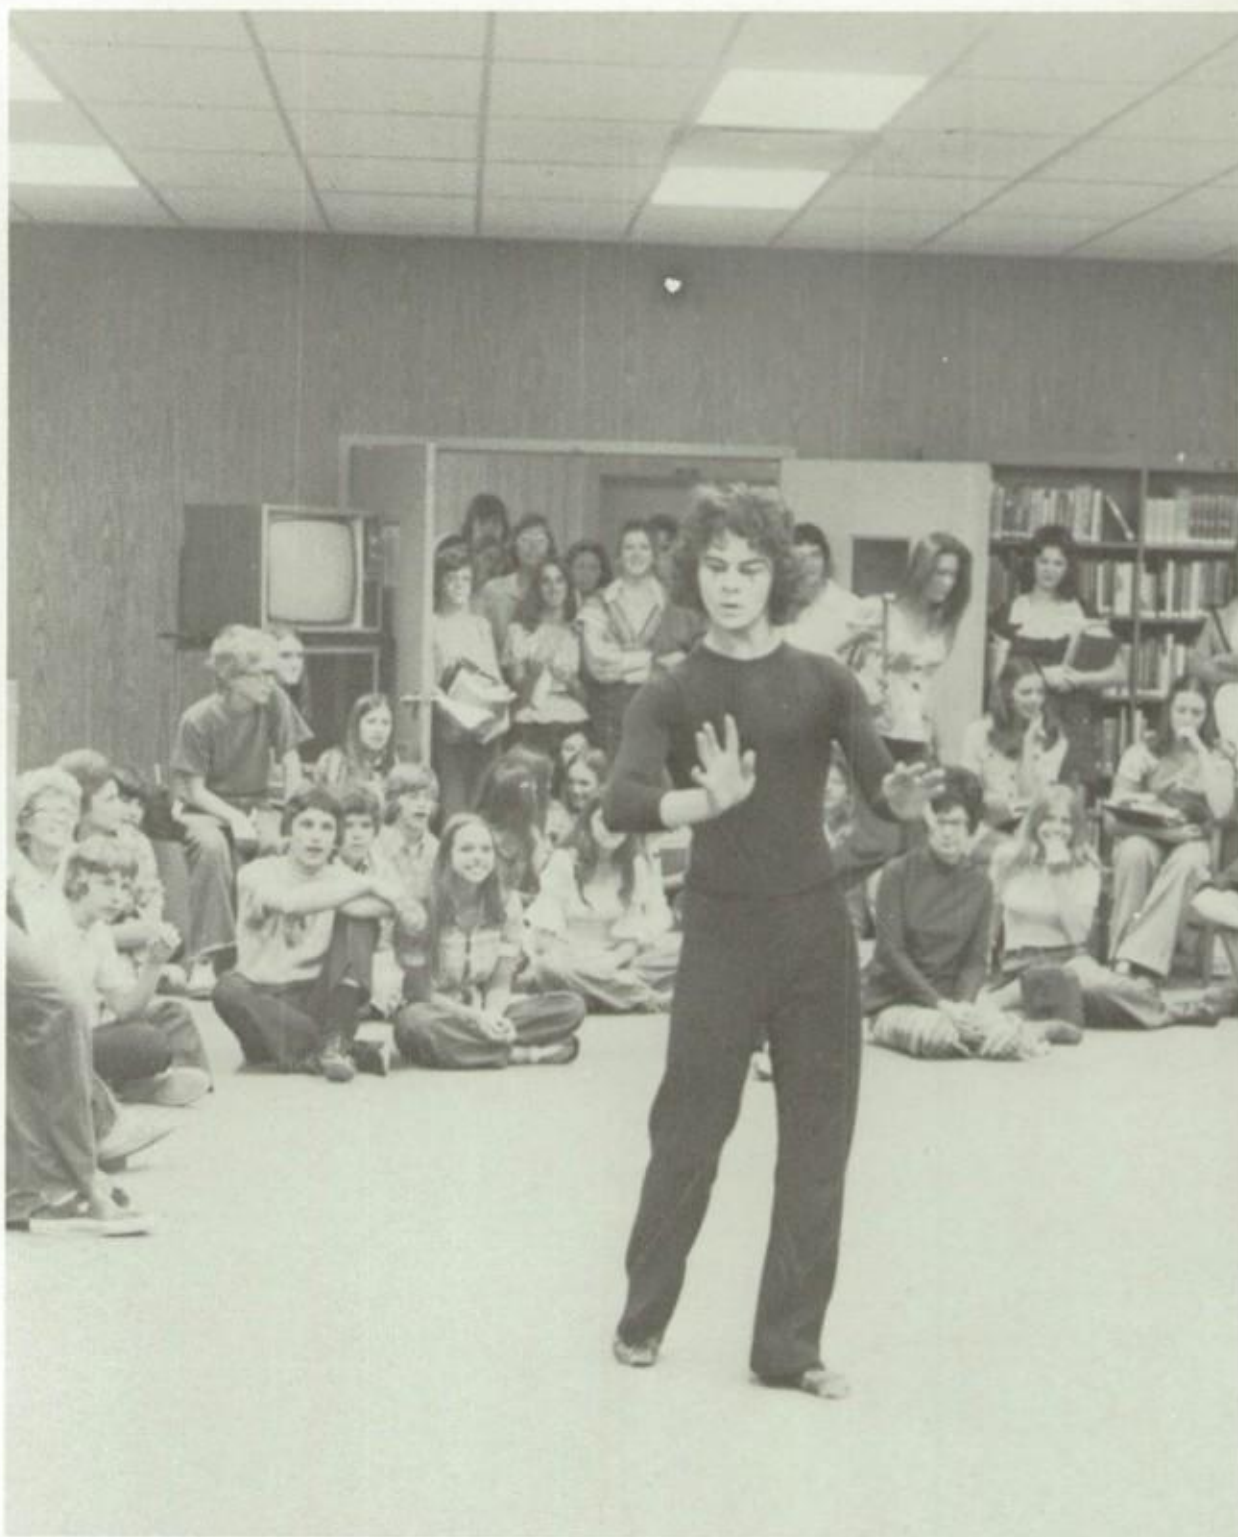

Seniors of '77 Lead Junior High

The ninth grade class had a memorable last year in the junior high school. Under the leadership of Diane Hudgins and Carol Montjoy, they supported their winning football team, attended parties and dances, and backed the student council in a project at the Willard Bond Home.

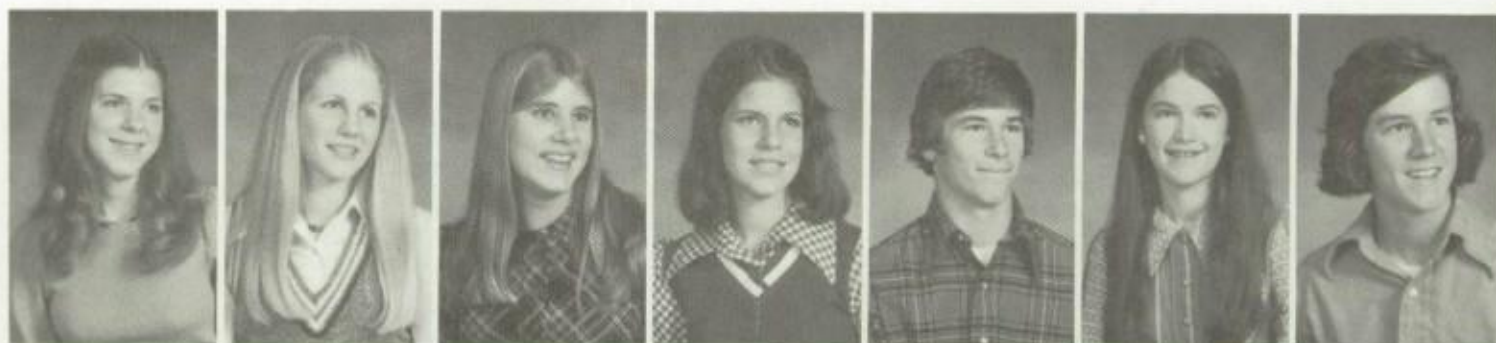

More important, they set goals for future students to follow—high aims for academic excellence and school service. They existed as one body, unified, a group dedicated to both leadership and enjoyment in their last year in junior high.

The year climaxed for many with the presentation of awards at honor day, also known as Class Day. As the year came to a close, they looked back with fond memories of their junior high days, while looking forward to their coming days as senior high students.

Many students used their lunch period to take a peek at Keith Berger as he performed for students in the library during Arts Festival Week.

Eighth Grade Enjoys Year of Studies

Perhaps the most memorable event of the year for the eighth graders was the Evangeline trip to Louisiana on March 7th and 8th. The purpose of the trip was to help the eighth graders relate the historical account of Evangeline with the fictional account. The trip included stops in Lafayette, Avery Island, St. Martinsville, Oakley, and Rosedown.

Class president Bobby Mounger and vice-president Mark Roberts led the eighth graders in many other areas of Junior High activities, such as bake sales, sports, dances, Red Neck Day and the Science Fair.

Class of '79 Joins Patriot Ranks

It's a new beginning for the 7th graders as they enter their first year of Junior High School at Jackson Prep. Leaving their childhood years behind, each one is faced with the challenge of maturing and finding their own place in the world around them. The 7th grade provides this foundation on which to grow and learn. Each succeeding year will promise change as each one creates new and lasting relationship with others. The class of '79 will surely prove to be an asset to the student body of Jackson Prep.

The head-strong, able-minded leaders of the 7th grade led their class through a gruelling year to a triumphant finish. They are from left: sitting; Lynn Spotts; Polly Davis, Pres.; Sally McRoberts. Standing, Kendall Garraway and Jimmy Nix.

Diversity Effects Respect, Cooperation, And Benefit

Many people exist on this earth, each with his own unique traits. Each has his own lifestyle, train of thought, personality and interests. This individuality carries over into the goals which each has. Seldom is there a common objective. Each person has earned his niche in the world. And each has his own true area of excellence, whether it be brute force or meditative thought. The effect of this diversity is that each person has to have some respect for the others. When challenges present themselves, individuals tend to co-operate to a greater extent, and the community reaps the benefits. The potential for productive interaction exists, the problem is to utilize it for the greatest advantage.

Through the years spent at Prep, a student learns that there are many people in the world, each with his own idiosyncrasies. Hopefully, the diversity of people and activities at Prep can prepare students for their encounter with the world beyond the chain link fence.

Through my years in high school, I have been greatly impressed by the literary works of one man in particular. These works are not world renown, but do carry a significant impact. The author maintains there is no social significance, but rather that his major work is merely a tale written for his own amusement as well as the amusement of anyone who might read it.

I speak of the English author-professor James Ronald Ruell Tolkien, whose works have fascinated countless other Americans. J.R.R. Tolkien authored The Hobbit, The Lord Of The Rings trilogy, and several texts on literature. He died September 2, 1973 before completing his prequel to the trilogy, The Silmarillion.

Presented here is a sample of his work. Its importance lies in the relevance to the dissolution of the graduating class of Jackson Prep.

BILBO'S LAST SONG (at the Grey Havens)

Day is ended, dim my eyes, but journey long before me lies.
Farewell, friends! I hear the call.
The ship's beside the stony wall.
Foam is white and waves are gray;
beyond the sunset leads my way.
Foam is salt, the wind is free;
I hear the rising of the Sea.

Farewell, friends! The sails are set,
the wind is east, the moorings fret.
Shadows long before me lie,
beneath the ever-bending sky,
but islands lie behind the Sun
that I shall raise ere all is done;
lands there are to west of West,
where night is quiet and sleep is rest.

Guided by the Lonely Star, beyond the utmost harbour-bar
I'll find the havens fair and free, and beaches of the Starlit Sea.
Ship, my ship! I seek the West, and fields and mountains ever blest.
Farewell to Middle-earth at last.
I see the Star above your mast!

J.R.R. Tolkien
